Business men are complaining of the Grand Trunk's management of the Northern railway. They say that the freight service was bad snough under the old regime, but that it is far snough under the old regime, but that it is far worse now. A leather merchant says that a sar loaded with merchandise at a point 78 miles away was eight days in transit to Toronto. He is confident that he could have teamed in the goods in shorter time. It is all right for the railway companies to go ahead and bid for a heavy through traffic, but at the same time the local freight trade should not be neglected. It is exceedingly annoying to business men to have to submit to delays, and in the long run these annoyances affect the traffic receipts of the railway company.

Rappears that the demand in the United Brates for coal, which was so lively in September has fallen off greatly while the output continues. The Coal Trade Journal in its weekly review of the state of trade, hints that, lower prices are probable. Here is one extract: "The unusual activity during the months of July, August and September awas militate against any very great activity during the succeeding three months. There is a fair trade going on thus far in October, but it is not of such a character as to warrant any hope of the continuance of present quotations unless the output be materially reduced." The local coal dealers might take this opinion into their consideration when they meet to fix winter prices. It is just possible that if they put the their consideration when they meet to fix winter prices. It is just possible that if they put the price up it will be their pleasant duty to reduce

Bry Goods.

The wholesale dry goods trade has been brisk this week. One healthful sign is, the merchant tailors report good business. This means increased orders for tweeds, worsteds, linings and trimmings. As the weather gets colder the demand for plain heavy dress goods increases. Fanny dress goods have been moving very satisfactorily and stocks are nad omnestic, there is a fair trade doing. Canadian fancy kultted goods are in popular favor. Formerly these goods—such as fanny clouds, hoods, scarts, etc.—were imported from the United States and Germany. Importations have been falling off since the Canadian factories started three years ago, and now Canadian factories have practically the whole trade. These goods are being pushed forward more than over this year. The cotton market is still in an unsatisfactory and uncertain state. Manufacturers are cutting prices, but are not disposed to fill large orders. Payments during the week have been fair.

The quantity of wool in stock in Toronto is about 1,000,000 pounds, and stocks held by dealers in the country tributary to Toronto aniount to 500,000 pounds mere. This is not a large amount to have on hand but it is telt heavy on account of the markets being dull. After the Presidential election in the United States it is expected that the wool manufacturing centres of the New England States will be large buyers.
