Kentucky papers are bragging about a beet that measured two feet. Poo! That's nothing. There's many a "beet" in this section of the human vegetable kingdom who has two feet that make about a yard.

A South End woman keeps only one servant to do her work instead of two. She says help is always leaving, and when you are left alone it's much easier to do the work of one servant than of two.

A sailor in the congregation, thinking the preacher was too slow in making his point, shouted: "Come, sir, crowd a little more sail there." The preacher pleasantly replied: "I will as soon as I have weathered this point." The sailor and the congregation smiled at satisfaction.

A factious boy asked one of his playmates how a hardware dealer differed from a bootmaker. The latter, after a moment, replied: "Yes, I think he does, but I think he hollers in different places."

Tom Donovan was severely hurt. His friend, Tim Murphy, heard the doctors talking of the injuries. "He had," they said, "a compound, comminuted, comminuted fracture of the tipula, a stellated fracture of the cranium, and an abrasion of the os frontis." Tim listened awe-stricken. Phil Donohue came quickly to know how Tom was. "Bad enough!" the doctors (having been praised for their) have told me all about it. He's a dead man! All his Latin parts are wounded, and he won't live five minutes.

A severe cold settled in quick consumption. I bought two of Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam and the took them. They worked a complete change, and by its continuance she was completely restored to health." This is Mr. James T. Simply miraculous is all I can say of the effect of Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure in my case. An elderly lady writes this from Antigonish, N. S., who had suffered from pains in the back for twenty years. Sold by J. Wilson Goderich.

"Bless His Dear Heart."

In a very elegant palace car entered a weary faced poorly dressed woman with three little children—one a babe in her arms. A look of joy crept into her face as she settled down into one of the luxurians, but it was quickly dispelled as she was told by the conductor to go into the forward car.

A smile of amusement was seen on several faces as the frightened group hurried to enter one of the common cars. Upon one young face, however, there was a look which shamed the countenances of the others.

"Am't e," said the boy to the lady beside him, "I am going to carry my basket of fruit and this box of sandwiches to the poor woman in the next car. You are willing, of course?"

He spoke eagerly, but she answered: "Don't be foolish, dear; you may need them yourself; and perhaps the woman would not want to take them from you."

"No, I do not need them," he answered, decidedly, but in a low tone. "You know I had a hearty breakfast, and don't need a lunch. The woman looked hungry, auntie, and tired, too, with those three little babies clinging to her. I'll be back in a minute, auntie, I know my mother wouldn't like it if I didn't try to be kind to those who are poor or in trouble."

The worldly aunt brushed a tear from her eye after the boy left her, and said audibly, "Just like his dead mother."

About a minute later, as the conductor passed the mother and three children, he saw a pretty sight—the family feasting as perhaps they never done before; the dainty sandwiches were eagerly eaten, the fruit basket stood open.

The eldest child, with his mouth filled with bread and butter, said, "Was the pretty boy an angel, mamma?"

"No," answered the mother with a grateful look brightening her faded eyes, "but he is doing angels' work, bless his dear heart!"

And we, too, say, "Bless his dear heart!"
