sak Sir Louis to accept the portfolio of justice in place of Hon. David Mills, who goes to the Supreme Court bench. As announced some time since, Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick was slated for the Department of Justice, but the Solicitor-General's friends say that he makes $20,000 a year by his profession, and that the party should not expect so young'a man to make such a sacrifice. Naturally Sir Louis Jette's return to public lite would necessitate the retirement of a French-Canadian Minister, and it is believed that Hon. Mr. Tarte is this man, and that, as a matter of fact, the Minister of Public Works has decided to accept the inevitable and go to Spencerwood. Everything indicates that Mr. Tarte is at loggerheads with most all of his colleagues, and, in fact, he writes against some of them every day in his paper, La Patrie.

It is said here that Hon. James Sutherland would only accept a portfolio on the condition that Mr. Tarte should retire from the ministry, and that the trouble over the telegraph control has become most acute.

William Gray Died at St. Michael's Hospital Saturday.

William Gray, a middle-aged man, was taken to St. Michael's Hospital on Saturday afternoon in an unconscious condition. He died in that institution shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday night.

Early on Saturday morning Mrs. Gray left her home for her place of employment, and about 10.30 o'clock received a message stating that her husband, whom she had left in the best of spirits, had swallowed a quantity of roggh-on-rats. When she relacted home she found her husband unconscious, and under Dr. Garratt's treatment. After administering an emetic to counter act the effects of the poison, the physicians had him removed by Policeman Bustard in the ambulance.
