Abraham Martin Honored

Monument to First Scottish Settler,
First King's Pilot On the St.
Lawrence, and First Farmer
On the Plains of Abraham Unveiled.

At Quebec recently the Hon. Athanasius David, Provincial Secretary in the Quebec Cabinet, officiated at the unveiling of a monument erected by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in memory of Abraham Martin, who was the first known Canadian of Scottish descent and the first King's pilot on the St. Lawrence River. The Plains of Abraham received their name from him, he receiving a grant of the land from Champlain in 1617. The unveiling of the monument, a handsome granite shaft seven feet high, surmounted by a globe supported by thistles, was an important event and was attended by a large number of prominent citizens and political representatives. The sturdy monument is further acclaimed by Andrew Patterson, who says:—

ABRAHAM MARTIN, Auld Scotland many a hero boasts From John o' Groats to Wigtown's coasts, Both Lowland lads and Highland hosts That wear the tartan; But now another seeks your toasts, Old Abrah'm Martin.

But what pretence has he to fame, That we should celebrate his name, And thus in stone and bronze proclaim His style and story?

A threefold plea can Martin claim— To all this glory.

The first of Scotia's sons was he To cross Atlantic's stormy sea— True pioneers of liberty, Giving their best That this Dominion fair might be Blessing and blest.

See in his wake the glorious band, MacKenzies, Frasers, foremost stand, MacDonalds, too, in high command, And James McGill, Mountstephen and Strathcona grand— 'Twould please fill.

The first was he to till this plain, Now sacred to that fierce campaign When heroes fell, but not in vain In glorious strife.

O Canada, thine was the gain, Renewed thy life! He was the first to mark the tides, The rocks, the shoals St. Lawrence hides—

The mariner in him confides And bans his fears; "The ship," he cries, "in safety rides When Martin steers."

Though fate 'mong strangers cast his lot, He ne'er forgot he was a Scot, Thrifty and shrewd he was, I wot, Canty and gaudy, Proud of the nickname that he got, "Abrah'm l'Ecosais."

Let us whate'er our race or creed, This ancient Scot's example heed, And give the best that's in our breed, And thus our best to him we'll pay. A Canada in word and deed, High-souled and free.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of the little ones as is the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of gear so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

From Artist to Foreign Minister. On her return to Chicago, Miss Jane Addams told how she recently met, in the lobby of her hotel at Budapest, a Hungarian whose acquaintance she had made at Zurich in 1919. At that time he was a struggling artist—an amateur who was a refugee from his native country and was earning a living by painting Swiss mountains and lakes and selling them to tourists. He was also studying commercial engraving. When she came across him again at Budapest Miss Addams discussed the political situation with him, and was surprised at the knowledge he showed of public questions, especially in the field of foreign affairs. Finally she remarked to him: "For an artist, you are singularly well informed on politics." He replied, with a smile: "Well, I ought to be, I suppose. You see, I am the minister for foreign affairs."

It was Count Banffy, the Hungarian foreign minister.

ILLINOIS HOLDS FIRST PLACE.

Illinois greenhouse men have more square feet of space under glass than has any other single state. Illinois ranks first, with 19,626,091 square feet of space under glass, according to a recent census report. In fact, more than half of the total area under glass in the greenhouses of the United States on January 1, 1920, was reported in five states. The other four states are: Ohio, 19,397,183 square feet; New York, 18,289,628; Pennsylvania, 16,923,355; and Massachusetts, 12,98,023. Illinois sold $9,578,600 worth of flowers and plants in 1919, taking rank at the top of the list.

HOOR OF TERROR IN RUSSIA

When Women Wait for the Call of Death From the Drearly Cells in Petrograd.

The dingy interior of the headquarters of the extraordinary commission in Petrograd, with its bare stairs and passages, is an eerie place at all times of the year, but never is its somber, sorrow-laden gloom so intense as on a December afternoon when dusk is sinking into darkness.

While we made our preparations, there sat in one of the inner chambers at No. 2 Gorohovaya, on wooden planks which took the place of beds, a group of women, from thirty to forty in number, their faces undistinguishable in the growing darkness. The room was overheated and nauseatingly stuffy, but the patient figures paid no heed, nor appeared to care whether it were hot or cold, dark or light. A few chatted in undertones, but most of them sat motionless and silent, waiting, endlessly waiting.

The terror hour was not yet—it came only at 7 each evening. Then each victim knew that if the heavy door was opened and her name called, she would pass out into eternity, for executions were carried out in the evening and the bodies removed at night.

At 7 o'clock, all talk, all action ceased. The white-faced women sat still, eyes fixed on the heavy folding door. When it creaked every figure became rigid. A moment of ghastly, intolerable suspense, a silence that could be felt, and in the silence—a name. And when the name was spoken, every figure—but one—would imperceptibly relax. Here and there a lip would twitch, here and there a smile would flicker. But no one would break the dread silence. One of their number was doomed.

The figure that bore the name would rise, move slowly, with unnatural gait, tottering along the narrow aisle between the plank couches. Some would look up and some would look down, and some would pray, or mutter, "Tomorrow, maybe!" Or there would be a frantic shriek, a brutal struggle, and worse than death would fill the chamber.—St. Paul Oakes (British Secret Intelligence Service), in Harper's Magazine.

Making a Fire. Some months ago the press reported a man who, while hunting in the wilds of Canada, lost his way, and having nothing to eat but raw meat, and no fire, starved almost to death before he was rescued. And only recently a freshman from Syracuse university was hunting in the Adirondacks and, losing his way and having no fire, froze nearly to death.

Had they been brought up in the South before the Civil war and been accustomed, as I was, to hunting with a muzzle-loading shotgun, with paper for wadding, and had been accustomed to setting the paper on fire after firing the gun, they would have had no trouble in starting a fire, writes a Mississippi correspondent of the New York Times. During the Civil war, when a boy of about seventeen, a lieutenant and I were sent into north Mississippi, and on reaching Tallahatchie river in the night and finding the river nearly level with its banks, no way to cross and no one in calling distance, the weather being cool, we had to have a fire. I discharged one chamber of my pistol, cut a piece out of my shirt tail, put a blank cartridge in my pistol, rammed the cloth down on it, fired it, and in a short while had a good fire.

It would seem that the men referred to never thought of such a recourse. Whether they did or not, this may remind some weary, hungry sportsman how he may start a fire.

Stiffness

It is astonishing how quickly Minard's Liniment relieves stiffness and lameness.

Gives Great Relief

Mrs. A. B. Calcutt, 26 Park Ave., Guelph, Ont., writes: "My husband has used Minard's Liniment frequently, always with good results. Friends of mine use it for rheumatism and tell me that it gives great relief."

Mrs. Fred Johnson, Box 735, Thosd, Ont.—"I suffered very much with stiffness in my back last winter, was advised to try Minard's Liniment, and was relieved immediately after first application. I purchased it using it and it has entirely gone. This winter I can go out without tying up my back and give the credit to Minard's Liniment. Have told several people about Minard's, and where are using it."
