BREDIN'S Home - Made BREAD

"All breads look alike to me," say some careless people.

But you must go deeper than looks to judge quality in most things. You have to in a bread for sure.

Go as deep as you like into the merits of a loaf of Bredin's "home-made" and you'll find the excellent for taste, for flour, for wholesomeness and goodness.

Try it — at your grocer's — 5 cents.

The World's Millinery Hints

Notwithstanding the early demand for Merry Widow Sallors, the extreme prices of which run as wide as twelve inches, the over becoming turban will be much in evidence. The hat pictured above is most dainty for street wear and is most becoming for Mademoiselle Petite. It is made of very fine Copenhagen silk straw, with a tawny cabuchin of tan at side front and two tan pelican quills. The design is furnished by McKendry's "Home of the Hat Beautiful."

MME. GOULD WILL WED THE FAMILY OPPOSE

Prince Helie de Sagan Successful in Suit—Fight For Fortune Involved.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Despite the opposition on the part of certain of her relatives and the family breach was precipitated by her act, Mme. Anna Gould has finally declared her intention of accepting the hand of Prince Helie de Sagan.

That her decision to this end had been firmly announced to members of her family was attested by Mme. Gould's intimate friends and advisers. It was not denied by George J. Gould nor by Miss Helen M. Gould, the brother and sister who have been most determined in their opposition to the prince's suit.

Breaking finally with these relatives who had opposed her will, Mme. Gould took up her temporary residence at the Hotel St. Regis, occupying a large suite adjoining the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse, thru whose agency she and the prince have been enabled to meet on previous occasions. Her three children and all the personal servants accompanied her upon her removal to the St. Regis from the home of Miss Helen M. Gould, No. 579 Fifth-avenue. Last night Mme. Gould was confined to her bed with a severe attack of bronchitis. Her illness was admitted by the Prince de Sagan.

Will Fight For Fortune.

Further, the prince asserted that Mme. Gould had engaged Coudert Brothers as personal counsel, and was preparing to sue for the annulment of her marriage to the prince. He held that the prince's suit was relative to depriving any of his children who should marry without the prince's consent of their share of the estate of one-half of their shares would not withstand an attack in the courts. If any attempt was made to carry out the will of George J. Gould, Edwin Gould, Howard Gould and Helen M. Gould—to deprive Mme. Gould of any portion of her share of the estate under that instrument the legality of the will, in accordance with plans already made, would be challenged. Mme. Gould's former marriage, so the prince states she has been advised by expert lawyers, abrogates that provision.

Petite. The prince, the Prince de Sagan declared himself a formal suitor for the hand of Mme. Gould. In the same breath he admitted the existence of an engagement.

By April 9 ensuing "or sooner," he added, he will return to France. Mme. Gould will be with him, he admitted, within ten days, provided her present ill-health permits. He denied that any marriage is contemplated on the side, and with significant shrug of his shoulders, intimated that a wedding ceremony will follow soon after the arrival of the two in France.

With a show of spirit he threw down the gauntlet to George J. Gould and dared the latter or any other member of the family to assail his personal career. He declared his readiness to indulge in personalities should the hostile relatives of Mme. Gould invent such a course. He asserted his knowledge that detectives employed by "certain interested parties" had trailed his steps at home and since his arrival in the United States and evinced his opinion of their work by a squap of his fingers.

MORNING SESSIONS NOW FOR THE LEGISLATURE

Business May Be Concluded by Tuesday—Discussion on Prison Labor.

Premier Whitney means to get thru the business of the legislature by Tuesday next if it can possibly be done, and he feels sure it can. In that case the house would be prorogued on the following Thursday.

A resolution was introduced by the government providing for morning sessions from 11 till 1, intermitting till 3 on and after Monday next. Premier Whitney hoped that the members would see by this time the necessity of having no further delay.

In introducing his prison labor motion, Hon. Mr. Hanna did not attempt to cover the general question. The committee had seen very much of the treatment and management of prisoners in penal institutions in the United States, and the government had adopted substantially the recommendation of the commission. The conditions in Ohio were not unlike those in Ontario.

The wide open system adopted at Mansfield was very successful, no attempts being made to escape by prisoners, even when working among corn seven feet high.

The present value of the prison property is from $150,000 to $200,000, which would go a long way toward the expense of the new policy.

He thought the action of the government would mark a new era in the treatment of prisoners in Canada.

J. R. Dargavel, as a member of the committee, said he would feel humiliated if any of the prison officials would visit the provincial institutions here. The step was not being taken a moment too soon.

Premier Whitney suggested that the debate might be adjourned by T. H. Preston (Brant), who was understood to be the next speaker.

Three bills received third readings, 15 were reported from committee of the whole, and seven bills were read a second time, including the Fort Frances judicial district bill.

The people of the district thru a large part of the year had to travel through a foreign country to Winnipeg, and to Fort William, Hon. Mr. Cochrane explained in moving the second reading.

In a discussion on the Burlington Beach bill D. Reed brought up the question raised last year respecting the election of judges. Names appeared in different parts, and there should be a proviso to make the classification plain.

The following bills were introduced: Respecting the Town of Southampton.—Mr. Bowman.

To confirm certain bylaws of the Town of Cornwall.—Mr. Kerr.

To confirm certain bylaws of the Town of Welland.—Mr. Fraser.

Mr. Smith (Sault) will ask: Has the government or any member thereof even a pledge to this effect: If the present holders of the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway charter fail to carry out the building of the road in the proper time, the government will take the matter in hand and build a railway from the Manitoulin Island to connect with the Canadian Pacific Railway?

Mr. Atkinson will ask: In what enquiries to the conduct of persons in the civil service or government employment, did one J. C. Judd of London act as commissioner? The names of civil servants or government employees who were dismissed as a result of said enquiries? The cost to the province of each commission? The amount paid for each.

The mayor and controllers and City Council Fullerton conferred with Hon. Adam Beck and officials of the Hydro-electric commission yesterday respecting the terms of the power contract.

At 10:30 to-morrow morning the Municipal Union will meet the commission for a similar purpose.

The present Agricultural Societies Act permits the expenditure of $70,000 for agricultural societies, and no more. As an additional $7000 was voted in the estimates, an amendment to the act is required to make it available.

amendment will also provide for the incorporation of three societies, namely, Colborne, Richmond Hill and Freetown. Colborne was formerly a horticultural society doing agricultural work. Richmond Hill has been in existence for 50 years. It was not working under Freetown takes the place of the West Flamboro society, which has gone out of existence.

Provision is being made to include the Gardeners' and Florists' Association of Toronto under the Agricultural Societies Act. The Ontario Horticultural Association, which controls the Ontario Horticultural Exhibition, held annually in Toronto, is brought under the act and placed on the same footing as the associations controlling the winter fairs at Guelph and Ottawa.
