WORK CITIES AND SUBURBS

Just the thing for Children. Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is remarkably effective with delicate children. They like it and take it readily when they cannot be induced to take Cod Liver Oil. It is an excellent tonic and just what the little ones need. It makes them eat better, sleep better, and gain in weight, strength and color. Give it to the children if they have a cough or cold; if they are pale and thin; if they are scrofulous or rickety; if their food does not digest or their bowels are out of order. It is pleasant to take.

BRACONDALE ATHLETIC CLUB FORMED

Dispute Over the Laying of New Sidewalk—Fred O'Dell Hooked by a Cow.

Toronto Junction, Aug. 25.—The presentation of a gold watch and illuminated address was this evening made to J. F. Hass at his residence, Lawstreet, by the employees of the Canada Cycle and Motor Company. The presentation was made by F. G. Pennal, and the address was signed by the following gentlemen: F. G. Pennal, H. G. Condit, W. S. Barrow, F. W. Dunn, George Bell, and J. R. Sherrill. Mr. Hass has occupied the position of superintendent of works since the Cleveland bicycle factory started, and was held in high esteem by the employees of the factory. He has severed his connection with the company, but will continue to be a resident of the town. After the presentation a banquet was held and a long toast list locally responded to.

'THE MIRROR UP TO NATURE'

All the Local Places of Amusement Doing Business With Exception of the Princesses.

SAM BERNARD IS SHEA'S ATTRACTION

'Shooting the Chutes' a Clever Show at the Grand-Notices of Them All.

'Shooting the Chutes,' a farcical hodge-podge in three parts, attracted quite a large audience Monday night, when the Grand Opera House opened its season for the season. From the constant laughter and applause it would seem that the show filled all the purposes for which it was intended. A vehicle for light amusement of this kind is next to nothing, but what there is serves to introduce the well-known comedians, Davis and Caulfield, and they are supported by a number of clever people. It is a pleasant combination of mirth and music and a little bit of mystery, the latter in the introduction of 'Chicago,' which the program says 'is a mechanical doll, which assertion is unproved by the question, is it alive?' The appearance is, in its extreme rigidity, almost white on the stage makes its reality doubtful. One way or the other, it is perfect in its kind. Other popular features of the entertainment were the singing of Miss Anna Driver, a dainty soprano, who caught the crowd with 'Good Old Friends' and later, with a first-class rendering of the waltz, 'My Darling Brown.' Al Lawrence was a huge success in his limitations, which were exceptional. Lord Pritzkoff and Maile Little were heard to advantage in operatic selections. Marty Moore's parodies also got up a good deal of a laugh. There is always something doing while the show is on the stage. The dancing and costumes are good. The lighting is good and the music is good. A very agreeable attraction for the latter part of the evening was the 'Shooting the Chutes' which will continue Wednesday and Thursday.

'Not Guilty' Draws Well.

The melodrama, 'Not Guilty,' at the Grand Opera House, was witnessed by big crowds at the performance on Monday night. The show abounds in thrilling incidents, which are well acted. The plot is a good one, and the acting is good. The show is a good one, and the acting is good.

THOUGHTS OF HIS MOTHER INDUCED

Fred Rice to Stay Execution of His Threat.

GAVE UP KEEN-EDGED LANCET

Now Known That He Confessed to Killing Constable Boyd—Planned to Kidnap Rockefeller.

Fred Lee Rice, the last of the Rutledge gang, executed in Toronto last night, was in possession of means of self-destruction to the day before he was hanged to the scaffold. In spite of the extraordinary precautions exercised by those in whose custody the desperate fellow was confined, and the repeated search of his person and his cell, Rice possessed a small, sharp-pointed lancet with a razor edge, capable of taking his own life or the life of his guard. How long this dangerous weapon had been in his possession is unknown. He never divulged the fact to any person, and his reasons for surrendering it are not known. He was handed to the governor of the prison by Rice the morning prior to his execution without comment. He took it from his vest pocket the day before he was hanged, and evidently carried it in a convenient position during his last few hours, either with the intention of using it if a single chance offered for an escape, however desperate, or he desired to keep it with him to be certain of being able to cheat the gallows. The murderer had boasted repeatedly that he would never hang. Apparently, he was of the opinion that in his extreme hour, but the authorities are not to determine the manner in which he was supplied with the bit of steel. After his execution, Rice was stripped and minutely searched, in view of his alarming threats. Nothing was found at that time. His cell was searched when he was placed in it, and each week thereafter. A guard was posted outside his cell, and it would have been possible for any person outside to have supplied the lancet as a matter of course. The fact remains, however, that the murderer had the knife up to within an inch of his death. His lawyer, re-examined the case-law and the regular officials were the only persons permitted to be in the cell after he was hanged. The death cell. Not one of these persons had been given the weapon, even if they were not, as a guard was present at all times. It is most plausible theory is that Rice found the weapon in his cell, and he carried it in a manner which was not observed. He was so desperate that he was willing to risk his life in order to escape. He was so desperate that he was willing to risk his life in order to escape. He was so desperate that he was willing to risk his life in order to escape.
