LEFT HIS BRIDE RATHER THAN TELL STORY

Kenneth Douglas, Formerly of Toronto, Lived Well in New York and Married Wellesley Girl, But Disappeared When Asked for Truth About His Past Life.

Special to The Toronto World. NEW YORK, June 4.—Kenneth Douglas, who said he was a doctor of philosophy from McGill University and called himself a "social service adviser," dressed in New York, N.Y., last December, talked himself into place with the bureau of associated charities; made friends among folks who started a social survey of the city and went into editorial stuff in The Evening News.

Several weeks ago Douglas capped his Newark career by marrying Miss Marjory Stoneman of Taunton, Mass., a graduate of Wellesley, who had come to Newark as the efficiency expert of a department store. The ceremony was performed on April 18 by the Rev. George P. Dougherty of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, one of the influential friends won by Douglas.

Last Wednesday morning Douglas left his office from the Pennsylvania station in New York that he would not be back, as a physical and nervous breakdown had made it necessary for him to go to a sanitarium for an indefinite time.

Not even as much as a word was sent to Mrs. Douglas; she went to the home of Rev. Mr. Dougherty not only convinced that her husband had left her for good, but in grave doubt whether she was truly his wife.

Douglas Was Divorced. Mrs. Douglas said today that Douglas had led her to believe he was unmarried. His application for a license contained a statement, but Mr. Dougherty's return to the city registrar contained the statement that Douglas was a divorced man.

To others in Newark Douglas said that he had got a divorce in Ohio. Not only because of the discrepancies in these stories, but because of persistent reports that he had not been divorced at all, he was called to account by his employers. He was to lay proof of his statements before them today. Instead, there came the telegram saying that he would not return.

"I last saw my husband Tuesday afternoon," Mrs. Douglas said last night. "I met him on the street and talked with him only a few minutes. He told me he was going to New York to consult a physician."

He made many speeches in churches and in clubs, and it was in the course of this work that he met Miss Stoneman.

It was understood Toronto was Douglas' home.

SAILOR VICTIMS G.T.P. OPERATE WERE HONORED IN THE DEATH

Cortege Presented Impressive Spectacle as It Proceeded From Cathedral to Cemetery on Hill Above Quebec Citadel - Capt. Kendall Rode in Carriage Behind Line of Hearse.

Leader of the opposition in the Ontario Legislature, who opened his campaign in Massey Hall last night.

(By Clark E. Locke.) QUEBEC, June 4.—The days of Quebec's mourning drew to an impressive close today. The cloud of gloom was lifted when the twelve bodies of the Empress of Ireland sailor victims were conveyed in solemn state to their resting place on the lonely hill above the citadel. It was for this city the closing chapter in a book of tragedy, and the conclusion almost reached sobriety in its expression of submission to the hand of Providence.

The procession lining up on the ramparts and falling slowly in behind the hearse as they left the cathedral formed a moving spectacle. In a long, twisting, serpentine formation the mass moved up the hill. A splint of scarlet in one section belatedly the presence of marines and militia. Dull blue and white followed next as the sailors from the British cruiser "Essex" tramped along in column formation.

Immediately behind the last hearse came the only carriage in the train. Seated inside with head bowed in his hands was Capt. Kendall of the lost liner. Beside him Capt. Walsh, superintendent of the C. P. R. marine, strove to utter words of comfort.

With bare heads and in uniform, Dr. Grant, the ship surgeon of the Empress, the chief engineer in his uniform who had passed through the tragedy, trudged in the curling dust at the rear of the carriages.

Far in the fore the garrison dragoon band with muffled instruments and muffled drums, walked forth "The Dead March in Saul."

Flowers Covered Caskets. One and all they passed over the hill and stood about the windswept graves as the caskets, covered with flowers, received the last benediction of the church. The crowds of solemn-eyed citizens, standing uncovered on the streets, shuffled forward, gradually in conversation and turned back once more to the routine of life.

The early hours in the churches were stirring to impressiveness. In St. Patrick's Cathedral a special grand mass was sung for the souls of the departed. When the ceremony opened the body of the church auditorium lay in the heavy shadows of early morning.

Up at the altar rail reposed five caskets, banked in flowers and surrounded by high candles, which flickered all night long. When the hour for service had come, lights began to appear. And suddenly the electric current flashed thru a thousand miniature bulbs.

The chanting of the mass was wonderfully faithful to the pathos of the setting.

Marred by Rain. The burial services concluded in a shower of rain. All morning the sky had threatened, and close upon the last words of the prayer came the rain.

Members of the Social Democratic party agreed with the motion, as also did the I. O. P. delegates, but owing to strenuous opposition from P. Bancroft, R. J. Stevenson and M. Wayman the motion was amended at a late hour, so that the council will have five representatives on the committee empowered to select candidates, while the convention of the Socialists on Sunday and of the I. O. P. next week will determine the names of their candidates also.

SOCIALISTS TRY TO EXCLUDE COUNCIL

Motion Regarding Selection of Labor Candidates Meets With Vigorous Opposition at District Council Meeting - Warm Criticism Respecting Irish Nomination.

Altho the meeting of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council last night commenced in profound silence as a token of respect for members who had lost lives or relatives thru the loss of the Empress of Ireland, it terminated near midnight in heated debate and political factional strife.

Controller Simpson moved that the selection of candidates for the provincial elections, as well as the plan of the platform to be used in the campaign, be relegated to the committee, composed of representatives of the I. O. P. and social democracy party, and trades council, but giving the two political organizations power to select candidates to the exclusion of the trades council.

According to some delegates this motion would have prevented many prominent labor men from becoming candidates. Others averred that it was an attempt to introduce machine politics.

Delegates Gibbons and Simpson declared that labor men were being used to squeeze out of parliament, men who had been sympathetic to labor, and to assist those who had fought most bitterly against his interests.

More than one delegate, including Simpson and Gibbons, hinted at a procedure and tactics that had been followed in defeating W. McNaught and selecting Mark Irish for North Toronto, and it was declared that labor men had attended that convention and voted against McNaught's nomination.

Members of the Social Democratic party agreed with the motion, as also did the I. O. P. delegates, but owing to strenuous opposition from P. Bancroft, R. J. Stevenson and M. Wayman the motion was amended at a late hour, so that the council will have five representatives on the committee empowered to select candidates, while the convention of the Socialists on Sunday and of the I. MYSTERIOUS WOMAN, IN CONVENTIONAL COURT DRESS, SHOUTED APPEAL TO KING - REMOVAL FOLLOWED.

CANADIAN PRESS DESPATCH. LONDON, June 4.—The King and Queen held court at Buckingham Palace tonight, and in spite of all precautions a militant suffragette gained access to their presence and caused an interruption to the presentations. As she was passing the King the suffragette dropped on her knees and shouted: "Your majesty, for God's sake, do not use force."

The woman was seized in court dress, and her action caused profound astonishment. She continued to admonish the King, but her words were inaudible, as the conductor of the band in the gallery, quick to observe the incident, signalled to the band to play louder, and the woman's voice was drowned.

She was immediately removed from the room and handed over to the police. The name of the woman is not known, and close enquiries are being made as to how she obtained a card of admission.

BELIEVE CARRANZA IS LEANING TO MEDIATION. Delay in Sending Reply Interpreted as a Favorable Sign.

Delay in Sending Reply Interrupted. CANADIAN PRESS DESPATCH. NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 4.—Mediation waited another day for word from Gen. Carranza on constitutional participation at the conferences here, but none came. The silence was regarded as a favorable omen, for it was interpreted as meaning that the constitutionalists were carefully weighing the advantages of mediation. A feeling of confidence was general that they would take the hand extended them by the mediators.

CHURCH UNION IS CAUSING KEEN CONTROVERSY

Opponents of Move in Presbyterian Assembly Will Meet This Morning to Formulate Policy - Appeal Made for Better Financial Support to Missions.

By a Staff Reporter. WOODSTOCK, June 4.—Church union will probably be discussed by the Presbyterian General Assembly tomorrow. The committee dealing with the question met again today, but were not ready with their recommendations. They will meet again tomorrow morning in an endeavor to conclude their report. The Baptist, Anglican and Congregational churches here will watch the proceedings of the assembly in this respect with great interest.

Just as the moderator was about to announce the closing hymn at the evening session, a commissioner stepped upon the platform and announced that those interested in the continuation of the Presbyterian Church would meet in the Carnegie Library tomorrow at 8 a.m., for the purpose of organizing against church union.

Strong pleas were entered for church union by the ministers of other churches when they welcomed the commissioners this morning on behalf of the Ministerial Association of Woodstock.

This subject was discussed pretty generally in the church throughout the day. Commissioners met in small groups and expressed different opinions.

Rev. F. H. Brown, president of the Ministerial Association and pastor of St. Paul's Anglican Church, said that his congregation were in favor of uniting with the Presbyterians.

Prayers for Union for which we are praying, we shall be proud to claim your traditions," he said. "We know that our life will be enriched by such a union, and we trust we will have something to offer which will help your fight for Christ," he continued. "A lamentable and deplorable" was the manner in which the speaker characterized the divisions among the different denominations.

"I believe that our church has certain claims for union with the Presbyterian Church," stated Rev. Mr. Peck, pastor of the local Congregational church, during his address of welcome.

Rev. J. W. Warner of the Baptist Church, delivered a short address of welcome.

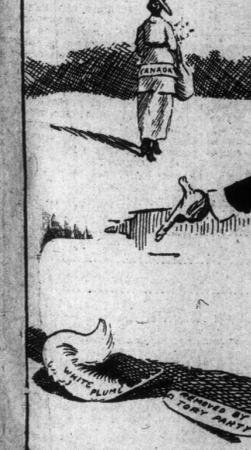

Appeal for Missions. Dr. A. S. Grant of Toronto addressed evening of the members of the Presbyterian churches for the home missions. He deplored the fact that so many of the members of the churches were enjoying large riches and so little was being given for this good cause.

He showed the handicap that the home missionaries were working under. The centre of this evil, he said, was the liquor traffic. He suggested that the assembly should put themselves on record as being against it.

That the ministers residing in the large cities of this country do not come out strongly enough against it was a statement made by the speaker.

GIVE RIGHT TO DEVELOP POWER

INTERNATIONAL JOINT COMMISSION GRANTS COMPANIES VALUABLE PRIVILEGES IN ST. MARY'S RIVER.

By a Staff Reporter. OTTAWA, June 4.—The international joint commission has given out its final order of approval of the applications of the Michigan Northern Power Company, and the Algoma Steel Corporation, Limited, for the diversion of water for power purposes, and the construction of works in the St. Mary's River at Sault Ste. Marie.

These decisions are likely to have far-reaching consequences. They authorize the diversion on each side of the St. Mary's River of approximately 10,000 cubic ft. of water per second, for the development of power by the two companies. It is estimated that this will produce about 105,000 continuous electrical horsepower.

A hydraulic engineer, who has given home study to this question, states that 104,000 horsepower developed by private interests would involve an annual charge of about $1,564,000, or about $14.75 per horsepower per annum, and that the same quantity developed under public auspices would involve an estimated annual charge of $1,197,000, or about $10.75 per horsepower per annum.
