Tornadoes.

By GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Good Old Siwash." A tornado is à meteorological brain storm. It comes mostly in June when political conventions and other convulsions of nature are plentiful and is case; they are very mild, very prompt have looked the tornado in the eye 25c. per box everywhere. and have felt its fierce embrace are able to enjoy cloudbursts, sunstroke, frost bite, typhoons and London ever The tornado makes its lair in the rule. It is a grizzly, gray-greenish loud with a long funnel attachment which extends to earth and through which it sucks up the scenery with avidity. This funnel whirls at the rate of eleven million revolutions a minute and as it proceeds across the country, it picks up farmhouses, chickens, locomotives, churches, haystacks, school-houses, blackberry patches, and national banks and carries them away. This shows the naural viciousness of the tornado. It nas no use for these things-it only carries them away to cause annoyance. After mixing them up thoroughly, filling the school-houses with locomotives, impaling the hay-stack on the church steeple, picking the feathers from the chickens and mixing them with five dollar bills, it deposits the mess in the next county in a forty acre stand of wheat, folds up its funnel and goes away to take another What Are You bite out of civilization somewhere else.
