Three years ago a cigar box containing $3 and several deeds to farm lands was stolen from the home of Miss Barker at Nuburn, Ark. Nothing was heard of the stolen articles until the other day, when men cutting wood for a sorghum mill near the Barker home cut into a hollow log and there discovered the box with the deeds intact. The money was gone.

Girls' tomato clubs are said to be popular in the south. At last reports there were 236 members, all of whom were raising tomatoes with expectations of winning first honors. Miss Chatham of Petal, Miss, seems to be in the lead so far. She is reported to have put up more than 2,000 cans of tomatoes from one-tenth acre of land. The largest previous record for one-tenth acre was 1036 cans.

SIFTING THE EMIGRANTS TO CANADA

How Officials Weed Out The Undesirables In England

SCENES AT OFFICES

Different Reasons That Impel Old Country Folks to Seek Change in the New Land—All Kinds Who Want to Come

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, Oct. 1.—A visit to the various Canadian emigration offices in London brings one into contact with the many types of Britons who are contemplating settlement in the dominion and affords an interesting insight into the methods of selection adopted by the officials. If one were not aware of the reason which brought them there, it might easily be supposed that they were in the waiting room of a physician. All the emotions that the face can express are to be seen. Indeed the positions are very much alike. The doctor advises as to health; the emigration expert advises on a condition which in many cases is of equal if not greater importance.

What kind of men and women are these candidates for a new life in a new country? The best and perhaps the worst types. It is the business of the official to see that only the best go. Here is a prematurely old man. He says he is forty, his face speaks of the privations and troubles of three score years. With earnestness that is pathetic he pleads that he is able and willing to take up the arduous work of a Canadian farmer. Indeed it is his only escape from starvation, for he cannot obtain work here. This "case" can be decided instantly. To the discerning official his undeveloped physique and enfeebled frame render him unfit for Canadian farming. He is a townsman.

The next is of the right type. A country-lad, eighteen years old; a six footer with the strength and muscle of one who has guided the plough from early boyhood. He is from Somersetshire where he earned $3 a week and kept himself in good health. Besides, his friend who went out three years ago has now a fine farm of 100 acres. He is going to follow his example. This man is secured right away.

To Change His Style

Along comes a type which you do not like very much in Canada, at least he has learned not to emphasise his opinions. With all the assertiveness of the Londoner, he, even at this stage, states the man to whom he has come for information what he knows about Canada. In a mental vision one can see him telling the Canadian farmer "the best way to do it." Such independence is refreshing after listening to a number whose fault is that they are not self-reliant; but he needs to be spoken to plainly and the official loses no time in assuring him that his best interests will be served if he is prepared to do things in the way Canadians want them done. Excellent material, says the official. "He will be all right after a few months in the dominion."

Then comes the man who commences by abusing Lloyd George. There are many of this type—the business man with capital who has read over the breakfast table the latest Tory editorial on Liberal finance; the workman who is out of work on account of strikes and blames the government; and the farm worker who is disgusted at the deductions of a few pence from his wages for insurance.

"I don't know what this country is coming to," he says. "It is certainly on the down grade, all classes are overtaxed and I have decided to clear out." You learn he is taking $10,000 with him.

Then there is the country gentleman with property who is disposing of his estate which has been in the family for centuries. Here is an old colonel suborned from a score of years in India. He wants his son to go Canada. "I don't want him pampered, Sir, but if he gets in with the right people he will succeed," says the official whose crowning disappointment is that his son was "ploughed" at Sandhurst.

The Women

A deeper note is struck with the women. Here is one from London's fashionable quarter. Cultured and with the poise of a woman of breeding, she is concerned about her son and wants him to go to Canada for his own good. A mother's tragedy is here. If he can get away from his "set" he will be all right. And so the praises of the solution and the mother's pain of parting from her boy is lost in the feeling that he will remain the future will hold a greater grief.

Then we see the woman with a family of no less than eight children. The official's eyes glaze when he hears this. They are country born, robust and healthy. One sturdy youngster of sixteen has the signs of a man, and he is prepared to take the place, as breadwinner, of the father, who is dead. They are all right and next spring Canada will welcome them.

Here is a girl who supposes that she has only to go to Canada and she will find many rich farmers in search of wives. It is not her fault. Three thousand wives wanted for Canadian farmers "is a not unfamiliar heading to a newspaper article. A brave wife whose husband has lost heart in the unsuccessful struggle for a living is the next candidate. She is prepared to mend the family fortunes by taking a place as a servant in Canada. Here, she is a char woman, but the wages are small and the insurance act has made her employment uncertain.

And so on in an endless procession. One is welcomed; another is warned not to go to Canada. In this way the officials prevent many undesirables from reaching the dominion. It is the most interesting and perhaps the most valuable Canadian work done in this country.

FLAX MILLS IN THE WEST

British Capital to $250,000 to Work in Saskatchewan

Saskatoon, Sask., Oct. 12.—That western Canada as a flax growing country has greater possibilities than any other country in the world, was the opinion expressed by a party of British manufacturers and capitalists today.

They have investigated conditions and are backing their opinion by securing a site for large mills at North Battleford, where distributing warehouses will be established and also at Saskatoon and Edmonton.

ONLY ONE WAY TO CURE RHEUMATISM

It Must Be Treated Through the Blood and the Poisonous Acid Driven Out

The twinges and tortures of rheumatism are not due to cold, damp weather as so many persons suppose. Rheumatism comes from poisonous acid in the blood. This is a medical truth which every sufferer should realize. There is only one way to cure rheumatism—it must be treated through the blood. All the liniments and rubbing and so-called electric treatment in the world will not cure rheumatism, and the sufferer who tries them is not only wasting money, but is allowing the trouble to become more deep-rooted in the system and harder to cure when the proper remedy is tried. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always cure rheumatism because they go right to the root of the trouble in the blood. These Pills make the new, rich blood of health, and in this way drive out the poisonous acid which causes rheumatism. Thousands of instances of cures might be given, among which is the following one. Mrs. G. R. Dumas, Cherry Valley, Ont., says: "I was attacked with rheumatism which gradually grew worse until I was confined to my bed. For about two weeks I had to be shifted and turned in bed as I was utterly unable to help myself. I was under the doctor's care and so far recovered that I was able to get up and move about, but the trouble still remained in my system. If I put my hands in cold water, or if I went out in the evening or in damp weather the trouble would return, and for four years I thus suffered from rheumatism, until I began to think it could not be driven from my system. Finally I gave up all other medicine and began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after using them for a couple of months I was completely cured and have not had a twinge of rheumatism since. I can recommend the Pills to anyone suffering from this trouble."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BABY'S BEST FRIEND

Baby's Own Tablets are baby's best friend and the mother's greatest aid. They cure constipation, simple fever, break up colds, expel worms and regulate the stomach and bowels. Concerning them Mrs. Napoleon Pelletier, St. Marcell, Que., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation and simple fever for both my little girl of three years and my boy of four months and have found them very satisfactory." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A DEMON BOWLER

For many years Brown and Bags had been keen cricketers, and each thought he was a better player than his friend. At last Brown challenged Bags to meet him in a single wicket match and the wager was accepted.

Brown batted first, and made nineteen runs. Then Bags took his stand against
