LONDON KIWANIS IS KNOWN AFAR

International Secretary Cummings Lauds the Local Club "PEP" AT LOCAL MEETINGS

St. Thomas, Ingersoll and Toronto Members Present

Pep and the unquenchable spirit of Kiwanis predominated at the meeting of London, St. Thomas, Ingersoll and Toronto Kiwanians held in the Tecumseh House last evening. From the minute the London silver cornet "rube" band put in an appearance in the rotunda of the Tecumseh until they joined heartily in "Auld Lang Syne" at the close of a memorable evening there was something doing all the time. London Kiwanians have been responsible for some excellent entertainments, but never has there been an occasion when spontaneous merriment blended so well with addresses containing the gospel and philosophy of Kiwanis. London was put on the Kiwanis map when the local club was reorganized a few months ago; London by the meeting of last evening again demonstrated that it is the center of Kiwanis activity in Western Ontario—and a distinctly live wire center at that.

VISITORS HERE.
While the London Kiwanians were responsible for the arrangements of the gathering which were so successfully carried out, the presence of 60 St. Thomas, 45 Ingersoll Kiwanians and a small but energetic and enthusiastic contingent from Toronto aided most materially in making the affair go off as well as it did. Chet Gibson headed the St. Thomas contingent, while the Ingersoll men were under the chaperonage of Kiwanian Vernon Buchanan. The Toronto party included Fred Higgins, president of the Toronto club; Ross Teeter; James St. Clair, district trustee; Harry Lormer, of the intercity relations committee; Ed. Ranaby, district organizer; Jules Brazill and Cecil De Wolf Reid, district trustee, of Montreal.

The speaker of the evening was Kiwanian O. Sam Cummings, of Chicago, International Kiwanis secretary, and he delivered an excellent address, breathing the spirit of the movement which has made such phenomenal growth on the American continent since its inception seven years ago. Kiwanian E. B. Dennis was the silent booster of the evening and he donated three prizes, which were drawn for, as well as souvenir pocket notebooks for all present. The first prize, a Den-nistee safe, was won by Kiwanian Ed. Gairns, of London; the second prize, a handsome smoker's set, by President A. J. Mitchell, and the third prize, a framed picture, by Kiwanian Frank Morrow.

Kiwanian J. Bevan Hay occupied the chair and the big dining-room of the Tecumseh was filled with the guests, the dinner being served at 7:30. It was the largest gathering of the kind in the club's history.

MONTREAL GREETINGS.
DeWolf Reid, of Montreal, brought greetings from the Kiwanians of that city. Montreal was almost inclined to envy the activity in London, Ingersoll and St. Thomas and the excellent work already accomplished by these clubs.

The quartet from the London Kiwanians, "Rube" Band, then "The Old Family Toothbrush." It was a great effect, but the members all escaped assassination.

Kiwanian Fred Higgins, president of the Toronto club, said London had got away to a good start, but he urged consistent work to retain the advantage gained. He referred at considerable length to the international Kiwanis convention to be held at Cleveland in June at which Canadians will take a prominent part. International George Ross, of Toronto, an international trustee, said that he was very glad to see the London boys very close to his heart and was planning big things for Cleveland. It was hoped to have an eminent Canadian speaker, possibly a member of the Dominion Government, to speak to the convention during the Canadian hour, and as a background for his speech a Canadian pageant was suggested, in which Canadian history would be depicted from the earliest times to the present. It was thought that at least 1,000 Canadian Kiwanians would make the journey to Cleveland.

Kiwanian James St. Clair, of Toronto, acting on behalf of his club, then presented to President Mitchell a beautiful bouquet of roses, the gift of Toronto Kiwanians to Mrs. Miller as representation of the London club. The lion roared long and loudly for good old Toronto.

A GOOD TOWN.
In accepting the gift President Mitchell said he hoped the visitors would be impressed with the fact that London as the city really is—a good old town.

After Kiwanian Kenneth Murray had sung "Sweet Adeline" well enough to escape the fine Kiwanian Chet Gibson, of St. Thomas, told stories and said that while London might send a good representation to the Cleveland convention, St. Thomas would be there with just as much pep and enthusiasm. And the lion roared again for Chet and his St. Thomas colleagues.

Vernon Buchanan, of the Ingersoll club, said it was surely London's hour. The London club had done splendid service sponsoring the clubs in St. Thomas and Ingersoll and as a result of that effort 10 Kiwanians in St. Thomas and 42 in Ingersoll had learned the blessings and benefits of association with the great Kiwanis movement. This had been made possible because London had the Kiwanis spirit and in that act alone the local club had more than justified its existence.

Kiwanian St. Clair, of Toronto, here persisted in making another speech. He said that the London Kiwanians had done excellent work in addition to the clubs already organized in Western Ontario. Kitchener was on the map and Stratford and Woodstock would be organized before June 1st.

The rube band quartet then sang another "selection" in which the silver tone of Kiwanian Will Hodgins and the basso profundo of the same gentleman could be occasionally heard above the uproar in the room.

International Secretary Cummings, of Chicago, congratulated the Kiwanians on being able to preserve their spirit so well after the province had gone dry. He didn't know how they managed it. The speaker had just returned from a trip to the southern States, where the bootleggers were so thick that they had to wear badges in order that they might not try to sell to each other.

CONGRATULATIONS
Speaking in serious vein he congratulated the London Club upon its organization. Placing this city again on the Kiwanian map had been a great contribution to the international movement. The club was 100 per cent. efficient and was truly exemplifying the Kiwanis spirit and striving earnestly and with much success to propagate the doctrines in this territory.

He referred to the illness of Kiwanian George Ross, of Toronto, a man held in the highest regard by American Kiwanians. Kiwanian Ross had looked forward to attending the London gathering and when the speaker visited him in his hospital room in Toronto, where he is slowly recovering from a serious and dangerous illness, his sole regret was that his physical condition would not permit him to join the London boys in this function. By such men as Kiwanian Ross and Kiwanian H. J. Elliott, of Montreal, Canadian Kiwanians had made a great contribution to the international movement. The Ontario district organization the speaker characterized as exceptionally efficient as it had increased the membership in this territory 100 per cent., which was 50 per cent. in excess of the record of any other Kiwanis territory.

For this particular credit was due to the Toronto club, which had fostered the movement in London and from this center the good seed had been sown on fruitful soil elsewhere. Such activity and interest spoke well for the future, viewed the growth of Kiwanis since the establishment of the first club in Detroit seven years ago. Soon after clubs were formed in Cleveland and Pittsburgh, and in the first year of Kiwanis 35 clubs were formed, including those in Toronto and Hamilton. The second year saw this number doubled, and in the third year there were 73 clubs. At the time of the 1918 convention there were 83 clubs in existence, and when, at the 1919 convention these isolated clubs were joined in one international body, 187 more had been formed, representing a membership of 15,900. At the present time there are 468 clubs with a membership of 43,500. No movement of business men on the American continent had had such phenomenal growth.

THE IDEALS.
The ideals of Kiwanis were fair play and unselfish service applied to the business and professional relationships. It went back to the principles of the golden rule—principles that should guide every good Kiwanian. These ideals were not new or different from those of other organizations, but in Kiwanis as in Rotary, they were put to work in every-day business life. Kiwanis gave to its members a new ideal. It helped to place business on the higher plane of service to humanity, rather than on a plane of personal profit alone. Success in business today came to a man in proportion to his ability to render service to his community.

Kiwanian Cummings, in closing, emphasized the duty of Kiwanians to participate in every movement for the good of their community. In regard to the 1922 convention he expressed the opinion that it would come to Toronto and urged all Kiwanians to assist the Toronto club in making it a success.

G. H. Taggart, United States consul, spoke as a Rotarian guest and in the course of an excellent little address conveyed good wishes to the Kiwanians.

The gathering dispersed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," in which the rube band quartet was again much in evidence. During the evening Kiwanians Benkman, of St. Thomas, and Duncan, of London, contributed songs.

Altogether, it was an unforgettable night in the history of the Kiwanis organizations in London, St. Thomas and Ingersoll.

EXTENSIVE LABOR TROUBLES LOOMING UP IN HAMILTON

HAMILTON, April 29.—Serious labor troubles appear to be looming up in this city for May Day. A mass meeting of the bricklayers and stone masons has been called for to-morrow night, when a strike vote is to be taken, and the plasterers threaten to strike on Monday. It was stated to-night that numerous other trade unions are dissatisfied and will hold meetings to-morrow night. Organized action is possible.

The brewers of this city took a strike vote and decided to stay at work at wages reduced by about $2 a week.

Two Women and Two Pairs of Shoes

It happens every day—two women go shopping, each to buy a pair of shoes. One pays $8 and smiles at her neighbor who buys in another store and pays $12.

But wait. The $8 shoes did not hold their shape and failed, almost from the first, to support the wearer's foot. Losing their style, they were soon cast aside, putting their owner in need of a new pair.

But the $12 shoes—they look almost new to-day and are still worn for best. They have held their shape and given their wearer the service that was built into them. That's why they cost $12. But weren't they worth it—in style, in wear, in shoe satisfaction?

The most expensive shoes in all the world are the kind—like the $8 pair—that are not worn but are cast aside because they do not satisfy.

The kind of shoes that satisfy are the kind that have built this store's reputation.
