CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

A month from this date will be Christmas Day, and for that reason it will not be out of place to emphasize a few necessary points:

1. Shop as early as you can.
2. Remember that it is much better to buy from a fresh than a picked-over stock.
3. Purchase from Brantford merchants. They can give you as much quality for your money at right prices as any other merchants anywhere.
4. Courier ads will tell you where to buy. Read them, and you will find a vast range of articles from which to choose.
5. While it is very necessary to shop early, it is also a good plan for every purchaser to make a list of what he or she desires. This plan facilitates the securing of said articles and relieves the shopper and the attendants of a great deal of unnecessary worry. Moreover, there is the satisfaction of securing things intended.

GLAD OF PROPOSALS

Says the Canadian Gazette of London, England.

"The British taxpayer is this year spending £50 millions, and not a penny less, upon the navy which defends Canada and the other Dominions no less than the United Kingdom. At the Guildhall Banquet on Monday last Mr. Churchill announced in the name of a Government minister why he now says he has a lessened national expenditure upon armaments if ever a British Government had, that the burden is to be still further increased. Said the First Lord of the Admiralty: "The measured and unbroken development of the German navy, the simultaneous building by many Powers great and small all over the world of modern and large modern ships of war, will undoubtedly require from us expenditure and exertions greater than those we have ever made in times of peace," and next, "the naval estimates already enormous, must be substantially greater." How, in the face of these facts can Canadian public men go on pretending that there is no menace to British supremacy? We are glad to see the Times announcement from Canada confirming that already made in these columns, that the Canadian Government will again submit the naval proposals at the pending session of the Dominion Parliament."

BRITAINS FOREIGN MINISTERS

The Old Land has nearly always been fortunate in the calibre of its foreign secretaries, no matter in which political side they have been recruited, and especially is this the fact with regard to recent years.

Salisbury, Rosebery and Lansdowne, each in their turn, performed excellent service, and Sir Edward Grey, the present occupant, has long been generally recognized as the most levelled headed of all the leaders now in the foreign and domestic service of the world. This was unanimously recognized when in connection with the intervention of the powers in the matter of the Balkan War, he was without a dissentient voice, chosen to preside.

Speaking recently at Newcastle, he dwelt upon the obligations of that high office, as far as the British Empire is concerned—

- 1.—He has to do his best to prevent political changes or combinations among nations, to prevent the security of the Empire, or communication between its separate parts.
- 2.—To prevent the Empire from assuming to an unnecessary extent territorial responsibilities beyond the tremendous burden now borne.
- 3.—The paramount interest of a world-wide commerce outside the Empire in the promotion and encouragement of which the Foreign Office closely co-operates with the Board of Trade.
- 4.—To do everything possible to prevent the unsettling effects of war or the apprehensions of war or the overthrow.

The above list is a large order, but Sir Edward has met the burdens in a most clear sighted and comprehensive way.

In this connection he added the tribute:—

"The Opposition have with real patriotism refrained from making at any moment party capital out of foreign politics. At critical moments the Opposition have given support in a generous and effective degree."

To which it may be added that with very rare exceptions, the leading men of both parties in Great Britain, whether Conservative or Liberal, always studiously avoided making a political football of foreign policy.

All honor to them for that fact.

THE LIBERALS AND HYDRO-ELECTRIC.

Hon. Adam Beck, speaking in the East Middlesex by-election last evening drew forcible attention to the false claims of certain Liberals that they had helped to bring about that great scheme.

The Minister of Power declared emphatically that in all the record of the hydro-electric movement in Ontario he had no recollection of any Liberal member of the Legislature ever assisting in any way in the work of passing a by-law in his own constituency in favor of hydro-electric. On the other hand they had been ever ready to attack it, to propose other schemes, to delay legislation favorable to this people's movement and to further the plans of the private corporation.

It was not the rank and file of the Liberal party upon whom this charge rested, Hon. Mr. Beck made clear, for it was by the active assistance of Liberals in the various municipalities that the power by-laws had been carried. But these by-laws owed nothing to any assistance from Liberal members of the Legislature nor did they owe any help to Liberal newspapers like The Brantford Expositor, The Stratford Herald and The London Advertiser which had opposed the hydro-electric movement throughout.

"I see that ex-Mayor Urquhart of Toronto says the hydro project originated with the Ross government," said Mr. Beck. "I take exception to that. The scheme of the Ross Government was never intended to be operated as a gold brick, because he recognized that it was never intended to accomplish anything in the way of publicly owned power. Now he has the assurance to come here and tell you that it was Ross that did it, not Whitney."

"Hon. Mr. Mackay denounced this policy," Hon. Mr. Graham was a strong opponent. And Mr. C. Elliott, who now says he has always stood for power for the farmers, is the man who was the advocate of producer gas and opposed our legislation as drastic, socialistic and unfair. He is responsible largely for the condition found in Gloucester today. He urged the council there not to wait for hydro, and induced it to spend $16,000 on a gas producer plant. It broke down and repairs cost them $4,000, while they were without light altogether for four months. Today they are said to be losing from $1,000 to $1,500 a year upon it."

"Mr. Beck did not put matters one way or the other," Hon. Mr. Mackay said. "In this community we all know well how The Expositor fought to the last ditch and by every possible device, against hydro, and in favor of private monopoly. It was matter for congratulation that so many Brantford Liberals proved themselves to possess larger minds on this subject than the organ in question."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Honestly, now, what other land can beat this brand of climate?

Mr. Hawkes has started his campaign in Lanark. He ought to order up the rest of his forces—to wit: Mr. Cooper of Toronto.

Mr. Rowell and his associates are now seeking to claim that they have always loved Hydro-Electric. What they really wanted to do in the first place was to fondle it with an axe.

If it be true that John Bull has been asked to co-operate with the States in the settlement of the Mexican embroglio, then the last should be heard of that ridiculous Monroe doctrine.

For to-day, as far as our neighbors are concerned, Huerta will have to get out of the limelight in favor of that White House wedding. Uncle Sam, quite properly, will be too busy blessing the happy pair to pay attention to anything else.

Meat prices continue to soar, despite the wholesale importation of Canadian cheap beef. Who is holding out?—Chicago News.

The truth of the matter is that gentlemen who talk in a glib way about protection making prices high are largely spouting through their hats. What it does do, in the case of a country like Canada, anchored alongside a powerful nation, is to keep employment for workmen, who in turn help to afford a splendid home market for the farmers.

A WONDERFUL COLD CURE.

You inhale its soothing balsams and out goes the cold—sniffles are cured—headache is cured—symptoms of catarrh and grippe disappear at once. The Last Trip

Captain of Steamer Hamonic Certainly Not Superstitious.

SARNIA, Ont., Nov. 25.—The last trip down of the Steamer Hamonic shows that Capt. Foote is not at all superstitious regarding the number 13. Captain Foote left Port Arthur on the 13th day of November, 1913, having on board the Hamonic 13 first class passengers and 133 second class passengers and 13 tons of flour. The steamer crossed Lake Superior from Port Arthur to the Soo in 13 hours and 13 minutes.

November

November, saddest month of all, to people poor and old; the gloomy sky is like a pall, the wind is bleak and cold. The winter stretches far ahead and threatens snow and storm; then who will bring the poor ones bread, and wood to keep them warm? Oh, who will bring them pie and kraut, canned shrimps and gramophones, when winter hangs his banners out, and shrieks in rufian tones: Oh, who has a goodly pile of money, who is wealthy and says to winter with a smile: "Cut loose and let things rip!" But we are rather sickly skates if we can sit at ease before our cheerful glowing grates, while poorer neighbors freeze. If we can in the fire-light talk without a single care, and smoke and never think to ask how hard-up pilgrims fare, we don't deserve damn. Fortune's gifts, we shoddy care and cheap; we should be dumped in snow drifts some eighteen metres deep. Our thanks be to the divers gods who give us to our goals, but few of us have souls, and most of us have souls.

Of course, the aim is municipal ownership.

If it succeeds, extensions will be made, and every part of the city will be benefited.

A large number of citizens have signified their approbation of the plans of A. J. H. Spence to tie the railway right up and bring matters to a finish. It is hoped that this will result when the appeal is heard in Toronto.

INDIAN SUMMER FOR BRIDAL PARTY

White House the Scene of a Brilliant Event To-day.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Indian summer weather ushered in the wedding day of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson and Frances Bowes Sayre.

Carriages began early rolling up to the White House portico and there was a distinct touch of holiday atmosphere everywhere. In the interior of the White House, a floral border in itself, everything was quiet and in readiness for the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock.

It became known to-day that the wedding couple will spend the greater part of their honeymoon abroad. It is thought they will sail within a week though the time of their departure and destination is being kept secret.

Was Gagged And Tied Up

(Canadian Press Despatch)

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 25.—Marnie Goldberg, Stuart St. East, tells a strange story about being gagged and bound by robbers who went to her home yesterday under the pretence of securing food. The men asked permission to enter and received it when they complained of being cold. The girl says she became suspicious and stepped out the back door to tell the neighbors to come to her aid if she cried for help. When she got back the men had disappeared. The thought little more about it until she went to the cellar to get some coal when the men grabbed her. She fainted in the struggle. She was held firmly by another sister, her hands and feet securely bound. The only other occupant of the house at the time the affair happened was her mother, who is a victim of paralysis. Nothing was taken from the house. The police are investigating.

REAL WINDRY WAVE BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Severe Storms Forecasted for December, Will Reach East 1st of Month.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent Nov. 21 to 25 warm wave to 24, cool wave 23 to 27. This disturbance will bring a great rise in temperatures, a period of unseasonable weather and weather extremes. Most precipitation will continue to be in northern sections of our northwestern mountains; in northeastern sections and about the Gulf of Mexico. Our warnings severe northern storms to occur first half of November proved fairly good, but storm continued to be severe further than we anticipated.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about Nov. 26, cross Pacific slope by close of 27 great central valleys 28 to 30 eastern sections Dec. 1. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Nov. 26, great central valleys 28 eastern sections 30. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about Nov. 29, great central valleys Dec. 1, eastern sections Dec. 3.

This disturbance will continue the high temperatures but the fluctuations will be great, bringing some good cold winter storms, while the average temperature will be above normal.

The location of precipitation will continue to be about same as for the past month; in northern sections, on Pacific slope, particularly in northern sections and about the Gulf of Mexico. The location of rainfall depends largely on the location of the fogs. These fogs for November were located south of Greenland and Iceland in the Behring Sea and immediately east and west of Central America.

The storm that crosses the continent from west to east and those that move northward draw their moisture from the fogs. It is well known that the location of the rising fogs frequently change. To forecast rainfall we must keep close after the locations of the fogs and we are learning more and more about this all the time.

making progress in locating them.

This Nov. 7 to Dec. 1 disturbance will be a dangerous storm in northern sections, particularly in northeastern and northwestern. Our success has been good in giving dates of these severe storms and we are making progress in locating them.

When the warm wave strikes our section the "warm wave" will be the last, and will be in the middle west and Dec. 1 in the eastern sections, you had better prepare for a bad winter storm.

For this year these winter storms are inclined to play about certain centres in the northwestern Rockies, the northeastern Alleghenies and the Gulf of Mexico.

When You Want Something Nice to Serve

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

"A huge crowd with a band gave a great send-off at Yokosuka to the Japanese cruiser despatched to Mexican waters."

For the second time within a week the Laborites adjourned the Australian Senate as a protest against the Government.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; that has incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, hard, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scrub robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toll-free counter; apply a little directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair that has lots of life, no dandruff—no itching—scale and no more falling hair, you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?
