Woodstock, N. B., Dec. 19.-Informa ion was laid with Inspector Colpitts that an illicit still was being run in this county n the parish of Richmond. Mr. Colpitts began investigation and reported to Police Magistrate Dibblee, inspector of inland revenue, who at once communicated with the department at St. John, and as a result John T. Kelly, an inland revenue officer, came here on Thursday night and he and Mr. Colpitts and Constable Woolwarts, west to the score of the supposed verton went to the scene of the supposed still. It was found in a new house off the Richmond road, the apparatus being in the cellar. The officers found knocking of no avail, so they broke the doors and found the whole outfit in full blast. A young man was in charge. The farm and house in which the still was found are owned by Matthias Meagher. A fine of $300 and the seizure of the still was the penalty. DOESN'T LIKE CANADIAN WAY OF CURING HERRING

Scotch Fishery Expert Visits Grand Manan, and Finds Many Things That Please Him, and Others That Don't.

John Cowie the Scotch fishery experi prought out by the dominion governme the island.

He was shown samples of the fish of the island in a cured state. He says our herring are larger than the Scotch, but our methods of pickling them do not find favor in his eyes. Samples of pickled herring he had seen in Nova Scotia would be the begge recorded in his country as not have been regarded in his country a fit for any other place but the composite heap. Unlike our fishermen, the Scotel fisherman does not split his fish. The gill and entrails are removed very deftly, and the fish is then put in pickle without any further washing. The pickle is nev moved. In Russia and some other pean countries the Scotch pickled herr is eaten in a raw state. The fact that commands such a good price wherever is marketed is an indication of the super ority of Scotch methods. Mr. Cowie wiselect some fishing centre where he ca experiment upon Canadian fish.

The mention of a protection of spawnin beds was to him a great surprise. "W never think of protecting spawning beds in Scotland. We have been fishing for hundreds of years, too, and the supply shows no signs of diminishing. But of course our methods are different."

Another matter of surprise to Mr. Cowie was the intellectual conacity of the intellect was the intellectual capacity of the island

Death came suddenly to David Currie, of Mactnaquac, York county, on Sunday, Deceased, who was seventy-seven years old, lived with his nephew, Dudley Currie, at Mactnaquac and Sunday morning was about as usual. About 11 o'clock he went out to the barn and as he was returning a few minutes later he suddenly fell to the ground. Aid went to him immediately and he was carried into the house, but life was extinct heart failure having caused his death.

It is a curious incident, but the deceased having caused his death.

It is a curious incident, but the deceased gentleman's brother, Zebland, and his sieter, Phoebe, both dropped dead on Sunday of heart failure.

Besides his nephew, Dudley, with whom he lived, who was unmarried, the deceased leaves to mourn their loss two brothers, one, Nehemiah, living at Mactnaquac, and another, Judson, at Hartland, and two nephews, Harry and Frank, in the C. P. R. service at Woodstock.
