

avored with an opportunity of presenting the subject to a numerous and attentive audience.

In the afternoon we returned to the village of Huntingdon and was favored with another opportunity in Rev. A. Wallace's Church. The congregation larger than the one in the morning. In the evening the third opportunity was afforded me, in the American Presbyterian Church and the congregation was still larger, probably three hundred people were together, and the subject was listened to with attention. The ministers of the different Churches intend to carry on the work by preaching to their respective congregations. Simultaneously some Sabbath soon. This is an active and valuable Branch. They have made arrangements to give greater publicity to the Depository, and have concerted other measures that will probably increase their utility.

September 28th. On landing at St. Johns, I found they were not intending to hold their anniversary in consequence of Rev. C. Bancroft being absent. They had, however, appointed a public meeting in the Wesleyan Chapel, to which we repaired at the appointed hour. Honorable R. Jones took the Chair, and Rev. Mr. Armstrong and Rev J. C. Davidson both took part in the exercises, and the choir had made such preparation as added greatly to the interest of the meeting.

I spoke at considerable length and received good attention, and was glad to learn that much prosperity had attended this Branch in the first year of its existence. They had contributed about £50, and this together with the grant from the auxiliary had been consecrated to the interests of the French Roman Catholics around them, and the result had been most cheering, I shared the kindness and hospitality of Rev. Mr. Armstrong.

September 29th. Before leaving the place, in company with Rev. Mr. Armstrong, I called upon Hon. R. Jones. We talked over the affairs of the Society. He takes a deep interest in it, and is anxious to promote it to a position of still greater usefulness.

In the afternoon I went down to Chambly. Here I found a few warm friends also. Mr. Andres took me to his house and made me comfortable. We had a meeting in the Wesleyan Chapel in the evening, tolerably well attended. I laid the subject before them, and was earnestly entreated to come again and make an attempt to establish a Branch.

September 30th, ABBOTSFORD,—At this place I met with the same hospitality that had been extended to me on many former occasions, and was much cheered to hear of the prosperity of the association. The friends at this place had exerted themselves nobly. The association is new, the Protestant population is very small, and they are surrounded on every hand by Roman Catholics, but notwithstanding all these drawbacks by the exertions of a few ladies, we received £3 1s. 11d. free contributions. Mr. Gillespie paid me £1 18s. 5d., the amount of sales, and we had a good anniversary meeting in the Congregational Church.

October 1st, GRANBY,—The anniversary meeting was held in the Congregational Church, but there were many things to detract from its interest. Rev. N. McLeod was gone to see a sick mother, and the other Ministers were also necessarily absent from the place. Mr. Lorimer and Mr. Taylor, and also Mr. Fleming, the President, together with other friends, thought it advisable to visit the place again at some future time, and hold meetings in different neighborhoods to revive the Branch, a proposal to which I at once agreed.

Though the meeting on this occasion was somewhat small for the place, more attended that had done on a week day, for some years before. Mr. Taylor paid me
