

WHAT THE SKULL SAID.
 Say not sultrians are mighty! Think not largely of thrones!
 The realm of the beggar is safer than the kingdom of diadems!
 The lighter the walls is loaded the farther the traveller goes!
 And the crown is a heavier headgear than felt, as a Darweesh knows.
 The woe of a Darweesh is measured by his wain of an ostrich car.
 On the heart of a king sits always his empire's toil and trust.
 When the Darweesh has launched at sunset his lunch of yesterday's bread
 He sleeps in his eyes more sweetly than a king on a golden bed.
 Begrieved for him who ruleth and pity his sorrowful fate!
 The beggar is verily monarch, although he conceals his state!

I heard it told of a Darweesh, long ago in a distant land,
 How a Skull spoke these words to him as he held the thing in his hand:
 "The pomp of the giving of order, and the pomp to save and to slay
 Were mine; and the turban of greatness on the brow which is bone to day.
 "God's will and the glory of battle brought harvest to the edge of my sword;
 I was king of the two great rivers; I was Babylon's lord.
 "I had in my heart the purpose to seize Karoosia's plain,
 When I in the wink of an eyelid the worms were eating my brain.
 "From the ear of wisdom, Darweesh! the cotton of carelessness pluck,
 That counsel of carelessness, Darweesh! I may bring thee, by loneliness, luck."

SCOTCH NEWS AND NOTES.
 (From Fyies to July 26th.)
 Dairies Mansie, in Fife, was struck by lightning and some damage was done to the interior. One of the servants was stunned.
 At a meeting of a sub-committee of the Lord Provost's committee, in Edinburgh, there was under consideration the question of which of the designs should be chosen for the Chambers Memorial, but no definite decision was come to.
 A man named Isaac Glasgow, a crane trigger in Coat's Lane, and Steel Works, Coatbridge, was run over by a sand wagon. His left leg and right arm were mutilated. He was sent to the Glasgow Infirmary in the ambulance wagon. Soon afterwards he died.
 Workmen have commenced to repair No. 11 Limestone Pit and No. 8 Ironstone Pit, which belong to Shotts Iron Company. These pits are situated at Kingswain, Carlisle, and have not been wrought for between 10 and 12 years. Both pits will require some time to restore to working order.
 At Den Fielde, St. Cyrus, Kinross-shire, an excruciating named Wm. Young, belonging to Forfar, was killed by falling from a height of about 100 ft into a deep pool. The water of the fall tumbles into the pool from a great height, and the pool itself is 20 ft deep. The body has not been recovered.
 In Aberdeen Sheriff Court, a farm-servant sued his master for £250 as damages for injuries he alleged he had sustained by a horse and cart knocking him against a wall and tearing off his right ear. Pursuer failed to appear, and the Sheriff assented the defender and allowed him expenses.
 At a committee meeting of the Port-Glasgow Town Council, Provost Crighton presiding—a resolution was passed against the foreign bounties, and it was agreed to send copies of the resolution to Lord St. Helens, Mr. Gladstone, Baron de Worms, and the members for the Kilmarnock Burghs and the County of Renfrew.
 After hearing debate on the point of relevancy, Sheriff Orr Patterson, Ayr, has allowed proof in the case of the Inspector of Poor, Tarbolton, against Rev. Mr. Higgins for alleged defamations. The defender is charged with having characterized a letter of the pursuer's as a lie from beginning to end. The damages are laid at £250.
 Mr. Lockhart, R.S.A., who is painting a huge picture of the Jubilee Thanksgiving in Westminster Abbey for the Queen, has made considerable progress with the work; and a number of personages whose portraits are to figure in it have given him sittings. The Queen takes a great interest in the picture, which was sent to Windsor the other day by Her Majesty's command, in order that she might inspect it.
 Last week the mortality in Glasgow was at a rate of 23 per 1000 of the population per annum, as compared with 16 in the previous week, and 21, 23, and 24 in the corresponding periods of the three preceding years. It must be remembered that the registrars' offices were closed on Fair Saturday, so that only five days returns were included in the returns of the week before last.
 Joseph Griffiths, an employe of the North British Railway company, was knocked down by a wagon loaded with coals in Hunter Street Coal Dept. The wheel of the wagon passed over both his thighs, inflicting dreadful injuries. He was carried on stretchers to the Royal Infirmary, but before he reached there he became unconscious and died shortly after being admitted.
 Jane McLeod or Wright was charged before Sheriff Orr, Robshaw, with having assaulted a girl named Sarah Macadam, servant of Professor Coates, of Glasgow, who with Mrs. Coates and family are at present lodging in the house of Mrs. Wright, at Little Cambrai. It came out in evidence that in consequence of something the girl had told her mistress as to coals and sticks, Mrs. Wright attacked the girl with a strap, and also compressed her face and mouth with her hands. The charge was found proven, and the Sheriff, in imposing a fine of one guinea or 10 days in prison, said the day was now past when masters could wallop their own niggers in this country.
 A very heavy banker was to be married, and the day fixed was June 4 at high noon. The day came but the groom did not materialize, and at 9 a. m. this telegram was received: "For goodness sake tell us what is the matter; this is your wedding day and the hour approaches." He was seared half out of his wits, and bounded around like a man with his head cut off. Then he rushed to the telegraph office and sent this answer: "Thought I had three days of grace. Don't let it go to protest. Coming on the next train." The wedding was late, but it was a merry one, and all was forgiven.

HEALTH.

THE EYES—A new disease has been developed by the widely prevalent cigarette habit. It is called "cigarette eye." The symptoms of the disease are dimness, and a film-like gathering over the eye, which appears and disappears at intervals. It is a dangerous malady, and can be cured only by long treatment.
HEADACHE CURB—Indian hemp, in doses night and morning of one half a grain, and continued for some time, is spoken of by Mr. Stephen MacKenzie, Lecturer on Medicine at the London Hospital, as the most valuable remedy he has met with in the treatment of persistent headache.
THE BATH—There can be no doubt, says The London Hospital, that were the bath, with friction of the skin, regularly employed by those up in years—and the habit, if acquired, can be easily carried on—much suffering and disability from bronchitis or winter coughs might be avoided, as well as many of those troublesome forms of skin diseases so often met. As a means for preventing colds, the bath is only of use if employed frequently—daily, if that can be; if not, then as often as possible, and with regularity.
NEW METHOD OF ARRESTING HEMORRHAGE—In cases of permanent nasal hemorrhage, Professor Chalmers, of Edinburgh, advises that plugging the posterior nostrils should not be done until an attempt has been made to check the hemorrhage by firmly grasping the nose with the finger and thumb, so as completely to prevent the air passing through the cavity in the act of breathing. This simple resort, he says, will, if thoroughly performed, usually arrest the bleeding by allowing a clot to form at the site of the ruptured blood vessel; the finger and thumb should exercise pressure enough to prevent breathing through the nose, for some time, and when removed the patient must avoid trying to blow the nose, or else the air, being driven through the nostril, may dilate the clot; if the air is prevented passing through the nostril, the clot consolidates and the hemorrhage is arrested.
 There is no greater weakness than that of letting our happiness depend too much upon the opinions of others.
 Our success or failure in life depends on nothing so much as confidence we place in our ability to accomplish.
 Although Shakespeare spelled his name eighteen or twenty different ways, yet his average signature would lead one to believe him to have been a clerk in a Chinese laundry.
