SOUTH AFRICA: FUSION OR FEDERATION?

Canadians will watch with sympathetic interest the proceedings of the Durban convention, which has set itself to the task of realizing the ideal of a united South Africa.

The federal system was the only possible means of uniting the Canadian provinces. Sir John Macdonald, with the American civil war in mind, favored a legislative union, but he saw that conditions forbade it. In Australia, also, a federation was the only alternative, because of the refusal of the various colonies to surrender all their self-governing powers to a central authority. In South Africa, however, a different solution is probable.

It has been argued that South Africa is not rich enough to support four state parliaments in addition to the central parliament, and that the task of distinguishing between state and federal duties would be exceptionally difficult in such a country. The idea is that the provincial governments should be, not parliaments, but more like county councils, whose duty it would be to relieve the central government of detailed work which it could not perform, and also to provide the machinery for the execution of general acts. This was the plan which Sir John Macdonald personally favored for Canada. It is understood that in Cape Colony, the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony, most active politicians of both white races favor fusion rather than federation. Neither natural, racial, nor economic differences divide these states from one another. Natal alone, with her mountain frontier, her more tropical climate, her British supremacy and her particularist native policy, prefers federation.

One issue, which is bound to cause more trouble than any other, is the agreement upon any common policy regarding the natives, who number more than 5,000,000, as against a white population of a little over 1,100,000. In Cape Colony, and Cape Colony alone, are the blacks given a liberal measure of civil and political rights. At present 390,000 square miles of the 520,000 square miles, or more than a third of the whole of British South Africa south of the Zambesi, are reserved for natives, and this raises another problem. A well-informed South African correspondent, says that three native policies will be propounded at the convention:

1.—The policy of the smallest group, of whom Mr. Fisher, the prime minister of Orange, and Mr. Wyburgh, M. L. A., of the Transvaal, are outstanding members, who would respect the reserves, while denying political rights to the natives in white areas.

2.—The policy of the Cape, which might or might not keep the reserves closed, but which would give the natives political rights on the same terms as the white colonists.

3.—The policy of the great majority, who believe in both breaking down the reserves and denying natives anywhere in South Africa the right either to have a vote or to own fixed property. This, the largest class, would go even further, and bring all natives, with the possible exception of a few of their clergy, under the pass law and the poll tax. The former law includes a curfew act, and forbids any native to travel out of the farm, or the town, or the location in which he happens to reside, unless by the special permission of a white man.

He predicts that there will be immediate and universal rebellion on the part of the natives if the liberal policy of the Cape is abandoned under any scheme of union, and he says the Imperial Government should intervene to protect the natives against a sacrifice of their political rights by threatening to withdraw the protection of the British navy.

CRIME IN IRELAND DECREASING.
A gratifying result of improved conditions in Ireland is the decrease of crime. According to the report of the registrar-general of judicial statistics the number of indictable offenses show a falling off in 1907 of 3.2 per cent, as compared with 1906, and of 0.5 per cent as compared with 1905. The rate of such crimes in 1907 was 2.2 of the estimated population. Compared with the returns for England, Scotland and Wales Ireland's record is most favorable.

Much of this decrease of crime is due to the growth of temperance among the people. The number of persons proceeded against in 1907 for non-indictable offenses shows a decrease of 1,138 as compared with 1906, and 28,529 below the average for the decade 1887-1906. The extent of the decline of drunkenness is credited to the efforts of Protestant and Catholic temperance organizations, and the parish priests. The number of cases in 1907 was 402 less than in the previous year, while comparing the figures for 1907 with the average for the ten years, 1897-1906, it is found there has been a decrease amounting to 11,985.

The priests have of late years been vigorously fighting intemperance and have accomplished much. In addition there are three organizations to which much of the credit belongs. These are the Church of Ireland Temperance Society, the Catholic Anti-Treating Society, whose members are pledged not to treat, thus making the bibulist pay for what he drinks in a social way, and last, but by no means least, the Father Matthew Society, the revival of which nearly ten years ago, has been productive of great good. There is reason to hope that the next annual report will make even a better showing as regards drunkenness.

The one unsatisfactory feature of the report is that it shows a serious increase in the number of cases of malicious damage to property. The total number in 1907, exclusive of cattle driving, was 588, the offenses including 185 cases of arson, 38 of firing crops, plantations, etc., and 70 of killing and maiming cattle. The total for the year is 55 in excess of that for 1906, and 78 more than for the five years ended 1906.

With the growth of temperance sentiment and habits, and the passage of agrarian legislation, which the present government has in contemplation, Ireland's criminal record should soon compare favorably with that of any country in the world.

IN THE LONDON DISTRICT.
The hardest blow the Opposition received in the recent election was in the district of which London is the natural centre.

Of the twenty-one seats in the counties of Middlesex, Lambton, Perth, Huron, Bruce, Kent, Oxford, Essex and Elgin, the Government carried thirteen, although Opposition prophets were cackling in anticipation of a clean sweep of the Western Peninsula.

They now profess to find comfort in the smallness of some of the Liberal majorities and the reduction of the Liberal vote in several ridings, notably the Oxford, East Elgin, West Middlesex and West Lambton. But these are balanced by Liberal gains in other ridings. A Conservative majority of 329 was wiped out in North Perth and converted into a Liberal majority of forty. In North Bruce there was a similar turnover. The Conservative majority of 107 in that riding has been changed into a Liberal majority of 222. In West Kent, Clements (Con.) won by 115 in 1904 and he was defeated last week by 85. A Conservative majority in South Huron of 111 in 1904 has become a Liberal majority of 156. The Conservative majority in East Huron dropped from 184 to 93 and fell off somewhat in West Huron. In North Essex the Liberal majority has increased from 368 to 604. In South Essex, Mr. Clarke (Lib.) increased his majority from 413 in 1904, to 721.

Liberals will not grudge the Opposition any crumb of comfort it may find in the results in Western Ontario.

It is said a good many Americans will vote for Taft because they can vote for Bryan at any time.

The Grits are not an extinct species in Ontario, although Conservative newspapers and politicians were talking that way before the election.

The Hon. Bill Hanna has a poor opinion of Taft and Bryan, each of whom is anxious to prove that the other is "Johnny Rockefeller's boy."

In North Oxford the "Sutherland Conservatives" voted Conservative this time. This mainly accounts for the reduction of the Liberal majority in the riding.

The Manchester Guardian says that bears have appeared in unusual numbers near Vancouver, and that several have been shot within the city limits. Every Manchester man who comes to Canada will feel it necessary to bring a gun "loaded for bear."

The Toronto Mail and Empire blames the Orange Sentinel for the Opposition's defeat. It seems that the Sentinel's attack on the Government neutralized the votes of thousands of Liberals who had been converted by the calm and cogent arguments of the Mail.

The Chicago Record-Herald, in an otherwise well-informed article on the Canadian elections, comments on the charge that "the Laurier Government had given away practically 30,000,000 acres in Western Canada to political friends." This charge was brought, not against the Laurier Government, but against the Conservative party. The present administration has not given away an acre of public land.

THE COLORED SUPPLEMENT.
[New York Post.]
Clownish, vulgar, idiotic, the colored "comics" of American Sunday newspapers undeniably are. It is a reproach to our civilization that they should have been allowed to swarm over the land. They are a glory all our own. No other journalism has anything like them. They leave visiting foreigners absolutely astounded and agast. For the reproach inevitably runs beyond the individual editor or journal, and is an impeachment of the taste and even common sense of the whole country. Why has not some intelligent Germans and Frenchmen and Englishmen completely puzzled by the Sunday comic? It is a phenomenon which they cannot in the least understand. They must be still over-landed. They are not so different from other peoples. The average of our taste and manners does not strike them as extraordinarily low; and they are even ready to compliment us, until they see the Sunday supplements.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA.
[W. T. Stead in the London Times.]
Returning to Russia after an absence of three years, I find on every hand evidence of a change so complete as to seem almost incredible. To all outward appearance, Russia, after the birth throes of the revolutionary years, has now resumed her normal life. Everyone asserts, the revolutionists more emphatically than anyone else, that the revolutionary fever has spent itself, and that for years to come, provided that the great political evolution represented by the Duma is allowed regular development, there is no reason to apprehend a recurrence of the disturbances of 1905 and 1906.

BUT NOT THE "ONE."
[Bohemian.]
Mrs. Hayle—My husband had $100,000 when I married him.
Mrs. Doyle—How much has he now?
Mrs. Hayle—Oh, he has most of the ciphers left.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL ATTITUDE
[Ottawa Journal.]
The Liberal majority in the new Parliament, while it is as large as in the last Parliament, will be still overwhelming. We do not understand why, but the temper of the public must be admitted to remain satisfied on the whole with the Laurier Administration; those of us who do not like it must face that fact—grin and bear it.

LOCATED.
[London Ideas.]
"Papa, dear, I feel it in my bones that you are going to buy me a new hat."
"Which bone, darling?"
"I'm not sure, but I think it's in my wishbone."

"OCEANS OF FILTH."
[Calgary News.]
Some time ago the Daily News learned the intention of certain disreputable persons in Calgary to flood the Dominion with a vile publication just before election day that would contain "oceans of filth," and which would be spread over the country from end to end.

The action of the Daily News succeeded in frustrating the conspiracy as originally intended, and the heavily published was gotten out without any kind of a stir, put in circulation over the country at the eleventh hour. The result of the distribution has been very different from what was anticipated, and public sentiment has openly declared against such blackguard tactics on the part of any political party—or any faction of any political party.

The original concocters of the scheme are now flying to cover, and are declaring that they had no hand or part in the publishing or distributing of the obscene literature; all of which goes to show that the arrests in the East are having effect upon the rascals in the West.

Sarnia Tunnel Now Electrified Official Opening on November 12

Important Gathering of Railway Men Scheduled for Big Occasion.

One of the most important gatherings of prominent railroad men and engineers that has ever been held in Canada will take place at Sarnia on Nov. 12 in connection with the taking over of the now completely electrified international tunnel between Sarnia and Port Huron, Mich.

Mr. Fitzhugh, fourth vice-president of the road, and a party recently inspected the tunnel, the work of which has been done by the Westinghouse people, and all that remains is for it to be accepted.

Tests Successful.
An official who was present stated to The Advertiser that in tests that have been held the operation of the tunnel by electricity has shown conspicuous success. The object that was desired has been reached, namely, the increased efficiency as to time, and the sending through the tube of a larger number of trains. In connection with the taking over of the tunnel by the company a special inauguration ceremony will be held on Nov. 12.

Invitations are being sent to prominent railwaymen throughout the continent, as well as to many leading engineers to attend the meeting and ceremonies in connection with the formal handing over of the work to the Grand Trunk.

General Manager To Be There.
A special party from Montreal, including General Manager Charles M. Hays, and all the officials, will be present, and will be taken through the tunnel in a special electric train.

After a thorough inspection of the tunnel, the party will return to Sarnia and luncheon will be served at the Hotel Vendome, where speeches will be made by Mr. Hays and others.

Port Huron, through the tunnel, and will then be taken over the power plant and other works in connection with the tunnel, and will return east on the midnight train.

Business Booming on Pere Marquette

St. Thomas Journal of Saturday: The railroads are more optimistic than ever for the return of the old time freight traffic, and report that the business of the last few days has been excellent. The continued fine weather enables the trains to be rushed over the road without interruption, and as a rule all the available engines are being utilized. The rush continues to be made up mostly of freight, consisting of the most part of grain from the west, coming the way of St. Paul and Chicago for export at New York City.

On the Wabash no new crews have been set up, however, owing mostly to the use of larger engines, which haul much larger trains. A couple of years ago when there were sixty engines on the division, now there are only about forty-five doing the same amount of work, which necessarily means that fewer men will be needed.

The same is true on the M.C.R. and available cabooses on these roads are being made use of without delay, especially of the latter road, which has not enough vans to meet the demand. The traffic on this road is unusually heavy; in fact, it is estimated to be the largest since the company began operating in Canada.

Yesterday there were 1,550 cars dispatched through the city, which means a total of nearly thirty-five trains. Another crew was set up yesterday, and if cabooses can be secured more crews will be set up today.

The passenger business on these roads too, is reported to be on the increase, and easily up to the standard of other years, making it a very decided improvement over the conditions prevailing in this department during the summer.

FORESIGHT.
[Toronto Star.]
Meantime, intelligent young men who are under age should devote themselves to the task of growing up to be twenty-one, so that they can vote Liberal by the time the next election comes around.

CUTE JOHNNY.
[Sam Kiser.]
Johnny broke nine window panes celebrating Halloween.
Johnny carried off a gate that belonged to Elder Green.
Johnny tripped folks with a string which he had tied to his belt.

Johnny hit old Mrs. Brown with an ancient cabbage stalk.
Johnny spoiled a lady's dress with a turnip root.
Wasn't Johnny cute?

Johnny wrecked a picket fence, just you know, to celebrate.
Johnny hung a garbage can on the Worthington's front gate.
Plunged against a man's right eye playful Johnny shot a bean.

Johnny broke down costly shrubs, celebrating Halloween.
Johnny scared passers-by with decayed fruit.
Wasn't Johnny cute?

Johnny grew too bold at last, and was madly chased and caught.
On his little cocoon he received an awful swat.
Both his eyes went shut, and blood trickled from his battered face.
Johnny's nose, all flattened out, seemed to cease to know its place.
Johnny's mother said the man was a heartless brute.
Wasn't Johnny cute?

BURDENS.
[Washington Star.]
"You think all women should take athletic exercise?"
"Yes," answered Miss Gayenne, "if they expect to wear hats as large as fashion prescribes."

DO THEY CARE?
[Woodstock Review.]
The rector of an Episcopal church was suddenly seized with heart failure in a New York town the other day. It was assumed from his name that he was a Roman Catholic. A priest was hastily summoned, who administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church. It does not appear that the great calamity followed the mistake. Perhaps the great Powers that rule the universe pay less attention to nice distinctions of creed and faith than we sometimes imagine.

FARMER FOUND GUILTY
Jury Decides He Was Responsible for Atrocious Watertown Murder.

Watertown, N. Y., Oct. 31.—After three hours' deliberation the jury in the trial of James D. Farmer, charged with the murder of Mrs. Sarah Brennan, last April, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree.

The crime for which Farmer was convicted, and for which his wife, Mary Farmer, awaits sentence at Auburn prison, was a most atrocious one. In order to gain possession of the Brennan home, deeds were forged, transferring the property to the Farmers a year ago today.

On April 23 last Mrs. Brennan disappeared, and four days later search revealed her badly mutilated body stuffed in a trunk in her own home, of which the Farmers had just taken possession. Farmer and his wife were at once arrested. Mrs. Farmer was tried in the early summer, and the death sentence is delayed pending an appeal.

GOMPERS TO TAFT
Former Says Fellow Labor Leaders Are Not Deserving Him.

New York, Nov. 1.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, made his final appeal to organized labor tonight to support the candidacy of Wm. J. Bryan. In an address extending over two hours he dealt in detail with the labor issues of the campaign, and with all the feeling he could put in the words that the support of labor be given to Mr. Bryan next Tuesday.

Grand Central Palace was crowded, and at the conclusion of the speech there was applause and cheering that lasted until he left the platform. Mr. Gompers declared that Wm. H. Taft in a speech in Buffalo last Friday night had endeavored to misrepresent the cause of labor and to deceive laboring men into the belief that prominent labor leaders were "falling away from Mr. Gompers in his effort to pledge the labor vote to the Democratic party."

CONVICTED OF PERSONATION
A Hamilton Conservative Is Said to Have Voted Twice.

Hamilton, Nov. 2.—At the police court today G. Cordatt was convicted of personation at the elections on Monday. He went to a polling booth in Ward 4, said he was Cyrus Rose, and marked his ballot for Mayor Stewart, the Conservative candidate. An outside scrutineer discovered the fraud before the Italian left. Cordatt's defense was that two canvassers told him he could vote in Rose's name, and the police are now looking for those canvassers. Sentence was reserved. Louis Rose was committed for trial on a charge of aiding and abetting Cordatt. Louis is an interpreter, and he insisted in the booth that Cordatt was Rose.

FLANNAGAN'S FINE FLING.
New York, Nov. 2.—John F. Flannagan added a half-inch to the pound hammer throw mark yesterday at the games of the Alesian Athletic Association, at Elizabeth, N. J., making a throw of 173 feet 7½ inches. The mark will not stand, however, as the throw was made with a circle marked with a string instead of an iron hoop, and was slightly down hill. The record is held by Matt McGrath, who made it in the Canadian championships in 1907.

"Girls" on Thursday.
Miss Florence Reed, who plays the role of "Pam," the leader of the trio of maniacs, in Clyde Fitch's latest comedy "Girls," that is to be presented at the Grand Thursday evening, is a daughter of the late popular actor, Roland Reed. Though coming of a theatrical family, Miss Reed has only been on the stage five years, having spent her younger life in a boarding school and college. In the hard school of the stock company Miss Reed received her theatrical training, and so pronounced was her success in the characters she essayed that last season she was selected as leading woman for E. H. Sothern, a position that requires a most capable and finished actress. In the role of "Pam" in the "Girls," Miss Reed has scored a pronounced success, and her efforts to keep the other members of her flock from marrying the despised sterner sex form a most amusing feature of the cleverest of comedies.

John Griffith.
Those to whom the classic drama appeals are no doubt looking forward to Mr. John Griffith's forthcoming presentation of "Othello" and "Faust" at the Grand Opera House Saturday, matinee and evening, with pleasurable anticipations.

"Othello" will be given for the matinee performance, and "Faust" will be presented in the evening. The scenery and costumes for both plays are said to be new and unusually brilliant. An especially attractive feature of the production of "Faust," is the startling electrical effects employed in the famous duel and brooding scenes, which are said to excel anything ever attempted by the several other stars who have appeared in Goethe's popular drama. The engagement will be under the auspices of Durkee Lodge, No. 30, I. O. O. F., which fact lends even greater local interest in the occasion.

Thomas Jefferson.
Thomas Jefferson, a name which stands for all that is best in theatricals, is the fifth generation of the famous Jefferson family of actors, and the third to keep "Rip Van Winkle" before the American public. His grandfather, Joseph Jefferson, first played it 65 years ago, then his father, Joseph Jefferson appeared in it for over fifty years, and Thomas himself has been playing it for ten seasons. So long as the name Jefferson is connected with the grand old romance of the Catskills, just so long will the public look to see it. A rose by any other name would smell as sweet; but "Rip Van Winkle" without Jefferson would not be the great American classic that it is today. Mr. Jefferson will appear at the Grand Thanksgiving Day, matinee and night.

Big Crowds at Bennett's.
Saturday afternoon and night Bennett's played to standing room only. The moral is, Give the people the goods and you'll get the business. This should be wed to the Clarke Brown in New York. Clarke has been delivering the goods this year, and Londoners are willing to forget the past. To Manager Driscoll must also be given a big share of the credit for the improved business. He runs the house in a manner pleasing to Londoners, and he certainly has installed one of the best orchestras in Canada.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Maggie Gilmer, of West Union, S. C., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I was greatly run-down in health from a weakness peculiar to my sex, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. It not only restored me to perfect health, but to my delight I am a mother."

Mrs. Josephine Hall, of Bardonia, Ky., writes: "I was a very great sufferer from female troubles, and my physician failed to help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound not only restored me to perfect health, but I am now a proud mother."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.
For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

YORK'S ARCHBISHOP RESIGNS.
