

ABSTRACT

This report gives an overview of the Malaysian market for imported foods. It discusses characteristics of the Malaysian market, including the size of the market, Canada's market share, major food imports, main supplying countries and the most significant Canadian exports to Malaysia. It considers tariffs and import licences and permits that are required. The report discusses aspects of the Malaysian food distribution system, including the major supermarkets and importers and the distribution chain. The report also provides comments made by Malaysian importers about Canadian imported foods. Contacts for further information are provided.
