DENMARK'S RULER STRICKEN WHILE HE STROLLED ALONE IDENTITY WAS NOT SUSPECTED

King Frederick Had Apparently Recovered His Usual Health and Was to Have Left for Home Yesterday—Was at Hamburg With Family Incognito.

HAMBURG, Germany, May 15.—(Can. Press.)—King Frederick VIII. of Denmark died alone unrecognized and unattended in the ward of a public hospital here late last night of apoplexy. King Frederick and Queen Louise, who had traveled here from Nice under the incognito of the Count and Countess of Kronberg, had their three youngest children, Princess Thyra, Prince Gustav and Princess Dagmar with them.

King Frederick had been undergoing a course of treatment for arteriosclerosis with which he had been troubled for a considerable time. He had also suffered from an attack of inflammation of the lungs, from which he had been critically ill some weeks ago, but this had been completely overcome.

Stricken During Stroll. When he left the Hamburg Hof Hotel last night after eating a hearty dinner, the king, accustomed to an evening stroll before retiring, walked toward the "Goose Market," one of the principal squares in the business section of the city and which is just round the corner from the hotel. A few minutes later some pedestrians on the "Goose Market" noticed an elderly gentleman fall in a heap on the sidewalk. He was dressed in an ordinary business suit and appeared to be a well-to-do tradesman.

The passers-by ran to the spot to assist the old gentleman, but found that he was already dead. A policeman was called who had the body conveyed in an automobile to the Sailors' Hospital. The physicians on duty there stated that death had been instantaneous.

There was nothing on the body which afforded a clue to its identification, and it was placed in the mortuary of the hospital.

Royal Suite Alarmed. It was only much later in the evening that the royal suite, which had become anxious owing to the king's absence, heard of the incident that had occurred on the "Goose Market." As their enquiries in regard to the king's movements had up to then proved fruitless, they, together with the proprietor of the hotel, proceeded to the hospital to look at the body there, although they did not suspect that it was that of his majesty.

Arrangements were immediately made for the body to be conveyed to the hotel, where it was laid out amid masses of flowers.

The king had been regarded by his physicians as completely restored to health by his trip to the south. Yesterday he felt particularly well, and during the day expressed joy at his expected return to Copenhagen today. He remarked that he felt refreshed and completely restored to health.

His majesty's relatives and royal relatives throughout Europe were notified of his death before daybreak. The flags on all the public buildings here, where the king had repeatedly been a welcome guest, were half-masted.

Declined Medical Aid. HAMBURG, May 15.—(Can. Press.)—Dr. Ludwig Sellmann, a surgical specialist, who was the only person in the immediate vicinity when King Frederick of Denmark was stricken on the "Goose Market" last evening, makes the following statement in regard to the circumstances of his majesty's demise:

"I was returning from the theatre about half-past ten when I saw on the 'Goose Market' an elderly gentleman evidently suffering from a sudden attack. I asked him if I could see him to his home, but he declined my offer, with thanks, saying that he felt better and could find his way to his hotel alone."

"He started to walk toward the Hamburger Hof, but after taking a few steps broke down and fell. He hurried again to his assistance. He had fallen to the ground. I felt his pulse which had already ceased beating. Then with the assistance of a policeman I lifted him into an automobile and sent him to the Sailors' Hospital."

Queen Mother Overcome by Death of Brother

LONDON, May 15.—Queen Mother Alexandra, the Dowager Empress Marie of Russia, both of whom are sisters of the dead King Frederick, are absolutely prostrated by the shock of his majesty's unexpected death.

The Dowager Empress Marie has been staying at Marlborough House. King George and Queen Mary proceeded there immediately after they were informed of the dramatic event.

The flags on all the government offices and other public buildings have been half-masted to-day.

For the second time this year the British court is plunged into mourning, and the social season just commencing will be seriously affected.

Oliver J. Johnston of Clinton has been appointed license inspector for Centre, Huron, and Alfred Baker of Brussels, license commissioner. PLAYED GAME OF HIDE AND SEEK Court Crier Called Names Inside and Outside, But Forgot to Look in Witness Room for Men Wanted.

While Mr. Justice Middleton and his court waited impatiently and the court crier called incessantly for them, Messrs. J. Walter Curry, K.C., James Forrest, Albert Burnett and W. E. Smalling, charged with contempt of court and conspiracy to fabricate evidence in connection with the famous street railway case tried before Judge Morgan on March 21 last, sat in the witness room next to the assize court waiting for their case to be called.

The court crier was told to call the names of the four men three times inside and outside of the court, which he did, but evidently forgot that such a place as the witness room existed. His lordship became very indignant when the men did not answer to their names and announced that the case would be laid over until this morning, and that warrants would be issued for the arrest of the men if they did not appear. The court was then adjourned.

Two minutes after the court had been adjourned, the four men in the witness room became impatient about the delay in calling their case, and Mr. Curry came in to see what was the matter, only to be severely criticized for not being on the job on time. He promptly stated his side of the case, but as the jury had been excused for the day, and had left the court room, the case could not be proceeded with. It is hoped that everybody will be on time at 9:29 this morning when the case is again called.

Progressive Women of Persia. All honor to the veiled women of Persia! With the constraining traditions of the past about them, with the idea of absolute dependence upon the fancy and caprice of men ever before them, deprived of all opportunity to educate themselves after modern fashion, watched, guarded and restricted, they offered up their daily contribution to their country's cause, watching its inevitable but marvelous growth with a mother's jealous eyes, and called not even in that grim, tragic hour when men's hearts grew weak and the interfering dread of the prison and its tortures, the noise and the bullet, but settled heavy on the bravest in the land, writes W. Morgan Shuster in "The Century."

During the last five years, the women of Persia have become almost at a bound the most progressive, not to any radical, in the world. The fact makes one gaze with astonishment, and upon the previous notions of centuries. Without the powerful moral influence of the Persian women—those so-called "shahs" of the Oriental lords of creation—by example, but more importantly, by revolutionary movement Persia which has recently been imbued by Russia and England would have sailed early into a mere organ of protest. It was they, from their doleful lives, who, with the pathetic support of the Islamic priests, launched the national movement of the Persian people for the adoption of constitutional forms of government, and for the institution of western political, commercial, and ethical codes.

OLIVER NEVER GOT TO ASYLUM

Dismissed From Jail as Cured a Week After Commitment — Doctors Must Explain Their Certificates.

K. M. Oliver, a young man who appeared before Magistrate Kingsford in the police court on a charge of theft, and who was later committed to the asylum as a lunatic, walked into Inspector Duncan's office at the city hall to demand some money which had been taken from him, back again. He explained that some doctors who had later examined him at the jail had pronounced him sane, and the jail officials had given him his freedom. The man was immediately taken into custody and appeared before the magistrate again yesterday. After the circumstances had been explained to him, Magistrate Kingsford said: "The point is this: after being committed as a lunatic, how did he get out and cured in a week? There is something odd about it which requires probing."

The case was adjourned in order to give the jail doctors and officials an opportunity of explaining the matter. The father of the prisoner was reached by Governor Chambers, who told him that he had better go to the jail and get his son. This he did, giving a bond to the governor.

The young man is wanted in Buffalo for passing a worthless cheque. He declares that he is not insane.

Jail Surgeon Parry and an assistant physician at the Queen-street Asylum will be summoned to police court to explain their certificates of the young man's recovery in the light of their certificates, upon which he was committed as a lunatic, which are now in the hands of the department at the parliament buildings.

Big Garnet Deposit Found in Labrador. From London comes word that there has been discovered on an island situated in St. Michael's Bay, Southern Labrador, and about thirty-five miles north of Belle Isle in the straits, a garnet deposit of exceptional possibilities.

The island is about a mile long, half a mile wide and 200 feet in height. The vein is composed of crystals of garnet about the size of large oranges, with sufficient matrix (a fine quartz and mica) to hold them together.

Over the south side edge of the cliff, which is almost perpendicular, the large garnets are profusely exposed down to about sea level. This shows that the supply is almost inexhaustible and that they can be quarried at a minimum cost.

This garnet has been tested for abrasive work and pronounced superior for that purpose to any found elsewhere. It is also thought that slabs of any size and thickness can be cut and polished. If this is so, it will be a great find to building trades, as they would be exceedingly handsome, durable, attractive and new for both inside and outside ornamental work.
