CURRENT TRADE CONDITIONS.

ONTARIO.

The lumber business of the province shows the effect of the approaching winter. Retail dealers as a rule are buying only in small lots, which policy is likely to continue until after the first of the year. The consumption in Toronto is of considerable volume and in the country districts the demand is quite as good as could be expected at this season. There does not seem to be much call for bill stuff. In an otherwise featureless market, box lumber continues to command special attention. The supply is now so small that some manufacturers are advancing their box and common about $1 per thousand. In the Georgian Bay district log run white pine is held at $10, box at $15 and mill culls at $11. There are still plenty of buyers for hardwood lumber whenever suitable stocks can be found. It is almost impossible to obtain certain sizes of elm, basswood and maple. The manufacturers are showing no disposition to reduce their asking figures, but on the other hand are asking higher prices for desirable stocks. The shingle market is in a healthier condition and dealers who were carrying heavy stocks of British Columbia cedar shingles are gradually getting them worked off.

The weather has been favorable for operations in the woods. In some districts there are about 18 inches of snow, but hauling will not be commenced until after Christmas. It is reported that on account of money stringency and the expense of logging one or two concerns have taken their camps out of the woods.

MANITOBA AND BRITISH COLUMBIA.

There is very little activity in the lumber business throughout the North-West, more attention being given to logging conditions than to the marketing of lumber. In the districts from which the log supply
