

Resignation

Serenely, I fold my hands and wait, Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea; I wait no more 'gainst Time's Fate, For to my own shall come to me. Asleep, awake, by night or day, The friends I seek are seeking me; No wind can drive my bark astray, Nor change the tide of Destiny. The stars come nightly to the sky, The tidal wave unto the sea; Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high, Can keep my own away from me. Serene, I fold my hands and wait, Whate'er the storms of life may be; Faith guides me up to Heaven's gate, And love will bring my own to me. —John Burroughs.

St. Joseph's Answer

(Concluded) Josephine was troubled over the fact that her brother's feet had received a thorough soaking, and as he already had a cold she feared he would be sick as a result of wading through the water. The matter was reported to Mrs. Miller and she ordered a hot foot bath at once. But what Josephine had apprehended came about, for by the next morning Gabriel was very ill. For days he tossed in fever and the doctor stated that pneumonia was his ailment. Poor Josephine was heart-broken when she learned that the physician after a few days pronounced her brother's case hopeless and his recovery unlooked for. St. Joseph's feast was approaching and this thought encouraged the little girl's heavy heart. Every spare minute was spent before the tabernacle and then at the foot of her dear saint's altar. With tear-filled eyes, Josephine begged and pleaded that Gabriel would be spared, and as she gazed at the infant tenderly folded in His protector's arms, she gained confidence. "Dear, good St. Joseph, you must love all children, I'm sure," she whispered, "for the sake of the dear little Jesus. Do please ask Him to spare my brother. Oh, I'll miss him so if he dies! But I must be resigned, so dear St. Joseph, help me to say, 'Thy will be done, with all my heart.' It was the day before the Feast of St. Joseph. Gabriel was dying—he might pass away at any time," said the doctor. Despite her great sorrow, Josephine carried a garland of lilies from the garden that she and her brother had always carefully tended, to the church for the saint's altar, which was being decked for his own day. With unusual fervor she prayed before the beloved statue of the day. Gabriel had received the last Sacraments. His parents were sure he would die, but they were resigned to God's will. Still Josephine did not abandon hope. St. Joseph had heard her prayers lots of times. She would keep on praying. So she reminded him the morrow would be his Feast day. Oh, how lovely it would be if he granted her request on that occasion! "It was very late that night when Josephine was aroused from her sleep by her mother. A change had come over Gabriel, and the end must now be at hand. Sobbing, the child followed Mrs. Miller to her brother's room. His parents with Joseph and Josephine knelt around the bed. The patient lay quietly as though asleep. After about five minutes, Gabriel opened his eyes. He smiled in recognition at the little group. Then he said joyously, "I'm better now. I had the loveliest dream. St. Joseph—I'm sure it was St. Joseph—he came and stood near the bed, and he told me I was cured. And I feel, oh, I feel so well!" Josephine beamed with joy. "Oh, I knew St. Joseph would listen to me!" She glanced at the little clock near by. It was past midnight. "Oh, look there, mother! If he didn't answer our prayer on his beautiful Feast day, too!" —The Tidings.

Pains in the Back

Are symptoms of a weak, torpid or stagnant condition of the kidneys or liver, and are a warning it is extremely hazardous to neglect, so important is a healthy action of these organs. They are commonly attended by loss of energy, lack of courage, and sometimes by gloomy foreboding and despondency. "I was taken ill with kidney trouble, and became so weak I could scarcely get around. I took medicine without benefit, and finally decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After the first bottle I felt so much better that I continued its use, and six bottles made me a new woman. When my little girl was a baby, she would not sleep anything on her stomach, and we gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla which cured her." Mrs. Thomas is ne. Wallaceburg, Ont.

Uncle Phil's Umbrella

"I'm sorry, John, but I can see no way out. We can't send you back to the seminary next year. You know Dad failed in business just before he died, and we are left penniless." Mrs. Shea looked tenderly at her son as she spoke, and her mother-eyes seemed to say how much it cost her to cause him this added sorrow. Both their hearts had been wrenched beyond endurance already that morning for only a short hour ago they had seen husband and father given to the earth. John gazed thoughtfully at his brother and sister before he spoke. Paul was fifteen and Mary was his junior by two years. It would be several years before they could be of any assistance. No, his mother was right, there was no way out—why hadn't he thought of that before? "But isn't there Uncle Phil's legacy?" he asked. "He left us everything, didn't he?" "Yes," answered the mother, "but what became of the bulk of his money is a mystery. All we could find was two thousand dollars, and that has been spent." A heavy silence fell upon the group as John wrestled interiorly with the problem which confronted him. Finally, he raised his head as though he had reached a decision. "Mother, you are right," he said. "I can't go back; I must stay at home and work." "And lose your vocation?" "I hope not. In a couple of years Paul will be able to take care of you and then I can resume my studies." "But what will Father Fannon say?" "That I have done the right thing under the circumstances." Here, Mary, who had been a silent but interested auditor, interrupted. "Perhaps God has a way out. I'm going to ask the Poor Souls to find it for you. They are good at finding things, you know." "You dear!" cried the mother, embracing her, "and we had forgotten God entirely!" "Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings," said her brother. "Who knows but that her suggestion was inspired?" "Quien sabe!" echoed Paul, who had just commenced to study Spanish.

It was May when the above conference was held and the days that followed passed so rapidly that the month of the Poor Souls was almost at hand, but still the prayers of the Sheas remained unanswered. Mrs. Shea had sold her fine home to satisfy her husband's creditors, and the family had moved into the less pretentious residence which had been formerly occupied by Uncle Phil. Halloween was a week off when Paul, who was as indiscriminate about his reading as a goat about his diet, brought home "The Surprise House" from the library. It proved to be an interesting tale about a queer old lady who had distributed her fortune in most unheard of places around her home, and it told of the exciting time which her heir had hunting for it. Paul's imagination was fired and he ran to his mother with his idea.

WHOOPIING COUGH Her 3 Children Had It.

This disease begins like a simple cold in the head that rapidly goes to the chest. The cough is at first short and sharp, but gradually increases in severity and occurs in sudden spasms. Often vomiting follows a severe attack of coughing, and sometimes there is nose-bleed. Mothers should never neglect the treatment of whooping cough, for it is much more serious than most people think, as it may be followed by some grave lung trouble, such as bronchitis, pneumonia or consumption, since the suffering power of resistance are often greatly weakened by the violent and exhausting cough. On the first sign of a "whoop," Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup should be administered as it helps to clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucus and phlegm. Mrs. Burton Leopold, New Ross, N.S., writes:—"My three children had the whooping cough so bad last winter, I thought they would choke. I tried many different remedies, but none of them seemed to help. At last I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and I was greatly surprised to see how quickly it helped them. I shall always recommend your wonderful remedy to others." Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is 25c and 50c a bottle at all druggists and dealers. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"Mother! Mother!" he shouted in great excitement, "do you s'pose that Uncle Phil hid his money somewhere about the house? You know he was a queer old duck, and somewhat of a miser, they say." "The house has been searched twice, but if you care to look—" Paul did not wait for his mother to finish, but flinging back a hasty "Thank you," he set about his self-appointed task without delay. He started with the collar and went methodically through the house to the attic. To be Continued.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. The component parts of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are indicated to do away with palpitation and other heart weaknesses and thus strengthen both the heart and nerves. Mrs. F. X. Ganshies, Tibury, Ont., writes:—"During 36 years past, I was greatly troubled with palpitation of the heart, and sometimes so much so that those around me thought I would die at any moment, being so much weakened by the sharpness of the pulsations which would last sometimes up to three hours. I had the doctor who kept me taking his medicine to overcome the ailment, but to no effect. There was no change at all for the better. Two years ago a friend advised me to use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I began to use them at once, and at the second box I began to feel some relief, so I continued to use them according to directions, and now I am perfectly well. Before using the pills, I never weighed 100 pounds, now I weigh 117, and feel as if I were young although I am over 66 years of age." Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
