Evening Telegram

W. J. HERDER, - - Proprietor
W. F. LLOYD, - - - - Editor
FRIDAY, Dec. 6th, 1912.

The People's Will is Dominant

The Daily News this morning announces what has been currently rumoured for some time past, that the negotiations for the sale of the Evening Herald had been completed, and that the Hon. P. T. McGrath, of the Evening Chronicle, was the purchaser.

We understand that Mr. Conroy, of the firm of Furlong and Conroy, acted for the sellers of the Herald Company's Shares, and Mr. Dunfield, of the firm of Morris and Dunfield, acted for Mr. McGrath and those associated with him.

It is also stated that the purchasers assume control immediately. Our readers can now assess at its proper value the report that we made to Mr. McGrath, who charged us with selling out Sir R. Bond, viz., that his mind was surcharged with purchase and sales, and that the Evening Telegram was not on the market, but at the next General Election would be found fighting under the banner of the Liberal Party and under the leadership of Sir Robert Bond.

The fishermen are up in arms against the Government. The Government can do what it likes in the way of flooding all the districts with money for Government work. But it will not work. The fishermen are determined Morris shall go, and what they say and do will go next election.

The country is calling for Sir Robert Bond to take charge of its affairs. The people are tired of Sir Edward Morris. They are determined that Morris and his gang must go, and go they will when the people have had their say at the polls next election.

Money may play what part it can. But it will neither succeed in suppressing the voice of the fishermen, nor in making their votes count less.

when the time comes for them to cast their ballots next November.

The fishermen in their thousands asked to have an opportunity of recording their sentiments towards the Government this past fall. Then the Government turned down their petitions ruthlessly. But the day will come and is coming fast when they will speak and decide in no uncertain terms their verdict, and the Morris crowd will be packed, bag and baggage, into political oblivion.

The Morris Party will not succeed in muzzling the chief Opposition Press. The People's Paper, the Evening Telegram, will give utterance to the people, and its columns will be open to them to give utterance to the predominant sentiment of disgust at the doings of the Tory party and its Government.

The Fishermen's Advocate, the official organ of the Fishermen's Protective Union, will give utterance to the hostility felt towards Morris and his gang, and when the time comes, the members of the mis-named People's Party will wonder what struck them.

They feel bad now. They will feel worse as the progress of the election and by the time the General Election comes round they will be anxious only to find holes to crawl in and to hide their swollen heads.

Meantime, they can comfort themselves with the vagaries of Dr. Mossdell's Open Letter to Mr. Clapp. We do not intend to outrage the feelings of Mr. Clapp nor those of the Liberal Party, nor anyone else by the publication of such letters.

The Daily News, more aptly than probably its Editor knew, recalls the words of Caesar—et tu, Brute. Ingratitude is bitter, but not always a vanquisher. Nor will it be in this case. Mr. Clapp commended Dr. Mossdell to the people of Bonne Bay as medical practitioner, and was instrumental in obtaining that practice for him. It is unnecessary to say more.

Black Diamond Movements.

It is not likely that the Black Diamond Line steamer Morwen will make another trip here this year. She will be put on the Red Cross Line route in February next, conjunction with the S. S. City of Sydney while the Florizel and Stephano are at the sealfishery.

Significant Scene

Special to Evening Telegram.
OTTAWA, To-day.
A significant incident in connection with the Naval policy announcement, occurred at the conclusion of Premier Borden's speech when members of both Government and Opposition arose and sang the National Anthem with the exception of one man, Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of Interior, in the late Laurier Government. Oliver, his face flushed with anger, his brows knit with sullen obstinacy, and he settled himself lower in the chair he occupied on the front opposition benches and neither by word or by action took part in the demonstration. The Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia occupied seats on the floor of the House.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, Dec. 6, 1912.
Rat Corn will help the rats out of your house in a hurry, without leaving any odor behind or giving you or your neighbours any trouble. Many people have used Rat Corn this season and have found it of great service. Price 15 and 25c. and $1 a tin.

A good present for a boy just growing into manhood, and who is just beginning to shave, is an Ever Ready Safety Razor. A Razor complete with twelve blades cost only $1. Many self-shavers are using them, and find splendid satisfaction from them.

The New Champion.

Twenty years ago Jim Corbett was champion, in line followed Fitzsimmons and Jeffries, the world and enough, until plain black JOHNSON arose. The same is true of Motor Engines, the champions good enough in their day vanished when the plan came along, and would he's who copy our advertisements and make claims to simplicity, strength, and durability make themselves ridiculous when prospective buyers compare their machine fitted with pipings to get out of order with the plain FRASER without a frill. Nine out of ten who examine all engines and their records, buy a FRASER.

Buyers get catalogues and compare cuts, or if possible see the machines for yourselves before buying, and common judgement will tell you the FRASER is the Fishermen's Engines. dec3,tf FRANKLIN & CO.
