

DR. WILSON'S DEAD-SHOT WORM STICK

is an excellent and reliable cure for Worms presented in such shape as to be agreeable to children's appetites, while it is always safe to use, and in no way injurious to the health. Its active ingredients are entirely of vegetable origin—are not poisonous or anyways hurtful to the system—are separated entirely from the inert and unpalatable matter with which they are found connected in nature—thus presenting what has long been a desideratum—a certain specific for Worms, a safe one, and an agreeable one to the taste—one that children can be induced to take, without worry and without force.

DR. WILSON'S DEAD-SHOT WORM STICK has now been so long in use throughout this country—so largely has it been consumed, and with such favorable results, as the numerous unsought testimonials we have received testify, that we need scarcely press the matter upon the public attention. But when we consider what ill effects follow from the neglect of parents to attend to the symptoms of worms in their children, how many suffer and how many die, when they might readily be cured by the use of so pleasant and mild a remedy as DEAD-SHOT WORM STICK, we cannot refrain from urging a trial of it. In all the many years in which it has been in use, we have scarcely ever heard of a case in which the symptoms of worms were at all marked, in which its use was not followed by good results; in some cases large numbers being expelled after the use of a single stick, as many as from twenty-five to five hundred having been actually counted in the subsequent stools.

The symptoms of Worms are very numerous and various; the most common are a pining away, growing weak day by day, a variable appetite, sometimes voracious, sometimes not to be tempted by delicacies, an unhealthy, doughy complexion, puffiness of the face and eyelids, dark circles under the eyes, a swollen stomach, irritability of the stomach with nausea, and frequent attacks of a teasing mucous, slimy, greenish diarrhoea, a fetid breath, feverish, restless nights, tongue large, and marked on the sides by pressing against the teeth, pains in the bowels, high colored and strong smelling urine; where any or all of these symptoms are present in children, there is reason for believing that the trouble is Worms, and it is worth while to give the DEAD-SHOT WORM STICK a trial; you will scarcely ever be disappointed with the results, and if you are, you have done no harm, either to the child's health or temper, by the use of it.

But it must be borne in mind that worms, though destroyed in the bowels, do not always make their appearance whole in the stools either alive or dead, as if the Worm Stick meet with them high up in the bowels, and destroy them there, the dead worms will be acted upon by the digestive fluid, and will come away "CUT UP" and mixed with the excrements, often giving it the appearance of chopped greens, and making it very offensive.

Mothers can place the utmost reliance in this harmless and pleasant remedy, and therefore, need not have any hesitation in using it whenever they think the symptoms demand a remedy for worms; for although it is a powerful and effectual worm destroyer, it can be given to the most delicate child without the least fear of injurious consequences, and besides it has the approval of the highest medical authority.

But though the DEAD-SHOT WORM STICK is competent to destroy worms, it is not always competent to the cure of these cases. Children whose constitutions are affected with scrofula, are specially prone to the production of worms in the bowels in large quantities; there seems to be juices generated in the bowels by this disease, which fatten and breed worms very quickly. In such cases, the DEAD-SHOT WORM STICK should be used occasionally to expel the new broods which are hatched out, while in the intervals the general health should be improved, and the scrofula vice eradicated by the use of WILSON'S TONIC AND SARSAPARILLIAN ELIXIR, which is the best remedy science has discovered for such a state of the system. By thus alternately using the DEAD-SHOT WORM STICK and WILSON'S TONIC AND SARSAPARILLIAN ELIXIR, you will soon find a satisfactory change in your sickly child's appearance. It will lose the wan aspect it formerly presented, and instead present the appearance and reality of robust health, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you have warded off from your offspring evils of great magnitude, for there is scarcely any disease which may not be excited by the presence of those pestilent parasites in the system. Many cases are recorded in which they have produced Fits, Epileptic and Cataleptic, Dropsy of the Head, St. Vitus's Dance, Palsy, Fainting, Hiccough, Dysentery, Convulsions, Lockjaw, and even Idiocy.

The DEAD-SHOT WORM STICK leaves no excuse for this dangerous delay, as it is not only superior to all other preparations of its class as a worm destroyer, but is also pleasant and agreeable to the palate.
