The semi-monthly Dance of the INDIANS last Monday was a great success. Fralick's Orchestra, 6 pieces, a perfect FLOOR and a most jolly crowd certainly made a grand combination. Their At Home on Dec. 26th is sure to be a Record Breaker.

Reflections of a Spinster.
It's my own fault, anyhow; I've had plenty of chances.
Marge McKinloch's kittenish ways disgust me. She's 37, if she's a day.
I don't object to partial baldness in a man, but I do hate to see one who cultivates a long wisp of hair on the side of his head and combs it up over his shiny crown.
I like love stories as well as I ever did, but I don't weep now when they end unhappily.
There's no use talking—no preparation ever was made that will permanently eradicate wrinkles.
Still, it is harder for a man to hide his age; he can't keep his ears from growing fuzzy.
I draw the line at one thing—I won't be anybody's chaperon.—Chicago Tribune.

Awake or Asleep

the relentless fingers of Time are tracing upon people's faces those fine etchings that gradually but surely get deeper and deeper, unless promptly checked by proper care. This means that the complexion should receive the same constant and careful attention as the hair, hands and teeth. Regular ablutions with soap and water should be supplemented with a pure, cleansing and nourishing skin food. Intelligent and systematic massage with will soon erase Time's imprints and cause the features to become softer, fuller and youthful looking. It smoothes out the flabby, famished skin and imparts to it that pristine freshness and well-groomed appearance, that makes one good to look upon.

PRINCESS SKIN FOOD

With each pot of Princess Skin Food we enclose explicit massage directions.

Price, $1.50, postpaid.

IT TOOK HIM THREE WEEKS.

Investigation Conducted by a Cleveland Newspaper Reporter.

They tell this story in one of the local newspaper offices of a former reporter who has since made a fortune in another line of endeavor.

A number of years ago, at a time when the old Tenderloin was supposed to be closed up on Sunday, there arose a rumor that a Sunday closing ordinance was being flagrantly violated, despite vigorous denials of the administration then in power.

The city editor of one of the papers assigned its best reporter to start out on Sunday morning and obtain the facts. If there were any saloons or dives open on Sunday he was to go and see the places in actual operation, so that the evidence would be irrefutable.

That was on a Sunday morning, mind you, that he started out. The city editor expected him in some time that evening, but the reporter failed to show up. Nor did he appear at the office next day, nor the day after that. It was a trifle over three weeks later when he finally did come strolling in, with his clothes soiled and crumpled and with an eight-day growth of beard on his face.

He stood before the city editor's desk, looking sheepish and crestfallen.

"You remember that assignment you gave me—to see if the saloons were open?" he began.

"Yes," said the city editor, savagely, without looking up.

"Well," replied the prodigal reporter, "they were open."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fake Investments.

Mr. Warren Dickson, the new head of the postoffice inspectors in New York City, said the other day: "In the last ten years the American people have invested $20,000,000 in fake mining schemes." He says: "Twenty-cent shares spoil fake." The postoffice authorities declare that the circulars and other documents sent out thru the mail by one man (just arrested) and his agents to induce the public to invest in a certain stock resulted in a loss to the people of $1,200,000. The government, which has tried to keep sharp eye on such dishonesties, is more than ever determined entirely to suppress them. Avarice has such a cunning heart and greedy hand that it will take away by every conceivable device from others the smaller and larger amounts, unless there is the greatest caution and persistence in retaining them.—The Rev. P. C. Ingelhart, in The Christian Herald.
