UPPER CANADA LAW JOURNAL.

THE PRESS. OPINIONS \mathbf{OF}

Foper Canada Law Journal.—This highly interesting and useful journal for June has been received. It contains a vast smount of information. The articles on "The work of legislatics," "Law Reforms of the Sessi a," "Historical Sketch of the Constitution Laws and Legal Tribunals of Canada," are well worthy of a careful persual. This work should be found in the office of every merchant and trader in the Province, being in our opinion of caute as much use to the marginal as the law. opinion, of quite as much use to the merchant as the lawyer.—Hamilton Speciator.—June 8, 1858,

The Upper Canada Law Journal and Local Courts Gazette, for June-tronto.-Maclear & Co., Publishers, Messrs. Arbaon and Harrison, Toronto.

This is a most excellent publication. The present number contains very able original articles on the following topics—'The work of Legisnition,' 'Consolidation of the Laws of Upper Canada,' and 'Law Reforms of the Session—General Review (continued) The reports of important cases tried in the LocalCourts, are full and very interesting. Altogether this magazine is conducted with much ability, and it richy deserves to be widely patronized—Thorald Gazette—June 9, 1888.

THE UPPER CANADA LAW JOURNAL for May is full of is interesting articles The Upper Campa Law Joernal for May is full of is interesting articles —instructive alike to the profession and the general public. The ditorials, as a usual ovince the sound knowledge and legal experience of the writers under whose management the journal is now published,—and the opening one, on the 'Power of a Colonial Parliament to Imprison for Contempt," embraces an amount of interesting record from opinions of high authorities upon which the author is led to conclude that the power to commit for contempt cannot justly be exercised by the Provincial Parliament. The other principal articles are—'Remuncation to Witnesses in Criminal Cases," "Law Ref rms of the Session—theorem Review, "University of Toronto—Law Faculty." "Historical Sketch of the Constitution, Laws, and Legal Tribunals of Canada." &c. An original essay on the latter subject is to be commenced in the nox issue, and continued monthly this completed and it is promised that the aim of the writer will the latter subject is to be commenced in the noxt issue, and continued monthly till completed and it is promised that the aim of the writer will be to narrate—not to discuss. His materials are, we are informed, the best that can be had consisting of several Freich and English, manuscripts now out of pint. To this may be added, all the information that can be from Elds. Arrels, and Ordonnances of the French dovernment and of the Province of Quebe, together with the Ordonnances and acts of Parliament of the Provincevof Uper and Lower Canada. No pains are to be apared, either in research or compilation, that can be made tributary to the object of the writer. The period embraced will be nearly three centuries—that is, from the settlement of Canada by the French to the present day. This is a subject so fourtuin in details of a most interesting character, that if the promises referred to me actived one—as we have every reason to exis a subject so faultaul in details of a most interesting character, that if the promises referred to an extracted on the case we have every reason to expect they will, from the descreedly high reputation of the editors—the Low Journal will considerably increase its popularity as a temable record.

—Chaint May, 14th, 1858

The Upper Canada Law Journal for January, has been received. As usual, its contents are exceedingly valuable—Kington Wag.

This is a very useful monthly, containing reports of important law causes, and general information connected with the administration of justice in Upper Canada. Although more particularly intended for the profession, yet every man of business may learn much from it that may be of real advantage to him. It has hitherto been published in Barrie, but will henceforth be in Toronto. We repote to see that Robert A. Harrison, key, B. C. L., is to be connected with the journal. He is a young gentleman that has already highly distinguished himself in his profession, and with literary talents of no ordinary kind, he will prove to be of great advantage to the Law Journal.—Brampton Times.

We are pleased to notice that this able monthly is, for the fature, to be wantage to the Law Journal.—Brampton Times.

We are pleased to notice that this able monthly is, for the future, to be edited and published in Toronto, and that Robert A. Harricon. Esq. B.C.L. is become a joint Editor. His accession to the editorials aff mist prove to the profession to whom he is now so well known as the author of somany works in general use, no small gain. With Mr. Harrison is associated W. D. Arduch, Esq., who has for some time been favorably known as an Editor of the Journal. Not withstanding the public cautien of the Journal in Barrie, it has under the management of the Hon. James Putton acquired a very wide and extended circulation. Now that it is to be published in Toronto, it is reasonable to expect that its circulation will be increased. It is a paper which should be in the hinds of every Judge, Lawyer. Coroner, Magistrato, Clerk, and Baniff in Upper Canada. We hope, however, the the conductors will see fit to widen the list of their exchanges and so acrease the circle of their usefulness.

It is a great mistake to suppose that Judges, Lawyers, Division Court Clerks, or Banifis are the sole persons interested in the administration of justice. The public at large have a deep interest in, and feel a lively sympathy with the sentiments of a writer who propounds measures of law reform calculated to advance the public good. No discussion however well attended upon subjects of legal interest, can be satisfactorily ever well attended upon subjects of legal interest, can be satisfactorily carried on by the lay press.

The public require to be informed not only as to the existence of an abuse which needs a remedy, but as to the nature of the remedy required.

For such information the more proper and more prudent course is to turn to the columns of a newspaper conducted by men whose whole lives and training peculiarly befit them for the expression of sound views. The number of the Journal before us which is that for August is replete with The Editorial Department bears marked evidence of knowledge and ability .- Toronto 7 mes.

Somewhere it has been said that to know a people thoroughly, it is necessary to study their laws—to ascertain how life and property are protected. This ably conducted Journal tells us how the laws enacted by government are administered in Upper Canada. It tells us—what overybody knows—that law is expensive, and it adds that chesp justice is a curso, the expense of the law being the price of blerty. Both assertions are certainly truisms, yet a litigious and quarrelsome spirit is not invariably the result of that combativeness which belongs to such men as those who, under any circumstances and at whatever out, will assert their rights. It is not our hurpose to roview the Journal, but to presse it, seeing that praise is deserved. The articles are well written, praise it, seeing that praise is deserved. The articles are well written, the reports of cases are interesting, and the general information is such, that the Journal ought not only to be read, but tudied by the members of this bar, the magistracy, the learned professions generally, and by the merchant.

The Law Journal is beautifully printed on excellent paper, and in doed, equals in its typographical appressance, the legal record published in the motropolis of the United Kingdom. 34 a year is a very inconsiderable sum for so much valuable information as the Law Journal contains .- Port Hope Atlas.

We have to return our thanks to the conductors (or publishers, we do not know which.) of this valuable publication for the present January number, together with an ample index for, and list of axes reported and number, together with an ample index for, and list of cases reported and cited in the second volume of these reports for the year 1856.

The ability with which this highly important and useful periodical is conducted by W. D. Ardagh and Robert A Harrison, B. C. I., Isquires, Barristers at Law, reflects the greatest credit upon these gentlemen, and shews that the esteem in which they are held by their professional concress and the public, is deservedly merited and nothing more than they are entitled to. We have much pleasure in carnestly recommending the time members of the bar for this section of the Province to support the Upper Canada Law Journal, by their subscriptions—taking leave to assure them that it is well worthy of it, and that they will find it a valuable acquisition to their libraries as a legal work of reference and high ausure them that it is wen worthy of it, and that they will man it a valuation to their libraries as a legal work of reference and high authority. It is printed and published by Messra. Maclear, Thomas & Co., of 16 King Street East, Toronto, and the typographical portion is very creditable to that firm.—Quebec Mercury.

The Typer Canada Low J. arnal, and Local C. arts Casette, is a publication of which the legal profession of the Province need not be ashamed The Journal has greatly improved since the removal of the office of publication to Toronto. It is edited with ability by W. D. Ardagh, and R. A. Harrison, B. C. L., Barristers at Law. The January number, which is the first of the Lurth volume, appear in a considerably enlarged form. Tha fourth volume will contain at least one-third more reading matter than its prefereesor. A very important question, "Shall we have a lankruptcy Law?" Is discussed at length in a well written editorial in the January issue, to which we shall refer on a future occusion. "Lecuses of Counsel," is an ori, inal article which probes harrister in many lender spots. The Luw Januar's circulation should not be confined entirely to the legal profession.—the Merchant, and general business man would find it a very useful work. The price is $4 a year in advance, or $5 otherwise. Now is the time to send in orders—Port Phys Guide.

In its first number of the fourth volume this interesting and valuable In its first number of the fourth volume this interesting and valuable publishing comes to us highly improved in appearance, with a much wider range of editorial matter than formerly. The Journal has entered upon a broader carser of utility, grapping with the higher branches of law, and lending the strength of a full, fiesh intelligence, to the c insideration of some very grave wants in our civil code. The necessity of an equable and efficient. "Bankruptcy L w" is discussed in an able article, instinct with assure and profound thought, coupled with much clear, soults learly discremination. subtle, legal discrimination subtle, legal discrimination.

It is the linetuon of the Proprietors to institute in the pages of the Journal a "Magistrate's Manual:"—provided that that body muct the project in the proper spirit, and contribute an adequate subscription list to warrant the undertaking. To prosecute this contemplation, could not fail to be productive of incalcuable advantage, as well to the community as to the Magistracy. We slicerely hope that this latter body will hestow a generous patronage, where so laudable an effort is made for their advantage.

The Law Journal is presided over by W D Ardsgh, and R. A. Harrison, B C. L., Barristersat. Law It is a periodical that can proudly compare with any legal publication on this Continent. We wish it every success. -Cutholic Crizen.

This Journal which is published monthly, appears this week much improved in size, appearance and matter. It was formerly published in latrie, but has fer some numbers back been published in roronto, and has acquired aid in the editorial staff by the addition of Mr. Harrison, who is well known in the profession from his numerous prodications on legal subjects. Under the management of Mr. Ardagh and Mr Harrison this Journal promises fair to become an important publication, not meanly to the legal in fession, but to other unportant issees at the commerely to the legal profession, but to other important classes of the community, as particular attention is given to Municipal affairs, County Courts and Division Courts, Massirates' duties also receive a considerable share of consideration. It will contain original treatises and essays able share of consideration. It will contain original treatises and essays on law subjects, written expressly for the Journal, besides reports from the Superior Courts of Common Law and the Court of Chancery. Proper selections will also be made from English periodicals. To the profession the reports from Chambers of decisions under the Common Law Procedure Acts and the general practice, are of particular interest. There the Journal supplies, being formerly reported by Mr. F. Moore Beuson, and latterly by Mr. C. E. English, M. A. We would advise all municipal officers, Division Courts officers, Nagistrates, and particularly the profession, to patronize this publication, as it cannot be sustained without their aid. The subscription is only $1 a year in advance—Leader. Leader.

The January number of this valuable Journal has come to hand, and is as usual replete with legal decisions, articles on commercial law, &c., tc. We republish from this number, an able article on the subject of a Bankrupt Law for Canada .- Cunadian Merchants' Magazine.