Which reminds me that only production will save this country from bankruptcy. My poor heart throbs for the sorrows of that poor young gentlewoman who is so shockingly put upon by her uncultured employers and their objectionable offspring, and even by the servants. And joy comes in like a tidal wave and fills my heart to overflowing when she is loved at first sight by the handsome young man in rough tweeds

Millions Spent Yearly on Women When Literary Love Affairs More Thrilling.

I am always falling madly in lovewith the fair ladies created by novelists. Indeed, no novel with a "love interest" can hold me until its finish if the heroine is not the kind of young person who makes me wish to be the hero and go to church with her in the last chapter. Confession is good for the soul, and as it is not my business to review novels as works of art in the psychological manner new in fashion, no reader of this will "raise a horrible beef" or think me a fraud when I admit that I often get great pleasure out of very bad stories. When my study door is locked, and the children tiptoe past for fear of interrupting the business of inventing jewel phrases, and the little copper kettle sings joyously above the grumbling flames and a fresh bottle of usquebaugh has been cannily uncorked—then ah, then, you picture me working deftly with the edged tools of rhetoric or deeply imwith the fair ladies created by novelists,

There are small subtle dangers in this cult of literary love affairs. It is said a certain ardent poet imagined the presence of a Shakespearean lady so intensely that she turned up one morning in the flesh and boxed his ears soundly for his cheek, which happened to be unshaven. Millions of Germs

Breed in Tooth Film-Keep It Off

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Film Wrecks the Teeth

THAT slimy film which you feel with your tongue causes most tooth troubles. The tooth brush does not end it. The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve it. In crevices and elsewhere that film clings. That is why your brushing fails to keep teeth white, free from tartar, clean and safe.

That film is what discolors - not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhes. So all these troubles have been increasing despite the wide use of the tooth brush. Dental science, after years of search, has found a film combatant. Able authorities have amply proved this by careful clinical tests. Leading dentists everywhere now urge

The method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent, And we offer a 10-Day. Tube free now to everyone for home tests.

See the Results, Then Decide

The results of Pepsodent are quickly apparent. Some are instant. We ask you to see them—watch them ten days—then decide for yourself about them. Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it. Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. But science has discovered a harmless, activating method. The inventor has been granted patents by five governments already. It is that invention which makes possible this efficient film combatant.

Christmas and the New Year

Dear Mail-Box Friends,-Just that we may get a little closer in touch with each other as the happiest season of the year approaches, may I make a request of all friends of the Mail-Box? It is that everyone who cares to will send in a few words of either Christmas or New Year's greetings, to be used, at that time, in our Mail-Box Corner of the Woman's Page. These contributions must of course be brief-just a sentence or two, or if in verse, not more than four lines. You will understand by these limitations that we are expecting a splendid response, and please will you send them in before December 15? Just a few words, for either Christmas or the New Year (choose which you will, not both), sign your pen-name, and inclose your name and address (which of course will not be published), and may our Mail-Box be crowded with jolly, happy, helpful little messages for us all.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would like to ask as favor that you would send me the frections printed in your paper for knitdrections printed in your paper for knit-travels that even the old curtseying dames in the village have forgotten what "the young lord" looked like. Eagerly I read on and on, awaiting the betrothal kiss by the old style, and the revealing of the young man's distinguished identity, and the humiliation of the snobbish household, and the noble way in which the heroine smiles forgiveness at them and invites them. As I am a very busy mother I did not find time to knit for the Red Cross sufforgiveness at them and invites them all to the wedding. My eagerness is surely pardonable—for about half way through the story I have completely because the story I have bear the story I have been story I have been story I have been stor ficiently to get the directions fixed in my mind and would consider it a favor through the story I have completely merged my own personality in that of the young man in rough tweeds and carrying a gun in the month of roses. That is the secret of success in literary love affairs. You must learn how to identify yourself with the hero; you simply must; it is the only way. With practice it is quite easy; so easy that I have been John Ridd, Colonel Esmond and Louis Moore in the space of a single week, and embezzled all their lawful ecstasies without turning a hair.

tucked away somwhere for mail-box witches. "B. H." Ans.—We are very glad to assist the fairies, "B. H.," and publish the following hints with the hope that they are just what you want. Straight lines denote peace, tranquility and long line; advantages. It is economical as regards time, trouble and money. At a single reading, in an hour or two, you pass through the whole gamut of a grand passion for the most adorable and various of other-worldly women. She comes and goes faithfully at your behest. Open the book she haunts, and she steals out in her white ghostly perfection. Close it, and she is gone, meekly and mutely awaiting a recall to do your pleasure. long, wavy lines denote vexations and long, wavy lines denote vexations and losses; square figures foretell happiness and security; obling figures, family discord; curved or twisted figures are sure signs of annoyance; circles predict money; a crown signifies honor; a triangle denotes an unexpected journey; an anchor, success in business, if at the bottom of the cup, or success in love if at the top; the cross predicts to do your pleasure.

Somebody once compared women with bandits to the disadvantage of the former—bandits take your money or your life, he said, but women take your money and your life and even then are most dissatisfied. But it is not so with the heroines of fiction. All they ask, sweet souls, is that you should love them and wreak on them the rights of a blameless and impeccable polygamy. There is also a secret zest of a most intriguing kind in these literary love affairs. You, perhaps elderly like myself and very far from decorative, are yet capable of making them unfaithful in a sense to the lovers provided for them in the way of authorship.

The Prince as a Soldier.

Dear Miss Grey.—I wrote in asking for the stocking foot pattern, and I have been expecting it every day, but perhaps we must wait our turn.

I wish to inquire if the Prince of Wales ever led in battle as he was an officer. I believe he was over in France, was he not, with the soldiers?

Sometimes an argument comes up. So engagements. Still these are but small and casual objections to a plan which I advocate as a form of national economy, for it is certain that more millions are spent on giving presents to women than are annually expended on beer and tobacco.—E. I wish to inquire why Canada can-I wish to inquire why Canada cannot print a women's journal for the sum of $1 per year. We get them from 35 cents up to 90 cents from the State of New York, and when we do get them we have to read a lot about the Stars and Stripes, and praising up the American soldiers. Now I would rather pay $1 to Canada for a paper than 50 cents to the United States, and read a little about the Canadian soldiers, and what they did in the Fenian Raid. Two outstanding artists will be heard in London on Monday night, December 8. J. Campbell-MacInnes, baritone, and Senor Guerrero, planist. Of the eminent singer, "Who's Who in Music" has this to say: "J. Campbell-McInnes, late student of the Royal College of Music, London, has sung upon suggestion of Joachim for "Popular Concerts." But the near future should produce publishers brave enough and rich enough to enter the competition successfully. M. Baker, Lambeth, on Thursday, at high noon, when their only daughter, Amy Evelyn, was united in marriage to Percy L. Pearce, also of Lambeth, Rev. W. M. Kitely of Westminster circuit, officiating.

Promptly at 12 o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Margaret Graham of Union, cousin of the bride, the bridal party entered the drawing-room, the bride leaning on the arm of her father, and took their places before a beautiful bank of evergreens and 'mums.

The bride was charmingly attired in ivory silk, and wore the accustomed bridal veil, caught with orange blossoms, and carried Ophelia roses. Little Helen Baker of London, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She was daintily dressed in white organdy and lace, and carried a basket of pink and white carnations.

After congratulations, Miss Eva Vandelinder of Lambeth, sang a solo very sweetly. The guests then, to the number of about fifty, adjourned to the dining-room, which was tastefully decorated with smilax, roses and carnations; where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. nations, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all winter, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Rough, chapped or discolored skin, inevitable in this weather, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear conspicuous at this season, because of alterating expansion and contraction of the skin, due to changing temperatures. You are advised to try this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolize at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any complexion at once, and in a week or so the skin will look remarkably youthful and healthy.—Advt.
