Individuality and Heredity. Dealing with individuality and heredity in the Sunday school, Rev. Wm. H. Roberts of Philadelphia said: Definition of terms is valuable for Definition of terms is valuable for clearness of thought upon any subject. Irdividuality may be defined as that quality which makes a man to be distinct from all other human beings, so that no being can be put in his place, nor confounded with him, nor he with others. Individuality is synonomous with selfhood. It is that in each human being which can say I am, I must, I will. Self-existence, moral responsibility, will power, these are its great elements.

responsibility, will power, these are his great elements.

The word heredity describes those qualities of body and mind which one inherits from parents or other ancestors. As a force, it tends to continue in successive generations both the good and the evil qualities of ancestors, and gives efficacy to the proverb. "Like gives efficacy to the proverb: "Like ather, like child."

Both individuality and heredity have place in God's plan for earth and an. The individual and the family are man. The individual and the lamily are ever present and persistent facts. Both receive Divine recognition in Holy Scripture. Scientific inquiry in the natural world likewise emphasizes both.

Wherever children are gathered to gether for instruction those two influences need each to be taken into due

The church was filled with the badged and beribboned Sunday school workers, but it was not until Prof. Jacobs of New York commenced the first hymn that one realized fully the nature of the gathering. The hymn was taken by every one of the 2000 voices and sung with an enthusiasm that was sung with an enthusiasm that was wonderful in the light of present day holir-led singing. There were three hymns and then Rev. Dr. Tyler said: "It is now three years since the last meeting of the International Sunday School Convention at Denver. They have been three years full of stirring events. We have met here to outline our course of work for the next three years. This is the greatest convention years. This is the greatest convention ever held on earth for systematized study of God's word and Sunday school work. This convention will go down to history as the supreme importance in the extension of the Master's work. We have not come to Toronto for preferment of any kind to ourselves. We are here as members of the household of the Father, devoted to one common Lord, moved by His spirit and advance of the Father, devoted to one common Lord, moved by His spirit and advance His interests among the people of the earth. I feel that 'we are not divided—all one body we.' We have our individual convictions, but above all else is the common devotion to our common Lord. Twenty four years ago I attended an international Sunday school occupied a higher place than merely one for the imparting of information. It was a place where men and women with their aims and objects consecrated to the highest of all works. There was no work holier, higher or better, and none fraught with greater possibilities for the future, altho the work had to be carried on amid the difficulties and discouragements of an atmosphere of almost crass indifference to 'hings spiritual.

If it could be shown that this can owned or American built, made a line argument thus developed would apply with added force to the universities the der private or denominational control, and indeed to all universities of any sort whatsoever. scale indeed to all universities of any sort whatsoever.

There were three aspects in which the Sunday school and the state university seemed to agree. Both are truth seekers, both instructors, both character builders. Now if in any wise they seek the same truth, impart the same instruction, or develop the same type of character, they become thereby and to that extent related the one to the other.

The relation of the Sunday school to the university should be of that mutual helpfulness and regard. This could be maintained on the part of the Sunday school in two ways; first, by sceing to it that university students are well grounded in spiritual truth and favorably disposed to the work of the church, before they enter university ilfe; and second, by furnishing religious instruction the best and most attractive possible, at all places where university students are actually living the university may maintain a relation of the Corne was a minute she possible, at all places where university students are actually living the university life. Already prominent Baptists of this country are making their way toward the ports that lead to London, where they will attend the Baptist World's Congress, which will be held in that city from July 11 to 18. This is the first congress of these religionists that has ever been held. The object of the con-gress is the discussion of the church work of the world. Addresses will be delivered dealing with subjects looking to the Baptists' place and power among the churches of the world, and the general subjects will be dealt with by the representative men and ministers from the countries that are represent-ed. Educational and mission work will be dealt with in addresses. Dr. Alexander McLaren of Manchester, England, by the chairman of the convention.

During their stay in England, it is expected that the members of the congress will visit the three historic Baptist places. expected that the members of the congress will visit the three historic Baptist places—Warrington, the birthplace of the Baptist cause in 1522; Leicester, a cathedral town, and the birthplace of Robert Hall, and Kettering, the birthplace of the modern mission.

Seldom a day passes without our having some one who has not previously seen the Bell Piano call upon us and critically examine it. The result in every instance is the same; every one who sees and hears the Bell becomes at once an ardent admirer. The plain truth is that the Bell Piano is a source of wonder and amazement to the most experienced musical people who call upon us; they realize and tell us frankly that in tonal qualities the Bell Piano is a step in advance of any other instrument manufactured.

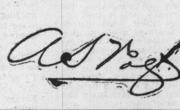

Does this last statement seem like egotism? To those who have not examined the Bell Piano for themselves it may seem that we exaggerate the good opinion of our visitors. If any reader thinks so, he need but come to our warerooms or our factories, or both, and see the instrument for himself. The skeptic at once becomes an enthusiast in praise of the Bell after he has actually seen the piano and heard its magnificent tone.

Musicians everywhere speak in the most flattering terms of our achievements as piano manufacturers. There are few pianists or vocalists of any prominence in this country who have not testified to the fine qualities of the Bell Piano.

Here is a testimonial from Mr. A. S. Vogt, the talented leader of the Mendelssohn Choir, Toronto:-

"I take this opportunity to congratulate you upon the excellence of the Pianos being manufactured by your firm. A critical examination of the many details which enter into the manufacture of a first-class instrument has convinced me of the superior character of the Bell Piano. The touch, tone and general finish of the pianos of your firm, combine to make the Bell Piano an instrument of which the manufacturers may well feel proud." Conductor Mendel-ssohn Choir, To-ronto.

Bell Pianos are made, guaranteed and built to last a lifetime by the largest makers of pianos in Canada.
