BATHER STARTLING.

A Prestidigitator's Chostly Mechan Scarf-pin. From the New York Mail. A harmless yet ghastly scarf-pin is a mechanical skull of enamelled gold, with a movable under jaw and with diamonds set back in its hollow sockets for eyes. Prof. J. A. Schultz, the prestidigitator, wore one on a recent visit to the city hall. The little ornament was a marvel of the jeweler's art. It was enamelled in perfect imitation of a bleached human skull, and a bright-colored gold jockey cap fixed to the top of it added to its ghastliness. A reporter for the Mail and Express had his eyes upon the skull while the professor was talking to an alderman, when suddenly the under jaw of the skull began to ratile and the diamonds in the eye sockets folled and flashed. The chattering of the jaws could be plainly one on a recent visit to the city hall. The chattering of the jaws could be plainly heard ten feet away and was calculated to draw attention. The alderman and the reporter observed the chattering about the same instant. It had a fascinating and awe justified effect upon the city to the same instant. It had a fascinating and awe inspiring effect upon the city father who stood spell bound for an instant and then acted as though he doubted his vision. The chattering and cyerolling would stop for a moment, as though the skull was tired by the exertion of rathing its tiny teeth together, only to be renewed the next moment with more viger. Finally the reporter's professional instinct got the better of him and he seught the professor to tell him all about the arrangement. The latter complied with a hearty laugh over the effect of his little joke.

"In the first place," said he, "the skull is worked by a current of electricity generated by a l'ttle battery which I carry in my pocket, and transmitted over wires no heavier the an strands of thread."

He ill ustrated the working of the ornament by waste and the working of the ornament. The Morse Soap Co. soap factory, Front street. He ill ustrated the working of the ornament by pressing upon a button, which comr leted the electric circuit and caused the teeth to rattle.

"It was made in Paris," continued Mr. Schultz, "and is worth $100; at least that is what its duplicate will cost any person who wants one. Yes, the price is rather steep, but you must consider that the or-nament has to be very carefully and nicely adjusted, and that it is made of platinum and the best of gold; besides, the diamonds alone are of some value. No. No cheap counterfeits have yet been made. The lowest priced one I ever saw was marked at SRS.

Not only on this side of the Atlantic, but throughout surope, has their name become famous as the most successful specialists of the day. The methodadopted by the A.A.M.S. entirely does away with the cid and pernicious habit of pouring drugs into the stomach, and can be employed by sufferers at their own homes, thus doing away with the necessity of their paying frequent visits to the office.
