Austrian Dominions .- The abdication of the Emperor Ferdinand greatly improves the prospect of a settlement of the contest which has so fearfully convulsed his wide dominions. The accession of a new Sovereign will inspire hope that the resistance offered to his predecessor will not be visited with the severe vengeance which threatened the leaders in the insurrection if Ferdinand had remained Emperor. Charles Joseph may comprise, in an amnesty, men who by his uncle could not safely have been allowed to escape punishment. The young Emperor is said to be popular with the Hungarians; and he makes fair promises in his first proclamation, the main part of which we here insert: WE. PRANCIS JOSEPH L. BY THE GRACE OF

Gon, Entraion or Austria, &c. "By the resignation of our beloved uncle, the Emperor and King Ferdinand I., in Hungary and Bohemia of that name the 8th, and by the resignation of our beloved father, the lord Archduke Francis Charles, and summoned on the strength of the pragmatic sanction to assume the Crown of this Empire, proclaim hereby solemnly a our people the fact of our ascension to the throne under the name of Francis Joseph the First.

" We are convinced of the necessity and the value of free institutions, and enter with confidelice on the path of a prosperous reformation of the Monnichy.

of equality of rights to all our people, and the equality of all our citizens before the law, and on the basis of their equally partaking in the representation and legislation, the country will rise to its ancient grandeur; it will acquire new strength to resist the storms of the time, it will be a hall to shelter the tribes of many tongues united under the sceptre of our fathers. " Jealous of the glory of the Crown, and resolved to preserve the monarchy uncurtailed, but ready to share our privileges with the representatives of our people, we hope by the essistance of God and the co-operation of our people to succeed in uniting all the countries and tribes of the monarchy into one integral state. We have had severe trials; tranquillity and order have been disturbed in many parts of the empire. A civil war is now raging in one part of the monarchy. Preparations have been made to restore legal order everywhere. The conquest over rehellion and the return of domestic prace are the first conditions to the great work which we now take in hand.

" In this we rely confidently on the sensible and candid co operation of the nation by its representatives. We rely on the sound sense of the lova inhabitants of the country, whom the new laws on the abolition of servitude and imposts have admitted to a full enjoyment of civil rights."

ITALY.—Escape of the Pope.—Cortespon

dence of the London Times. Since the assassination of M. Rossi, the Pope remained a close prisoner in the Quirinal; and the Duke d'Harcourt, the French representative, was compelled to reside in the palace, for the purpose of affording the protection of his person and flag to the sovereign Pontiff. The business of the Government went on in the Pope's name, but without his sanction, and so far did he carry his resolution not to be dictated to, that he refused even to receive the reports, according to invariable custom; of the officer of the guard. Such a state of things could not long continue, and the members of the diplomatic corps, as it is said, arranged a plan for the liberation of his Holiness, of which the immediate execution was entrusted to the Count de Spaur, the Minister of Bavaria. At an early our, previously agreed to, the Pope retired into a private room for the purpose of apparently conferring with the gentleman I have just named, and there he disguised himself in the livery of the Bavarian legation. In a few minutes the carriage of the minister was called, and the Count de Spaur, followed by the Pope, disguised as his servant, descended the grand staircase, entered his carriage, the Pope mounting on the box alongside the coachman. The artifice succeeded-no suspicion arose either in the Quitinal or the outward guards, and the good old man was enabled to breathe the air of liberty. Immediately on the arrival at the residence of the Bavarian minister another transposition was made. The Pope took off the livery suit, and dressed himself in the usual costume of the minister's chaptain, or aumonier and M. de Spaur having already given notice of his intention of going to Naples, and received passports from the Government, post horses were soon procured, the count and his supposed chaptain took their places in the carriage, and then happily cleared the gates of Rome. I was sometime before the escape was discovered as of course due care was used by those in the secret to say that the Pontiff was engaged in his devotions, and could not be disturbed When the flight became known, the ministry was thunderstruck, and, as I hear, dragoons were despatched to bring back the fugitive. But either these measures failed, for the new Government hesitated in arresting the person of an ambassador, and the Count de Spaur, with his reverend charge, crossed the frontier in safety, and arrived at Gaeta, a large lown, the first in the Neapolitan territory, not far from Terracina. The Pope left the Quirinal on the evening of the 24th, and arrived at Gaeta on the night of the 25th."

The King of Naples most readily took the Pontiff under his protection; a protest, declaring all the late acts at Rome null and void, and appointing four persons to carry on the Government over the Papal States, was signed by the Pope, but the people of Rome refuse to recognise the force of it, and have sent a deputation calling upon their Sovereign to return to his dominions.

G. O'REILLY & W. G. DICKINSON. THIS COMPANY is prepared to effect Assurance upon Lives and transact any business dependent upon the value or duration of Human Life; to grant or purchase Annuities or Reversions of all kinds, as also Survivoiships and Endowments.

In addition to the various advantages offered by other Companies, the Directors of this Company are enabled, from the investment of the Premiums in the Province at a rate of compound interest much beyond that which can be obtained in Britain, to promise a most material reduction of costs; guaranteeing Assurances, Survivorships or Endowments for a smaller present payment, or yearly premium, and granting increased Annuities whether immediate or deferred, for any sum of money invested with them. They can also point to the local position of the Company as of peculiar importance to intending Assurers, as it enables such Assurers to exercise control over the Company, and facilitates the acceptance of healthy isks, as well as the prompt settlement of claims.

Assurances can be effected either with on without participation in the profits of the Company; the premiums may be paid in half yearly or quarterly instalments; and the HALF CREDIT SYSTEM having been adopted by the Board, credit will be given for one half of the first seven premiums, secured upon the Policy alone.
