A Bad Umbrella Habit Is Cured For the Outlay of $1.

Some years ago I answered an advertisement which offered in return for a $1 bill to send an infallible remedy for the habit of leaving one's umbrella behind in offices and more especially in vehicles. As a money maker that advertiser was a distinct venius for in serence to my amplication. cy maker that advertiser was a distinct genius, for in response to my application and in return for my dollar I received a printed slip, about 4 inches by 3 in size, with printed slip, about 4 inches by 8 in size, with the picture of a man alighting from a back with an open umbrella, which had got stuck fast in the door. Below the picture, which it was explained was purposely drawn out of perspective, were a few lines explaining that if a man would once impress the picture on his mind he would think of it every time he left a vehicle or car and would be prevented thereby from leaving his umbrella behind.

My indignation at this barefaced swindle was so great that what the advertiser dle was so great that what the advertiser advised actually happened. The incident and illustration both became so photoand illustration both became so photo-graphed in my mind's eye every time I car-ried an umbrella I thought of that absurd illustrator, and the dollar I thought thrown-nway has since saved me many dollars a year in umbrellas. The science of mac-monics is a very peculiar one, and few peo-ple understand it. have a friend who always hangs his hat on one peg in his office and has a small brass file just below the peg. By hanging loose memorandums on this file he can scarely leave the office without being reminded of important duties or engagements.

Another man, who has no clock in his office, slips memorandums in his watch pocket, so that when he looks to see if it is time to go home he will also notice whether he has forgotten anything. The only duty which no one yet has been able to remember or to invent a scheme for is malling a letter written by one's wife.
