

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

About 12 o'clock on Sunday night the 17th lot, a man named Thomas Clonick, living at Chagnoville, Charlottetown, N. B., went to the house of a man named DeLong's father, one Clonick, in the same vicinity, about seven or eight miles from Chagnoville, entered and commenced shooting with a revolver. There had been bad blood between the parties in consequence of family quarrels and complications of a domestic nature. William DeLong, one of the men who shot dead, and the father, another son and daughter were wounded. Clonick then set fire to the house and made his escape. He is said to have fastened the doors, so as to prevent the escape of any of the inmates. The wounded ones and all others in the house, except William, who was shot dead, escaped. The body of the wounded man was burned in the first building. All had been in bed when the fire arrived. On Monday morning the officers of the law commenced a search for Clonick. They came upon him and he, feigning himself powerless to control his revolver upon himself inflicting a severe, but not fatal wound in the head. He was taken into custody and his preliminary examination was set down for Monday of this week.

Great Britain and Russia.

St. Petersburg, July 21.—Russia remains in an attitude of reserve with Great Britain. The Russian Minister has expressed his displeasure at the terms of the ultimatum which the British government has presented to the Russian government. The Russian attitude is not one of hostility, but it is one of reserve. The Russian government is not prepared to accept the ultimatum unless it is accompanied by a withdrawal of the British fleet from the Mediterranean. The Russian government is not prepared to accept the ultimatum unless it is accompanied by a withdrawal of the British fleet from the Mediterranean.

News of the War.

London, July 21.—The Standard's correspondent with the first Japanese army, writing July 19th, says: "Our flank have suggested since morning." The correspondent of the Times with Gen. Karaki's army of the same date confirms the Standard's correspondent's report that the right flank of the army had been fighting since dawn.

London, July 22.—In an editorial this morning the Telegraph declares that Russia's response to the ultimatum and her demands for the return of the fleet are not to be taken as a sign of weakness. The Telegraph says that the Russian government is not prepared to accept the ultimatum unless it is accompanied by a withdrawal of the British fleet from the Mediterranean.

Washington, July 20.—The Japanese legation has received the following cablegram from the foreign office at Tokio: "On July 20, the Vladivostok squadron first and second Japanese squadrons, 318 tons, off the coast of Iquanos about 25 miles from Hakodate. All of the crew were landed safely at Cape Yezo."

London, July 20.—Japanes who have arrived here from those parts of the Kwantung peninsula which are occupied by their troops report that the troops in the vicinity of Port Arthur are fortifying their position and awaiting the defensive position of the Russians for a concentrated assault on the place. Preparations are being pushed forward and the final assault will be made not later than the last of this month. Meantime the enemy is making the offensive.

Tokyo, July 22.—General Karaki, after severe fighting occupied Kia Ting on Tuesday. The place had been fortified by the Russians who defended it stoutly. In the fighting Karaki troops dislodged the Russians from their strongly fortified position on the Chi river which is near the west of Maotian Pass, inflicting upon the enemy much more serious losses than they sustained themselves. The fighting began on Monday and the Japs lost 426 men killed and wounded. The Russian loss is estimated at one thousand. Karaki began his advance early on Monday. At a late hour in the afternoon the Russian position was developed and the light continued until dark when the Japs forced a breach. The Japs renewed the attack at midnight pouring artillery in the valley below and on the heights to the south of the Russians. In the morning the Japs in a body were engaged to attack the Russian centre. The final success of the charge was delivered at half past five in the afternoon when the Japs succeeded in nearly capturing all the Russian retreat and this soon became a general rout.
