

ing the country, such as has not hitherto been offered to the public, and such as one could not expect to meet with in a book devoted to the consideration of its general circumstances and condition.

The author spent two years and a half in Upper Canada, and, in the course of that time, resided in various parts of the Province. He enjoyed numerous opportunities of inspecting its new settlements; so that all the statements, for the information of emigrants, contained in the fourteenth letter, are the result of personal observation.

The interest that almost all works on North America have recently excited, will, it is hoped, be extended to this, which has some claim upon the public attention, in so far as it relates to the most valuable and important of our colonial possessions in that part of the world.
