

The Christening Ceremony

BAPTISM OF THE ROYAL BABE SCENE OF GREAT SPLENDOR

Ceremony Was Witnessed by a Brilliant Assemblage of Foreign Princes, Diplomats and Grandees of Kingdom

(Special Correspondence of the Sun.)
MADRID, May 19.—The baptism of the infant Prince of Asturias was performed with royal pomp and magnificence in the royal chapel at noon yesterday.

Queen Christina was godmother, and Cardinal Rinaldi, the papal nuncio, represented the Pope as godfather. Cardinal Sanchez, the archbishop of Toledo and primate of Spain, officiated, assisted by more than forty other bishops and archbishops in full canonicals, and surrounded by a brilliant assemblage of foreign princes, grandees and civil and military officials.

Long before noon yesterday the plaza and approaches to the palace were filled with spectators, who cheered the prelates and other distinguished guests as they drove to the palace in state carriages.
The chapel itself, which consists only of a small nave, was too small to accommodate all the members of the court who were entitled to witness the ceremony, but many who were unable to see the actual baptism had an opportunity of viewing the imposing procession from the gallery which leads from the state apartments to the chapel.

Christening Foot of Santa Dominga de Guzman in the Royal Chapel

This gallery was adorned with thirty-two splendid Gobelin tapestries, and the floor was covered with Turkish carpets. Haberdashers, in gala dress, were ranged on either side.
In the chapel itself galleries had been erected on either side of the nave for the members of the diplomatic corps and high dignitaries of the court and state.

The altar was decorated with a festal frontage of white and covered with white roses and clusters of carnations.
THE PROCESSION.
Precisely at noon a salvo of artillery announced that the procession had been started from the state apartments, where it had been marshaled by the chamberlain. The doors of the chapel were thrown wide open, and a moment later the chamberlain could be seen Four mace-bearers followed the chamberlain, and after them came the grandees, covered, and walking two and two.

Then came seven grandees carrying, on massive silver salvers, certain symbolic articles used at the christening. The grandees were the Dukes of Tovar, Montemar, Bejar, and San Pedro, and the Counts Velle, Valdegrana and Salma. They carried—

The salt-cellar and the robe, the hood, the name came to the emperor of Austria, the Duke of Oporto, representing the King of Portugal; Prince Arthur of Connaught, representing King Edward, and Prince Leopold, representing the Kaiser.

Behind them came the Spanish Infantes, Princess Eulalia and Princess Isabella. The former wore a white dress with a red train and magnificent diamonds, while the Princess Isabella was in heliotrope.

fonso walked alone. He wore the gala uniform of a captain-general, with the Order of the Golden Fleece and Charles III.

THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS NEXT.

The ambassadors extraordinary came next. They included the Archduke Eugene, representing the emperor of Austria; the Duke of Oporto, representing the King of Portugal; Prince Arthur of Connaught, representing King Edward, and Prince Leopold, representing the Kaiser.

Behind them came the Spanish Infantes, Princess Eulalia and Princess Isabella. The former wore a white dress with a red train and magnificent diamonds, while the Princess Isabella was in heliotrope.

Princess Henry of Battenberg followed, and then Prince Remier and Prince Philippe of Bourbon, palace officials and gentlemen-at-arms.

The font, which was brought especially from the Church of San Dominga de Guzman for the christening, stood on a wooden platform under a golden canopy. Cardinal Sanchez, who wore a gold-embroidered cope, covered with diamonds that were almost priceless, stood before the altar as the procession entered the chapel, with the bishops and archbishops grouped on either side.

The christening itself only lasted ten minutes. The baby, prince, who was nearly smothered in lace and embroidery, kept very quiet, and when Cardinal Sanchez poured the baptismal water from the River Jordan on his head, murmured slightly, but did not cry.

Immediately after the christening the baby was taken into the presbytery, where the formal investiture of various orders of chivalry, including the Golden Fleece, took place. Cardinal Sanchez then sang a Te Deum, and the prince was carried back to Queen Victoria Eugenia's apartments.

CONFLICTING STORIES BALMOR

Body of Dead Man May be Number of Bullet Holes of the Shooting in Oneselves.

DALHOUSIE, N. B., June 17.—The inquest over the shooting affray at Balmor opened Monday at 10 a. m. in the court house here. It was crowded with people from all parts of the country. Several newspapers were represented. The crown was represented by W. A. Trueman; the Fontaine family by R. A. Lawlor, C. C. and the Fontaines, Sealy and Gallop, by W. A. Mott. The first witness called was Andrew Fontaine. He swore that Jalbert was the first man who met Sealy at the door. They clinked. All his evidence went to show that Jalbert was the first man who met Sealy at the door. Gallop dragged him to the scene after he had been arrested. Gallop struck Jalbert with the baton. Jalbert ran away, and he also made his escape. Before he left he saw Peter Fontaine run around the house, and both fired at him. The next witness, Joseph Jalbert, swore that Sealy came to his house, knocked at the door, pushed it in, and he ran to the door and pushed Sealy out and knocked him over with a piece of firewood. His wife then called out to Peter Fontaine to come down, and Gallop appeared and struck him on the head and he ran away and hid behind the barn. There he saw Peter Fontaine run around the house and came back to go in the house crawling on his hands and feet. He heard several shots fired.
William Gallop swore that he saw two men at Sealy's door of Joseph Jalbert. He had Andrew Fontaine in custody. He dragged him over to the barn and tried to strike Peter Fontaine, but missed him. Peter Fontaine ran round the house, and Sealy fired one shot.
To Mr. Mott he said he would not swear that Sealy aimed at Fontaine.

BATTERY OF FIELD ARTILLERY IN MONCTON

Transfer From St. John Will be Made Today—Dear Pleasant in Railway Town.

MONCTON, N. B., June 17.—That Moncton is to have a battery of field artillery has become a fact. Word has been received from the military council that the transfer will be gazetted on June 18, and the equipment will reach here this week from St. John. As it is the intention of the militia department to supply all the field batteries with the most modern pattern of supplies in the way of harness for draught horses, and the new colonial saddlery for the saddle horses, it has been found that the ordnance stores at Ottawa could not supply all the batteries with this kind of equipment in time to attend Camp Sussex on June 25. Therefore the Moncton field battery will not go to Sussex, but will perform its twelve days of annual training at Moncton this year, a suitable location near the city having been chosen for the camp. A detachment of the battery will attend camp at Petawawa. Great interest is being taken here in the recruiting of the corps.

John M. Beaton, aged fifty-four, died yesterday at his home. He was a native of Rose Valley, P. E. Island, coming to Moncton with his parents when twenty years old. He conducted a grocery business here for many years. Game is so plentiful in the vicinity of Moncton that wild animals are frequently seen in the streets. A few days ago a large cow moose came out of the woods north of Moncton, and in the early morning hours wandered down through the west end to the I. C. depot, and across the Petrolia River bridge to Coverdale. This morning a deer and two young deer were seen in the streets in the west end. They were not molested and went into the woods.

R. Clark, Moncton manager of the Bank of Montreal, has made an offer of thirty dollars in prizes, ten for a candidate for high school entrance, curing the best mark in reading, ten for the best reader in Grade VIII, and ten for the best reader in the high school. The high school entrance examinations started here today, there being 105 candidates.

Moncton is to have an athletic club to keep this city in line with the athletic revival which is being manifested in athletics all over the province. A general meeting has been called for Tuesday evening at which an athletic club will be formed. There is so splendid athletic talent available in the city at the present time, but a great lack of initiative has been shown in its development.

R. B. Walker, son of J. J. Walker, a well-known accountant, has been appointed relieving officer in Maritime Provinces for the Royal Bank of Canada. He is in Moncton at present time.

A large number of horses drawing a big load of deals took fright at the machine at the Hill corner, and a bad accident came very near resulting. The pole of the wagon dropping as the team shied at the approach of the car. The driver jumped from the load, and the heavy wagon ran a considerable distance before coming to a standstill against a telephone pole. The horses were cut loose, but not seriously.

DEER ISLAND, N. B., June 14.—A daring robbery was committed at Fairhaven a few days ago, when five men of lobstermen were taken from a car owned by Calder Bros. or that place. The loot was valued at $1,000. The men were taken to the spring catch, and were being held for higher prices. Will Calder, who knew his lobstermen by private marks on the plugs, found some of them. It is said, in D. A. Holmes' lobster car at Eastport, Me. Mr. Holmes said they were said to him by two Eastport men, and he suspected them of stealing the lobster, as neither of them were lobster fishermen. Up to the present writing no action has been taken.

HAVERLOCK, June 14.—On Tuesday of this week the death occurred here of John Moser, M. A., in his 82nd year. The funeral service was held this morning at the home of Nathan Ryder, Selkirk, where the deceased was being held and where he had lived for many years, and the remains were interred in the old burying ground here, Rev. Geo. Howard, Baptist clergyman, officiating. Mr. Moser was a graduate of Acadia College in the early fifties and then came to New Brunswick, where he spent most of his life, the last 21 years being in Canada and Salem. He was born at Glen Margate, St. Margaret's Bay, N. S., of German and English parentage. He was a school teacher, only retiring from active service a few years ago, was a noted student of nature, particularly of botany and ornithology, had a large collection of specimens, was never married, and had amassed considerable wealth, which he left for charitable purposes almost entirely. His nephew, Robt. A. Fraser of Halifax, whose locks are white with age, came to attend the funeral and returns in the morning. Mr. Fraser's mother was Mr. Moser's youngest sister.

SACKVILLE, June 14.—Ald. J. B. Baxter of St. John delivered a highly interesting lecture Thursday evening in Oddfellows Hall, under the auspices of the Sackville B. O. T. The hall was comfortably filled, and all listened with the closest attention to Mr. Baxter's remarks. The president of the board, F. B. Black, occupied the chair. Mr. Baxter spoke first of the Canadian confederation and the obstacles which lay in the way of its accomplishment. He then quoted facts and figures to show that this confederation had been a great success. Our population had increased, our exports and imports had grown. The C. P. R. had been built and the west had been opened up. Had the provinces remained as they were these things would have been most difficult.

not the confederation of the three Maritime Provinces work out advantageously for these provinces? The lecturer showed how the west was gaining, in some respects at the expense of the east. In the work of securing immigration these provinces were being left out, and he argued that if the three provinces were merged into one that we might be better able to induce desirable settlers to locate in our provinces instead of going west.

The greatest saving that would be effected by merging the three provincial legislatures into one was shown—once lieutenant governor, less than half the number of members and so on. There would then be uniform laws, a better system of education, a school of technology and a school of agriculture. All these things would become possible and more were three provinces to work together as one. Lastly, the representatives of the one province would have more power at Ottawa than the members of going from the legislature to the federal parliament. The lecturer was loudly applauded when he took his seat.

Senator Wood, in moving a vote of thanks, complimented the speaker very highly for the able manner in which he had presented the subject. The vote was seconded by A. B. Copp. During the evening W. S. Fisher, of St. John, also made a few remarks.

CAMPBELLTON, June 14.—While resting Constable George Sealy, who was trying to arrest him for helping assault a man near Balmor, Peter Fontaine was shot on Thursday by the accidental discharge of the officer's revolver and died a few hours later. Andrew Fontaine, a brother of George Jalbert, who took part in the shooting, escaped. Fontaine, who has handicaps, on has not yet been captured.

On Thursday Mr. Doyle of Dalhousie, while driving with his wife and child, was attacked at Balmor by the three men. All three men were under the influence of liquor. One of the Fontaines waved a bottle and cried out to Doyle: "Come on, if you are looking for trouble," before dragging him from his carriage.

Officer Sealy and a man named Gallop from Dalhousie started out to arrest the men. One story is that on arriving at the home of Andrew Fontaine they placed him under arrest, and George Sealy left alone to go to the next house where Peter Fontaine made his home. On Sealy's arrival there he met with one George Jalbert, with whom Peter Fontaine lived. He arrested Jalbert by mistake for Peter Fontaine, Jalbert not having committed any offense, was surprised to find himself in the hands of the law, and not knowing who Mr. Sealy was and having had a revolver in his hand, he says he mistook him for a burglar and made a fight, as he was very much afraid. Meanwhile he called to his wife and Peter Fontaine for help. Fontaine came to the door, undressed, and seeing a stranger, with a revolver a general row occurred. The policeman, noticing his mistake, let Jalbert go, and made an attempt to arrest Fontaine. Jalbert having received a severe blow made for the woods. Meanwhile Gallop came on the scene and took part in the scuffle, which resulted in Fontaine getting shot, death following soon after. The women in the house ran to the neighboring houses, and seeing that Fontaine was dying William Gallop drove to D. A. Arsenault, of Balmor, and asked him to telephone to Dalhouse for a doctor. Mr. Gallop told his story and wanted him to telephone to Dr. Ferguson and James Harquail, justice of the peace for Dalhousie, also Rev. Mr. Wheaton, of Balmor about the sad occurrence.

Mr. Arsenault sent John A. Arsenault, constable, to the scene but when he arrived there Peter Fontaine was dead, and Andrew's brother, had taken refuge in the woods in his bare feet and handcuffed.

Mr. Arsenault and Rev. Mr. Wheaton left for the scene of the shooting which was five miles from Balmor, and found every member of the Fontaine family in a very excited condition.

Another story is, that having been wounded, Fontaine broke away and ran around the house and went upstairs, pursued by the officer. They clinked at the head of the stairs and came tumbling down. By this time constables had arrived and between them they put the handcuffs on the man.

A post mortem examination was held today under the direction of Dr. Ferguson, the coroner at Dalhousie. The jury, the foreman of which is Charles Powell of Dalhousie, has been sworn in, and the inquest will be held on Saturday at 1.30 p. m. Officer Sealy has not yet been taken into custody. He feels very deeply over the affair.

George Sealy, the policeman who shot Fontaine, is a native of the West End and is well known here. He accepted his present position last summer, having previously engaged in a number of years as a city watchman at Balmor. At one time he was the proprietor of a grocery shop at the upper end of Rodney street. He was also engaged at various times as relief man in the ferry carrying for the city watchman at Sand Point. He is a son of Capt. George Sealy, Charlotte street extension, West End, and he is thirty-four years of age. Capt. Sealy is at present at sea, but he is from his home near St. John's, where he is a family doctor, who, however, feel assured that Sealy only killed Fontaine in self-defense. On Thursday evening shortly after the shooting, Mrs. Kierstead, wife of Rev. C. W. Kierstead, Woodstock, and Mrs. Walter Thompson, West End, are six children. His wife was a Miss Morrill of this city.

CAMPBELLTON, June 13.—Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 64, of Campbellton, are calling for tenders for the erection of an Orange Hall. J. A. P. Bulman is the architect. The building is to be 73 feet high. The lower part of the building will be used as a dwelling. The upper floor will contain the lodge room, reception room, lavatory, regalia room, etc. As the Orange celebration is to be held this year in Campbellton, the lodge is anxious to have a new building to house the lodge and the members of the lodge.
