Lydia A. Faulkner.

The death occurred at Port Williams on New Year's night of Lydia A., wife of Mr. Absolam Faulkner. This was an unexpected shock to her family and the community as up to a few minutes before the end she appeared in her usual health, spending the evening knitting by her fireside and conversing with her husband. Mrs. Faulkner had made her home at Port Williams for 15 years moving there from Hantsport. She proved herself a good neighbor, always responding to any call for help or sympathy.

She leaves to mourn the loss of affectionate wife and devoted mother a husband and six children, Capt. Joseph. (at sea), Truman of Vermont, Lena (Mrs. Carter) and Georgie (Mrs. Warren) of Malden, Mass., Miss Althea of Yarmouth and Mildred at home. All her family was able to be present at funeral except Captain Joseph and Mrs. Warren. Her pastor, Rev. A. J. Prosser, conducted the funeral at Port Williams. The remains then being taken to Hantsport for interment, Rev. C. P. Reid officiating there. Among the floral tributes were cut flowers from the family, a wreath from the sisters of Baptist Church, of which she had long been a member and a cross from the Women's Institute.

Mrs. Thomas Harris.

The funeral service was held at Granville Centre, Annapolis County on Monday afternoon conducted at the Baptist Church by Rev. Lew Wallace and the remains were buried in her family lot beside parents, sister and brothers.

Mrs. Harris was a daughter of the late Woodworth Eaton of Granville Centre. She was the eldest of a family of eight. On November 14, 1877, she became the wife of Thomas Harris of Canard and resided there about thirty years. After Mr. Harris' death, ten years ago, she has spent most of the time at Granville.
