GOD SAVE THE KING.
Great personalities there are with whom age is never associated. To the public mind they possess the secret, if not of perpetual youth, at least of undiminished vitality. They carry their weight of years and responsibilities with a deceptive lightness which seemingly arrests the finger of time. So it comes with a distinct surprise when circumstance approves the fact that they are within hailing distance of the allotted span. That Scriptural limitation is not fortuitously so rigid as are views of literalist interpreters, for historic instances abound of wonderful records made by veterans in every line of life. Better that other age, that man is immortal till his work is done, whatever may be the actual number of his years.

Sixty-eight years ago to-day King Edward VII., whom God preserve, was born in Buckingham Palace. Early in his 60th year he ascended the throne, succeeding the late good and great Queen Victoria of happy memory. That also added to the burden he then assumed and has since so worthily borne. His accession was hailed with right good will, but not many foresaw that a few brief years would prove him to be a sovereign after the best British heart and crown him with the noble and endearing attribute of Peace-maker. Now he is acclaimed with a unanimity of voice unparalleled in the world, the honored and revered constitutional sovereign of a congeries of free peoples. This day, from point to point of that empire round which the sun perpetually flies yet ever rests perpetual, there rises but one prayer: God Save the King.

FEDERATED LABOR.
An attitude of patronage towards the great convention of the American Federation of Labor, now assembled in the city, could only be justified by the rankest ignorance concerning the relation of labor to society. It has not always been so, nor do all men yet see the change. But the organization of which Mr. Samuel Gompers is the president officer marks a social revolution of the most radical kind, and the wise will adjust themselves to it and all that it means. "Honest labor wears a lovely face," said to be a poetic conceit, but it is becoming crystallized as a principle in economics, and a watchword in politics.

Toll, but not too much toll; a reciprocal recognition of the mutual benefits of brain and brawn, and a fair division of the result, are the broad articles of the labor confession. Care of the children, education, and many other important considerations follow on these. Dignity and self-respect grow among labor men as they more fully realize their relation to society, and their own personal responsibilities. Probably labor men do realize these things as fully as most other classes of the community, and few individuals in any class excel the labor leaders who have visited Toronto from time to time. None realize better than they that it is not by blatant self-assertion, but by steady achievement that they command society and conquer circumstance. When all men are willing and reasonable the present demands of labor will be regarded as most moderate. Toronto is honored by the visit of the federation, and no doubt a better acquaintance will benefit all concerned.

PORT ARTHUR GIVES TRENTON THE LEAD.

On the morning after the vote at Port Arthur whereby the citizens decided to ratify the agreement for power negotiated for them by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and to reject that which Mr. James Connors, M. P., had prepared, Mr. Connors was so impressed with the injustice of popular majorities that he threatened to get an injunction to prevent the municipality doing as it had resolved. He explained that he did not do this as a member of the company interested, but purely and solely in his capacity as a ratepayer and disinterested citizen. There are frequent examples of such disinterested citizenship in Toronto, Hamilton and other Ontario towns, but we are bound to confess our sympathy goes with the incredulous and suspicious public.

The Fort Arthur Daily News has no doubt about Mr. Connors' attitude, and declares that "in all the records of exploitation in Port Arthur there is none that can compare in stealth and bluff with the attempt which was unsuccessfully made this week to foist upon Port Arthur the power proposition submitted thru Mr. Connors in behalf of outside interests."

The new agreement secures very satisfactory terms for Port Arthur. It offers great improvement on previous conditions, and following the successful results of the arrangements negotiated for Ottawa by the Hydro-Electric Commission, is an indication to other municipalities of what may be achieved by the assistance of expert engineering and other professional advice.

To The World's appeal to the citizens, and there must be sufficient alert and independent opinion in the town to manifest the public spirit necessary to avoid a disastrous course, not only for Trenton itself, but for the whole district of which the town is such an attractive centre.

A manufacturer wrote The World last week in some trepidation about the unstable conditions which would prevail under the proposed agreement. Manufacturers will not be attracted to Trenton or anywhere else where private companies rule the situation, and are free to impose all the charges the business will bear, when they can go to Port Arthur or Ottawa or elsewhere under the certain conditions, the cheap rates, and the guarantee of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

EXPRESS COMPANY SERVICE.
A complaint from a correspondent respecting the unaccommodating methods of the express companies at the point when accommodation is most necessary, raises the great question as to whether the companies exist for the convenience of the public or the public for the benefit of the companies.

A gentleman newly arrived in Canada having some books which he did not wish to carry home, mailed them at the general postoffice, and although surprised at the heavy rates compared with those in Britain, adopted what he regarded as a public convenience. Next evening on returning home he received a card which stated that there was a parcel at the postoffice addressed to him, too large for the carrier to deliver. He had to go down and carry home his own parcel after paying postage on it.

The man who lives outside the city limits cannot expect to share all the conveniences enjoyed by the man inside. Naturally he wants gas, water, electricity, express privileges and other facilities. A line must be drawn somewhere, and the express companies draw it at the city boundaries, or inside such districts as the business appears to them to warrant. If there is enough business in a district they put on a wagon. If there is not the man who wants express service must move to a district where the wagon runs, or pay extra to a local express company to complete the deliveries of express parcels handled by the large companies.

The Dominion Railway Board is understood to be considering the express services, and there is a good deal to consider. When there arises a postmaster-general who will establish a parcel post, Canada will be a more comfortable land to live in.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE AND THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.
Editor World: Permit me to thank you for your very sensible editorial in Thursday's World on "Woman Suffrage and Domestic Life." You are quite right in saying that "opposition to woman suffrage, such as that presented by Cardinal Gibbons, is hypothetical and fanciful, and grounded on the social conditions of bygone ages."

practical experience in regard to their own sex and in regard to children may influence legislation for the physical, moral and social protection of girls. Riches by the poor, and for guarding the child's natural home from evils that carry with them criminal poverty and disease." Rev. Edward McSwiney, M. St. Mary's, Md., says: "I think a great onward step in the progress of mankind will be made when every adult person shall take an active part in the government of our country."

As chairman of the national church work committee of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, I have at my command testimonials in favor of woman suffrage from thousands of prominent Protestant clergymen all over the country, but I have chosen to quote from the Catholic clergy as an offset to the opinion of Cardinal Gibbons, whose words necessarily will carry some weight among his own people.

Political Intelligence

Halifax Morning Chronicle, discussing the proposed Canadian navy, calls on the people of that city and province to wake up and secure the shipbuilding industry. "The business of the shipbuilding industry," it says, "is one of the great staples of the old country, and formulates a definite, moment of claim to be delivered in a week. The government, stating in precise terms what form and what extent of assistance, whether by a tonnage bonus or remission of duties upon material entering into the construction of ships, shall be required to make steel shipbuilding in Nova Scotia a commercial possibility. The great firm Swan, Hunter, & Thomas, & Co., of Newcastle-on-Tyne is already interested in the projected yard at Halifax. It should be able to bring one of the principals of this firm, or one of their experts, or of any other great firm willing to associate itself with a Canadian venture, to Nova Scotia, to give the benefit of their expert knowledge in setting up a business, and in drawing up a scheme for submission to the government. The assistance and co-operation of such experts will be absolutely necessary in the preparation of these plans and proposals."

The acquiring of the branch lines of the Intercolonial is more important to the people of the Maritime Provinces," says Mr. Emmerson, "than the building of a new railway. These arguments were echoed by many of the electors down here by the sea, adds The Amherst (N.S.) News.

DICKENS FELLOWSHIP MEETS.

The November meeting of the Dickens Fellowship, Toronto branch, will be held at the Normal School this evening, at 8.15, in connection with Mrs. Jean Blevett in the chair.

Rev. S. P. Rose, D.D., pastor of Sherbourne Street Methodist Church, will give a lecture on "The Philosophy of Dickens." Mr. A. M. Denovan, who has recently returned from an extended trip abroad, will give a half-hour account of his journeyings, with special reference to places of Dickensian interest in England and Italy, illustrated by a series of lantern slides and pictures. The first great success of the Dickens Fellowship Company of Players, the branch of jumble trial, Bayly v. Piskewitz, will be given at the Guild Hall, on the evenings of Monday and Wednesday, Nov. 22 and 24.

Bob, the catnipman, is the Conservative candidate of West Middlesex for the house of commons. It is by the name of Bob that he is known throughout Middlesex, and he is known from one end of the county to the other. When he signs his name to a legal document, however, it is Robert MacLaughlin. His active life in his native county entitles him to support of the yeomen and the business men of West Middlesex.

Dominion Improvement Co. v. Laity No. 2.—F. Aylesworth, for defendant, moved for stay of action until final disposition of prior action against same parties. Grayson Smith, for plaintiff, contra. Reserved.
Fremont v. Langstaff—A. G. P. Lawrence, for defendant, moved to dismiss for want of prosecution. J. H. Spence, for plaintiff, contra. Order that statement of claim be delivered in a week. Costs of motion to defendant Langstaff in any event.

Stern v. Phillips—J. A. Macintosh, for plaintiff, moved for particulars of paragraph nine of statement of defence. E. C. Cattanach, for defendant, contra. Order that statement of defence be amended by striking out "amongst others" unless particulars are furnished in a week. Time for reply extended for a week thereafter. Costs in the cause.
Stern v. Phillips—J. A. Macintosh, for plaintiff, moved on consent for payment of costs of plaintiff, and to dismiss for want of prosecution. W. E. Smyth, K.C., for plaintiff, contra. Motion dismissed. Case having been set down, costs to applicant in any event, without prejudice to an application to change venue.

Single Court.
Before Clute, J.
The Ideal Concrete Machinery Co. v. Ray—H. W. Macpherson, for plaintiff, moved for judgment in a patent action for an injunction to restrain manufacture, for an account of profits and condemnation, and destruction of the machines alleged to be constructed in violation of plaintiff's patent. W. E. Middleton, K.C., for defendants, asked enlargement to complete material for defence. Enlarged two weeks.
Divisional Court.
Before the Chancellor, Magee, J.
Maudsley v. Monck—V. E. Raney, K.C., for plaintiff, on appeal from the judgment of Britton, J., dated 2nd May, 1909. J. E. Jones, for defendant, contra. Asked for an adjournment until 18th November inst.

S. Dominion Express Co. v. Maughan—S. Dominion, for plaintiffs, appealed from the judgment of Riddell, J., dated 28th May, 1909. W. J. Boland, for the defendants, contra. This was an action to recover $138.13 and interest, and the amount of certain money orders alleged to have been drawn by John Maughan, a partner in the firm of John Maughan & Son, at the time the action was commenced, and also indemnity in respect of another order not accounted for. The defendant, John Maughan, denied any agency either by him or his firm for the plaintiffs, and asserted that the agency, if any, was with Harry Maughan individually and also denied that Harry Maughan was a partner of the firm, or that he had any right to sign the bills of lading. The trial judge found in favor of the plaintiffs, and awarded judgment for the amount claimed, with costs of action and judgment. Appeal argued and judgment reserved.

Boyd v. Robinson—W. Leclaw, K.C., for the defendant, W. A. Robinson, appealed from the judgment of Riddell, J., dated 17th June, 1909. G. W. Holmes, for plaintiff, contra. Agreed upon a mortgage made by one James Robinson in 1887, deceased, on which plaintiff claimed $4912.88, to be due defendant, W. A. Robinson, plaintiff inter alia the statute of limitations. The trial judge gave judgment for the plaintiff for the foreclosure of the mortgage, and for the amount claimed, with costs of action and judgment. Appeal argued and judgment reserved.

Court of Appeal.
Before Moss, C.J.O.
Cooper v. James—J. D. Montgomery, for defendant, on motion for leave to appeal. J. D. Falconbridge, for plaintiff, contra. Judgment: I have read the proceedings at the trial and the short review of what occurred in the divisional court. I am unable to find anything in the case which would render it proper to treat it as exceptional and permit a further appeal. The issue was purely one of fact and the trial judge determined in favor of the plaintiff upon evidence which is amply sufficient if believed, and the trial judge did believe it. To justify his finding. His judgment was sustained by the divisional court and reading the testimony disclosed no very good reason for dissatisfaction with the conclusions of these two tribunals presents itself to my mind. But if it were otherwise that in itself would not suffice. No substantial question of law or other good ground for further prolonging the litigation appears. I must refuse the motion with costs.

Mother Elino's Secretary Here.
DECEASED Nov. 8.—The Press says: "David Livingstone McKay, who achieved fame as secretary of Mother Elino, the erstwhile queen of the Flying Roller colony in Detroit and Windsor, has been heard from again. This time it is Toronto, Ont., where the nitting David temporarily resides. The United States has been successful in pushing the imperturbable McKay from our friendly shores, as the word comes that he has been deported and is now in the Canadian city."
