In the next four years, said the speaker, conditions would arise which would require the best possible supervision. Two types of people east and the other in the west. Between the two lay a wilderness, eight hundred miles in breadth.

Rev. Dr. Manning, London, Ont., said the case for three general superintendents had been presented in a very crude manner. There beemed to have been no due consideration of what the change would signify. The conference was asked to elect three general suendents on vague suppositions as to what were the needs of the church was said that the coming in to the minion of so many different types which the church would have a grapble.
