

XIII. Though antiquities are no ways in connection with Natural History, it will however, be very acceptable, if the curious of North America will collect and communicate to their friends in Great Britain, all the inscriptions, arms, vases, utensils, idols, and other things, found in that continent, capable of throwing a light on the history and antiquities of its first inhabitants.

ry par-
g them
s mixed
in pro-
leather,
l with a
ier half
moniac, getative

d, must
e roots,
ed with
plants
upon a
ws, fill-
slips in
il-cloth,
xed on
n open
ea: the e taken

l kinds,
e whole
n a box,
rub one
carriage,
earths,
or little
eral wa-
ately af-
ty round

XIII.