

parent. When she cried, and felt ashamed on meeting him, "Dinna greet," he said, "mony a ane has done waur; get on your traps and co'le hame."

No. 806. One of Miss McPherson's girls, brought here by a former inmate, not as a fallen girl, but for shelter.

No. 807. Brought here by her mistress. Her seducer had promised to marry her. He would have done so at the Home, but, on their own account, I objected, lest it should be said of him he had married in a Home for fallen women. They were married at the Minister's, went to a friend's taking the child with them.

No. 810. Brought by her mistress from whom she had been stealing. Stayed in the Home some time, and is now in service, doing well.

No. 818. Sent by the Young Women's Christian Association of Quebec. Stayed four months, but not a hopeful case.

No. 831. A sad case of break-down from better circumstances; turned out badly.

No. 837. A young girl from this city. A factory girl, who had spent a year in the General Hospital. She offered to pay her expenses here, but, as her case was serious, I sent her to the Lying-in Hospital. Besides, she was very quarrelsome—one month she spent here being very uncomfortable for the others. The matron told me she had to send her away, she made so much mischief. When we have inmates like this one, bad, and only bad, every one in the house seems to be upset till she has gone from us. The annoyance some of these unhappy girls give us does not always end when they leave us. Silly questions are often asked and gladly answered to our detriment. A lady asked an inmate, who left lately, if Mrs. Gowan "pounded" the women. Fortunately, the girl happened to be a truthful and rather sensible girl, who was much amused at the question.

No. 838. A very interesting and hopeful case—one who, we believe, has received the truth.

No. 841. Advised to come to the Home by a former inmate—was well behaved, and has returned to her friends.

No. 848. Sent here from Toronto—another hopeful case.

No. 849. A case of much interest—former companions enticed the girl away. I sent to the country for her father, who met her at the Home, and with whom she returned to her own home. The father writes that she is doing well, and he is very grateful to us on her behalf.

No. 850. Another encouraging case—a girl who was sent here by one who, years ago, sent several—good Dr. H.

No. 851. An inmate of nine years ago, who, being out of a situation, came to stay a few days at the old Home.

No. 854. Sad case of a widow fallen into sin. Stayed two months, and then left for her friends in the country.

No. 855. Came here from another institution. Finally left here with her father, and is now at her home.

No. 857. Sent here from the House of Refuge, remained three weeks, and then was sent to the Lying-in Hospital.

No. 863. Another sent from the House of Refuge—well behaved and grateful.

No. 866. Restored to her grandmother.

No. 869. From Brockville.

No. 878. From Toronto.

No. 883. An inmate formerly—now come to stay a few days while out of service.

No. 887. A Roman Catholic girl—very quiet. Her sister persuaded her to go to the Convent, so she left us.

No. 888. Another sent from the Refuge.

No. 889. One who first came here nine years ago, and has been here eight times for short periods, having no other home when out of place.
