

FIFTY THOUSAND U.S. 'SMOKES' SEIZED ON FARM

Tragedy Averted As U.S. Vessels Collide in Toronto Bay

CIGARETTES LOCATED, PRISONER REMAINED

Officers Swoop Down on Farm of Morris Goldenberg—
Make Big Haul.

PLEADS GUILTY

Charged Also With Having Liquor For Sale on Place.

Two hours after License Inspector Walter Bolton, Provincial Constable T. Y. Stratton and High Constable Wharton raided his farm this morning, on the third concession of London Township, Morris Goldenberg pleaded guilty to having 50,000 American cigarettes in his possession minus the Canadian government inland revenue stamps. He was remanded for sentence by Magistrate Graydon in county police court. The cigarettes were worth $875, Canadian prices.

Goldenberg pleaded not guilty to a charge of having liquor for sale, denying that the 21 bottles of Seagram's Three-Star whiskey found in a potato sack were kept for anything but his private use. The labels over the corks bore 1921 excise stamps.

It was just 8 a.m. when the officers arrived at the farm. Inspector Bolton read the search warrant, and Constables Wharton and Stratton walked right into the house and peered into a cupboard and the stairs where the cigarettes were packed away in five potato sacks. They proved to be "Lucky Strikes" and "Omars" in the usual cartons.

Goldenberg was hustled into an auto and brought to the Carling street court, where the O. T. A. charge was laid by Inspector Bolton and the cigarette charge by Inspector Cecil Webbe of the inland revenue department.

You are charged with having cigarettes not stamped by the inland revenue department. Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked the court.

"I guess I'm guilty," replied Morris, smiling and rolling his eyes.

"You know the law," replied the magistrate, after which Morris pleaded guilty.

"I don't keep no liquor for sale," denied the accused when the O. T. A. charge was read by the court. "I have nothing to do with it."

Goldenberg said he could not raise the $500 cash bail desired by the court and would think over the charge while he was in jail. He was remanded to proceed with the case on Monday, he declared.

SONG BIRD NOT READY TO VISIT MAGISTRATE

A well-known citizen, who has a fondness for song after he has stowed away a considerable quantity of liquor, made the welkin ring in police court this morning, although he was far away in the cells below.

Arrested for being drunk he was not in a condition to appear before the court today, and was remanded to jail till Monday without making a police court bow.

"Who is the prisoner, chief?" inquired reporters after court, as the man whooped out popular songs of yester year from his iron-bound cage. "You know," replied the chief significantly. "You've heard that voice here more than once."

TWO-THIRDS RULE TIES UP PARLEY

American Consul Explains
Difficulties at Democratic Convention.

No deadlock would exist today after 70 ballots have been cast at the Democratic convention in New York City if the party followed a similar procedure to the Republicans. That was brought out today by T. G. Taggart, American vice-consul here, who said that the party has a majority vote of 732 out of 1,093 before a unanimous choice is finally made by their standard-bearer. Voting power in national conventions is given according to the strength of the individual states in Congress. Delegates are named in state conventions. A state may send 20 delegates when its quota is only 25. They are all accredited delegates, but are given only the half vote each. That accounts for the half votes cast in the present record-breaking Democratic convention.

There is no leader named at the start of a national convention. An ordinary clerk takes charge, and calls for a temporary chairman, who in turn calls for the election of a permanent chairman. The two-thirds vote rules all through Democratic procedure, while the Republicans maintain the majority rule. When a standard-bearer is finally chosen a unanimous vote is cast for him.

The nominee is then notified very formally by letter and asked, with every sincerity, if he will accept. In voting, the franchise holders have lengthy ballots, showing presidential nominees and all others, right down the line. In some cases a single ballot will indicate a voter's desire to vote for his party all the way, while in the various congressmen, his ballot will look like an income tax paper. So far as presidential nominees are concerned, any party may name a standard-bearer. The third party naming a candidate in much the same manner as the Democrats or Republicans.

NURSES' SUPERINTENDENT IS SOUGHT BY TRUST

There will be a meeting of the hospital trust on Tuesday night at Victoria Hospital. The most important problem before the trust at the present time is the finding of a successor to Miss E. B. Ross, who leaves the hospital on July 15. Miss Ross was superintendent of nurses and principal of the training school. She has been connected with the hospital for three years, and during that time the course of instruction has been greatly improved under her leadership.

Near Panic Results as Toronto and Modjeska Collide in Toronto Bay.

RUSH FOR SAFETY

Hamilton Steamer Badly Damaged, But Is Able To Return To Dock.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, July 5.—When the steamer Toronto collided in Toronto Bay with the steamer Modjeska, bound for Hamilton with a picnic party of women and children, a panic was nearly caused shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. Passengers rushed for life preservers, and their screams could be heard ashore, but quiet was quickly restored when it was seen the boat was in no danger, although considerable damage was done. Both vessels are owned by the Canada Steamship Lines.

The Hamilton vessel was backing out from the slip at the foot of Yonge street. The Toronto was turning about to proceed to the coal dock, some distance west, when she ran into the Modjeska, hitting her about fifteen feet from the stern, the bow of the larger ship driving in the timbers of the Modjeska and denting the side from the top to a point near the waterline. The boat was rocked to one side, women and children thrown about, and the crew working in the holds were also tossed by the force of the impact. Both vessels stopped, the Toronto reversing and backing away from the Modjeska, which proceeded to her slip under her own power.

Eye-witnesses of the collision say that the Hamilton boat was shoved overboard in a dangerous angle when struck by the larger boat, the prow of which was stove in from the top to a point near the waterline. Captain Bruce declared that the Toronto would make her regular trip to Montreal this afternoon after the damage had been repaired.

The passengers of the Modjeska, none of whom were injured in the collision, were transferred to the Toronto, which carried them to their destination.

The Toronto had no passengers on board.

Captain Arthur Booth was in charge of the Toronto and Captain J. A. Henderson, the Modjeska.

LORD HALDANE, lord chancellor in the Laborite ministry, whose proposal to remove the name of Magistrate Deni from the rolls on the ground that he is a passive resister, has caused strong opposition in the British House.

POSITIONS OF LEADERS UNALTERED ON 72ND

McAdoo and Smith Factions Are Unyielding in Attitudes.

PROPOSALS MADE

Delegates Show Weariness As Nomination Battle Is Renewed.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, July 5.—Weary but unyielding after seventy rounds of bargaining for a presidential nominee, the Democratic national convention was called at 10:30 a.m. today to begin a desperate tug-of-war that has carried it to the end of its second week of sessions.

The delegates forming closely matched on one point, that despite measures were needed to break the deadlock between William G. McAdoo and Governor Alfred E. Smith. They were not agreed, however, on any of the numerous schemes advanced in frenzied efforts to bring about this end, nor was it known how any of these plans might be put into effect.

Party leaders scurried about to conferences as soon as the convention adjourned at 12:20 this morning, but their ideas were so diverse and their objectives appeared so diametrically opposed that a few of the delegates, tugging off to bed, saw no likelihood of a solution. They were hopeful, but they had grown wary of expecting.

Leaders' Positions Unaltered. The four of July ballots the leaders remained in practically the same positions they have occupied throughout the week. Each had demonstrated a veto power over the other and neither camp was willing to concede that its maximum strength had been called out or that its lines had shown signs of crumbling. On the contrary, both claimed to be more solidly entrenched than ever.

McAdoo reached his highest point in a speech on July 4, when he declared that the party would hold 52 1/2% on the 7th, 20 1/2% less than a majority and 20 1/2% less than two-thirds of those present. He declared that the party would hold 52 1/2% on the 7th, 20 1/2% less than a majority and 20 1/2% less than two-thirds of those present.

Three hundred and fifty passengers were rescued and are proceeding to Baltimore on the Middlesex. The steamer was bound for Baltimore.

FRANCIS TO FACE CHARGE OF THEFT

Case Against Man Convicted of Fraud Adjourned Until Monday.

E. W. Francis, who was to have been sentenced on three charges of fraud by Magistrate Graydon this morning, had the case adjourned till Monday on the request of Frank Curran, his solicitor.

Another charge will be laid by Crown Attorney Judd, who stated in court that Francis would also be charged with the theft of a rifle. The crown charged that Francis borrowed the gun from a local citizen and then sold it.

Francis pleaded guilty last week to issuing three checks with no funds behind them, and asked the court to remand him until restitution could be made. It is understood that this will be done before he appears Monday.

Mr. Curran asked for an extra day or two, but the court stated an extra adjournment would make no difference to the case.

The amount involved in all the checks, including one on which a charge was not laid, is $150.

CANADIAN POULTRY GIVEN HIGHEST AWARDS IN SPAIN

Next World Exhibition Will Be Held in Canada in 1927.

SENT TO WEMBLEY

Pen of Barred Rocks Will Be Presented to King George.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, July 5.—Canada's exhibition in the world poultry congress recently at Barcelona, Spain, stood high in the estimation of the judges. It was reported by F. C. Elford, Docteur poultry husbandman, who has just returned to Ottawa from Spain. Despite the fact that some of Canada's representative poultry travelled 7,000 miles before the show, there was but little sickness in the Canadian birds. Canada's poultry was the source of much favorable comment. Twenty-six countries were represented.

Canada was chosen for the next congress in 1927, which will mean the attendance of poultry experts from every part of the world. A good part of Canada's exhibit in Spain this year are on exhibition at Wembley. After that exhibition closes, a pen of Barred Rocks will be accepted by His Majesty King George and the boards of agriculture of England, Scotland and Ireland will receive the rest. A part of the exhibit already has been presented to Spanish royalty and Spanish boards of agriculture.

MORAL PACT OF BRITISH AND FRENCH GETS JOLT

Two Governments at Variance On the Reparations Problem.

PREMIERS EXPLAIN

MacDonald and Herriot Maintain Respective Attitudes Are Justified.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, July 5.—The moral pact of continuous collaboration which Premier Herriot announced he had brought back from his Chequers conference with the British prime minister seems to be already in a bad way. The most serious point of difference between the British and French viewpoints concerns the identity of the body which is to decide when Germany shall have defaulted in her engagements.

The French newspapers refuse to admit that the proposals of the Dawes plan are outside the Versailles Treaty, and declare that the British intention to replace the reparations commission by another body is unjustified, as is the British argument that the French cling to the reparations commission because they control it.

Conference in Doubt.

Some of the opposition papers question the possibility now of holding the proposed inter-allied conference on July 16. They argue that if the French and British cabinets cannot adjust their views before that date they would be unable to do so during the conference, and France would run the risk of being exposed to collective pressure, and placed in a position of isolation to which the present situation is preferable.

Premier Herriot's appearance before the finance and foreign relations committees of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday lasted three hours. He read the official minutes of the Chequers talks and also the telegram he sent to the British premier, expressing the surprise he felt at the nature of the memorandum sent by Mr. MacDonald along with the invitation to the proposed inter-allied conference.

Former Premier Briand suggested that Mr. Herriot try to resume the negotiations for signature of a guaranty pact which Briand undertook at Cannes. The premier replied that he had made every pressing effort in that direction, but that the political situation had been deeply modified since the Cannes conference. British public opinion and the French cabinet were being hostile to any military agreement.

The officials of the disarmament department are greatly impressed by the American draft, which in many ways they deem a distinct improvement over the league pact of mutual assistance which is now before all the great powers for their opinions. They especially commend the juridical features and the utilization of the world court of justice.

DRAFT TREATY WILL COME BEFORE LEAGUE

Plan on Disarmament Drawn Up by Americans To Be Submitted.

Associated Press Despatch.

Geneva, Switzerland, July 5.—The draft treaty on disarmament and security recently prepared by a group of prominent Americans may form a subject of discussion at the next assembly of the League of Nations in September. The disarmament section of the league has decided to print the treaty as an annex to the official report which it will submit to the assembly, and this action automatically throws the subject on the agenda, making debate on the floor possible.

The officials of the disarmament department are greatly impressed by the American draft, which in many ways they deem a distinct improvement over the league pact of mutual assistance which is now before all the great powers for their opinions.

Match Squared at Fourth.

Third hole, Somerville outdrew Thompson by 20 yards and was on pin high 12 feet to the left with his second. Thompson just short with his iron, but was 12 feet from the pin with his third. Somerville roused his first putt and Thompson did the same. Somerville needed an 18-inch putt for the hole, but missed it, and it was halved in five.

Fourth hole, Thompson drove into long grass beside bunker. Somerville on green 12 feet short of pin. Thompson 10 feet over pin. Somerville putted a few inches from hole. Thompson's putt hit Somerville's ball. Please See Page 2, Column 3.

SOMERVILLE SQUARES UP MATCH ON THE 14TH

London Golfer's Play of Yesterday Created a Strong Impression With Experts.

WEATHER IDEAL

Thompson Expected To Extend Himself To Limit To Gain Title.

FLASH.

Somerville, after being down three on the eleventh, squares the match on the fourteenth, taking three in a row.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Rosedale Golf Club, Toronto, July 5.—In his effort to be the third player to win the Canadian amateur golf title for the second time, Frank Thompson of Mississauga, the 1921 title holder, is opposed today by Ross Somerville of London, and while the star varsity football and hockey player has not the experience of the Mississauga man, there are many who expect him to win. Somerville has been steadily improving for the last two seasons, and at present there is not a longer hitter in the Dominion, and he has the ideal temperament, as his win, after being three down at the eighteenth at Lauren's, yesterday signifies if he can duplicate his game of yesterday afternoon and Thompson also shows the form that he did in the final match, the match today will be a classic.

Somerville will likely be the favorite. He with the gallery owing to the fact that he is a dark horse. On Monday night he was one of the seven extreme outsiders for the title, and yesterday he eliminated the third favorite, and the day before another who was considered a strong possibility for the 1924 title.

Once again the weather is ideal, although the sun is very warm. Thompson, in reaching for the honor, representing the top half of the draw, was well down the fairway, while Somerville sliced to the draw of the hill, and was in the grass on the slope beyond the green. Thompson was on with his second 20 feet short of the pin. Somerville's chip was weak, but reaching the green, Thompson was dead and laid.

Thompson was dead and laid. Somerville was a stymie. The latter almost negotiated it on his first putt but was still away. He sank his second for a half in four, birdies.
