

CHAPTER XX.

River valley—Visitings and —Rough was sailing among —Blades of the mountains—
—Potency of bright beads and —rival of supplies—Reverly
—Mad Wolves—The lost

CHAPTER XXI.

Bonneville—The Great Salt
to explore it—Preparations
—Bighorn,

CHAPTER XXII.

A Crow paradise—Habits of notes of Rose, the teneale ants with the Blackfeet—his th—Arapoish, the Crow Adventure of Robert Camp
g Crows,

CHAPTER XXIII.

A River valley—Popo Agie vers into which it runs—s—The great Tar Spring—the Crow country—Barn-Powder River—Sulphur
res—Colter's Hell—Wind party—Fitzpatrick and his Stewart, an amateur traveler—Anecdotes of his ex-West—Disaster of Camp-on of hands—The flat Pasture of Fitzpatrick—Em-—Wyeth and his bull boat Captain Bonneville in the —Adventures in the plain —Travelling precautions—
—Smoke—The rendezvous,

CHAPTER XXIV.

ty of ten—The Balaamite
—The mysterious elks—A reat—Travelling under an setting—Adventures of the elk—Retreat to an island triumph—Arrival at Wind

CHAPTER XXV.

ts out for Green River
the Popo Agie—Buffaloes bears—The smoke—The mpt to traverse the Wind
The Great Slope—Mouns—Crystal lakes—Ascent sublime prospect—A pan-de pite," or wild men of

CHAPTER XXVI.

annel of a mountain ter-—Cascades—Beaver carrk—their architecture—trees—Mode of trapping skill—A beaver "up to Green River caches,

CHAPTER XXVII.

iver—Dangerous neigh-and precautions—A sham dition of an Indian spy—mountain defence—The —Tracking a party—Do-oms of Crows—Meeting upper entrapped—Crow pleasantry—Crow spies—A decampment—Return to Green River valley—Meeting with Fitzpatrick's party—their adventures among the Crows—Orthodox Crows,

CHAPTER XXVIII.

A region of natural curiosities—The plain of white clay—Hot springs—The Beer Spring——Journey to seek the tree trappers—Plain of Portneuf—Lava—Chasms and gullies—Ban-neck Indians—their hunt of the buffalo—Hunters' feast—Trencher heroes—Bullying of an absent foe—The damp comrade—The Indian spy—Meeting with Hodgkiss—his adventures—Pooredevil Indians—Triumph of the Bannecks—Blackfeet policy in war,

CHAPTER XXIX.

Water camp at the Portneuf—Fine springs—
The Banneck Indians—their honesty—Captain Bonneville prepares for an expedition—Christmas—The American Falls—Wild scenery—Fishing Falls—Snake Indians—Scenery on the Bruneau—View of volcanic country from a mountain—Powder River—Shoshonies, or Root Diggers—their character, habits, habitations, dogs—Vanity at its last shift,

CHAPTER XXX.

Temperature of the climate—Root Diggers on horseback—An Indian guide—Mountain prospects—The Grand Rond—Difficulties on Snake River—A scramble over the Blue Mountains —Sufferings from hunger—Prospect of the Immah valley—The exhausted traveller,

CHAPTER XXXI.

Progress in the valley—An Indian cavalier—The captain falls into a lethargy—A Nez Percé paramar—Hospitable treatment—The bald head —Bargaining—Value of an old plaid cloak—The family horse—The cost of an Indian present,

CHAPTER XXXII.

Nez Percé camp—A chief with a hard name—
The Big Hearts of the East—Hospitable treatment—The Indian guides—Mysterious councils—The loquacious chief—Indian tomb—Grand Indian reception—An Indian feast——Win-criers—Honesty of the Nez Percés—
The captain's attempt at healing,

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Scenery of the Way-lee-way—A substitute for tobacco—Sublime scenery of Snake River—The carulous old chief and his cousin—A Nez Percé meeting—A stolen skin—The scapegoat dog—Mysterious conferences—The little chief —his hospitality—The captain's account of the United States—His healing skill,

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Fort Wallah-Wallah—its commander—Indians ants neighborhood—Exertions of Mr. Pambune for their improvement—Religion—Code of laws—Range of the Lower Nez Percés—Omash, and other roots—Nez Percé horses—Preparations for departure—Refusal of supplies—Departure—A laggard and a d glutton,

CHAPTER XXXV.

The uninvited guest—Free and easy manners—Salutary jokes—A prodigal son—Exit of the glutton—A sudden change in fortune—Danger of a visit to poor relations—Plucking of a prosperous man—A vagabond toilet—A substitute for the very fine horse—Hard travelling —The uninvited guest and the patriarchal colt

—A beggar on horseback—A catastrophe—Exit of the merry vagabond,

CHAPTER XXXVI.

The difficult mountain—A smoke and consultation—The captain's speech—An icy turnpike —Danger of a false step—Arrival on Snake River—Return to Portneuf—Meeting of comrades,

CHAPTER XXXVII.

Departure for the rendezvous—A war party of Blackfeet—A mock bustle—Sham fires at night —Warlike precautions—Dangers of a night attack—A panic among horses—Cautious march—The Beer Springs—A mock carousal—Skirmishing with buffaloes—A buffalo bait—Arrival at the rendezvous—Meeting of various bands,

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Plan of the Salt Lake expedition—Great sandy deserts—Sufferings from thirst—Ogden's River —Trails and smoke of lurking savages—Thefts at night—A trapper's revenge—Alarms of a guilty conscience—A murderous victory—California mountains—Plains along the Pacific—Arrival at Monterey—account of the place and neighborhood—Lower California—its extent—The peninsula—soil—climate—production—Its settlement by the Jesuits—their sway over the Indians—their expulsion—Ruins of a missionary establishment—Sublime scenery—Upper California—Missions—their power and policy—Resources of the country—Designs of foreign nations,

CHAPTER XXXIX.

Gay life at Monterey—Mexican horsemen—A bold drag on—Use of the lasso—Vaqueros—Noosing a bear—Fight between a bull and a bear—Departure from Monterey—Indian horse-stealers—Outrages committed by the travellers —Indignation of Captain Bonneville,

CHAPTER XL.

Travellers' tales—Indian lurkers—Prognostics of Buckeye—Signs and portents—The medicine wolf—An alarm—An ambush—The captured provant—Triumph of Buckeye—Arrival of supplies—Grand carouse—Arrangements for the year—Wyeth and his new levied band,

CHAPTER XLI.

A voyage in a bull boat,

CHAPTER XLII.

Departure of Captain Bonneville for the Columbia—Advance of Wyeth—Efforts to keep the lead—Hudson's Bay party—A junketing—A delectable beverage—Honey and alcohol—High carousing—The Canadian bon vivant—A cache—A rapid move—Wyeth and his plans—his travelling companion—Buffalo hunting—More conviviality—An interruption,

CHAPTER XLIII.

A rapid march—A cloud of dust—Wild horsemen—"High jinks"—Horse racing and ritle shooting—The game of hand—The fishing season—Mode of fishing—Table lands—Sal-