Orangeade!

The next time you are down near our fountain and feel thirsty, step inside and say "Orangeade" to the Soda Dispenser, then watch him. First he selects a fresh, ripe orange, cuts it in two and squeezes the golden juice into a polished glass, then some cracked ice and sugar (just enough to suit your taste), a dash of lime-juice and some pure, bubbling carbonated water. Then you have a drink and we have a satisfied customer.

It has become one of the most popular drinks at our fountain, so popular that at times we are pressed to supply the demand. Its popularity is due entirely to its own merits.

Try It! You'll Like It! It's a Real Treat!

MILLION DOLLAR INCREASE

The bank clearings for the city of St. John for July show a total of $8,928,474, as compared with $7,907,281 for July, 1916.

TO SPEAK IN MONCTON

E. M. Stockford, grand chief templar of the I. O. G. T., left today for Moncton, where he will be one of the speakers at a public meeting this evening in the interests of the campaign for the repeal of the Scott Act.

WIN WAR BONDS

The drawing for the war bonds, offered as prizes at the veterans' picnic recently held at Grand Bay, took place this morning. Commissioner Russell officiating. The winning tickets were No. 2740, held by John McMinim, and No. 978, held by G. S. Bishop. Both bonds were of $25 denomination.

MR. BLAKE A VICE-PRESIDENT

The Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs, in annual session in Port William, Ont., last week, decided on Toronto for next year's meeting. James Corbett of Toronto was elected president; A. S. Sticker of Halifax was elected vice-president for Nova Scotia and P. E. Island, and George Blake of St. John, vice-president for New Brunswick.

DOG DAY

Next Friday will be dog day in the local police court. Already 179 summonses have been made out by Day Deskman Hopkins and have been distributed among the policemen on the various beats throughout the city for delivery. The person receiving a summons will have to appear before the magistrate on Friday bids to be an exceptionally busy day in police court circles.

WAS FINED $10

In the case of J. Edson Wilson, reported yesterday in the police court, one witness was called by the defence today. Policeman Corner corroborated his statement of yesterday and the court imposed a $10 fine on one of the charges and the other was let go. The charges were for not sounding his horn at two different points in the city.

THE TAX PAYMENTS

The steady stream of tax-payers continues at the office of the city chamberlain in city hall. A policeman has been detailed to see that each person takes his or her proper turn and to prevent any disorder. So far the crowds have not been so large that they could not be handled without difficulty, but tomorrow and on Thursday the crush will be greater. Thursday will be the last day on which the discount is allowed.

IN HONOR OF SOLDIER

Last evening friends and relatives of Arthur Totten met at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Wallace, Acadia street, to do honor to the young soldier who has just returned from France after doing his bit. Games and music were enjoyed and the party broke up about midnight. Mr. Totten has two brothers at the front, Percy and Joseph, also a brother-in-law, Bruce Mitton. Mr. Totten left here with the 54th.

BRIDGE REPAIRS

The bridge on the Sandy Point road near Crescent Lake will be closed this evening from five to eleven o'clock while repairs are being made. The civic department of public works will also undertake, at an early date, repairs to the dock of bridge across the Marsh creek, on the boundary between city and county, in the Ashburn lake. Commissioner Fisher is corresponding with the provincial department of public works in an effort to arrange for co-operation between the city and province for the reconstruction of this bridge.

AT HALF STAFF

The flag on the Soldiers' Club building is flying at half mast, as a tribute to Major F. Caverhill Jones, whose death occurred in Baltimore, where he went for treatment for his wounds at the front. This tribute is especially appropriate not only because of the fact that Major Jones was a veteran of two wars and had always taken a deep interest in everything relating to the welfare of the veterans, but also because the soldiers' club building is his former home. Caverhill Hall was built by his father, Simon Jones. The building was one of the finest residences in the city and, at the time of the visit of the present king and queen, then the Duke and Duchess of York, Caverhill Hall was their headquarters during their stay in the city.

G. T. R. MEN GET INCREASE
Grand Trunk truckmen are delighted to learn that the arbitration proceedings in reference to their demands have resulted in their favor. Each man will get $13 additional each month, and the union will be recognized. Of the 3,200 men concerned, 2,000 work in Canada, and about 1,200 in the United States. It will cost the Grand Trunk Railway Company half a million dollars extra each year.

SOME IMPRESSIONS ALONG THE RIVER

An Almost Human Dog—The Beautiful River—Also the Bordeaux Mixture—A Vegetable and Fruit Diet—The Nerepis Fill

Two little birds were hopping about in the grass stubble, picking berries or bugs or some other delicacy, for their supper. Pickles, the dog, saw them and raced at them with ferocious barks. That dog was almost mean enough to be human. At some beaches along the river signs which warn boating parties against making any footprints on the sands of time in that particular neighborhood. The hospitality for you.

Looking through and over the orchard trees from the verandah of the house on the Parker hill at Public Landing on Saturday evening, the picture was very beautiful. The rose-glow of sunset was on the eastern sky, the wooded heights were dark below it, and the river surface, calm in the cover of clouds, was rippled by wafted airs. The sails of a wood-boat gleamed white in mid-stream, a tug with scow moved slowly, and men were spreading up and down above the horizon, soon to dominate with her silver brightness the whole peaceful scene. Still later the northern lights were out, to rival moon and stars and make the night more glorious.

The talk on the verandah was not all about the scenery. It drifted to Bordeaux mixture, for the amateur farmer had encountered the potato bug, and though Paris green had been applied it had not been altogether successful, and there was also the blight to be thought of, as it has already appeared in Ontario and may come this way. The Bordeaux mixture will be applied this week. Meanwhile the potatoes are all in blossom, pods are forming on the peas and beans, tiny cucumbers are in evidence, the carrots, beets and parsnips have been thinned out, the corn is coming, a few turnips and tomatoes are thriving, and lettuce, radishes also prosper. A whole vegetable diet is at hand, and ripe wild raspberries are to be had for the picking. Charles Parker will be picking cultivated raspberries within a week, and he will have quite a large crop of them. The boys cleared some ripe blueberries in a meadow. The wealth of wild flowers by the roadside and along the fences and in the fields is a constant delight.

When the Ocoene was crossing Grand Bay on Saturday afternoon the pulse of former yachting enthusiasts beat faster as the steamer passed a trim sailing yacht, tacking in a wind that sent her bearing through the water, rail under, and in sudden gusts bringing her sails very close to the waves. It reminded me of the time when I was usually got with such a vessel. The river always presents some new and interesting feature, and when its broad bosom gleams in the moonlight one turns indoors with reluctance.

An excited hen, ralling at the world in general, is never an alluring bird, and when she wakes up on soon after daylight, when you are enjoying a delightful nap after a warm night, you are not quite compensated, even by the crimson herald of the sunrise flaring in the eastern sky. You mutter things and try to go back to the realm of dreams. Perhaps then you also too long, and just miss the Ocoene, and have to ride to Langley and catch a train. If so you are interested in the great railway fill at Nerepis, where the whole embankment tries to find bottom, and the rails on its top have to be raised from time to time as it settles down toward the bowels of the earth. That is a big contract, and there is a great deal of work yet to be done.

From Grateful Soldiers

The work of the Red Cross among soldiers at the front and in hospitals is too well known and appreciated to require comment, but now and again they devise some new means of comfort that are just to it into the requirements of the soldier boys.

The junior branch of the Lancaster Red Cross last April sent some personal property bags fitted with pockets containing many useful articles. Sometimes soldiers arrive in hospital with very little in the way of personal belongings and no doubt these men who can only think of the hospital with relief would realize that the folks in Canada were remembering them in a practical manner. Among the articles was a writing tablet on the first page of which members wrote a short note to the man into whose hands it would come.

Thus far six young ladies are known to have received replies from the kitchen thanking the donors and showing that the bags were delivered safely. Here is one of the letters to a Fairville young lady and it is typical of the others:

St. John's Hospital,
The Grange,
Southport, England.

Dear Friend:

I just received my parcel tonight and of course I had to look at every article separately, they were all so useful and just what I needed. I also read your letter on the tablet and wish to express my very best thanks for your thoughtful-ness.

I have received several parcels from the Red Cross at London. I am a Canadian and come from the province of Saskatchewan. The best trip I ever had in my life was my trip through the eastern provinces, as they were all new to me, and the people, too, were most kind.

I have been in hospital now three months and I do not know how much longer they mean to keep me here.

With very best wishes and again thanking you for the bag which I can assure you has proved a perfect God-send, I remain,

Yours most gratefully,
MARGARET A. KIRKPATRICK,
No. 925, 438.

Our good Furniture Lasts.

Dear Mary— I believe in just kicking out old, worn, out-of-date furniture and getting in new and stylish. And of course one had better get strong furniture so it can be USED. I hate to go to visit someone and be afraid to sit on her chairs.

The furniture I bought from Everett's has been USED; and it is just as good as new. That's what I gained by going to the right store and buying good, substantial things.

When we are going to have another chat? Yours always—HELEN. P. S.—You know they stand back of every piece of furniture they sell at

It's stylish too
