The enormous difficulty of sending supplies to our troops across a zone in which there are no roads has been surmounted in part because of the large supply depots abandoned by the enemy during his retirement."

> "DOING NICELY, THANK YOU" The battle between the Italians and the Austrians messages from the front received by ministers indicate that the Italians are making swift strides toward victory. When asked today for an expression of his opinion of the results thus far achieved in the battle, Lieut.-Gen. Count Cadorna, commander-in-chief of the Italian forces, smflingly replied:

"We are doing nicely, thank you."

The official communication on the result of the battle shows that the demoralization of the Austrian troops is in part due to the extraordinary aerial and of the Italians, which has

Paris, Aug. 26. - Another smashing blow by the French today on the right bank of the Meuse in the Verdun sector, netted a gain of about two-thirds of a mile on a front of two miles and a half, giving the French possession of the Fosses and Beaumont woods and bringing them to the outskirts of the Village of Beaumont. The official report from the war

Copenhagen, Aug. 26 .- The submarine controversy has again been raised in the reichstag committee in connection with the government's ed to reach our lines between Lake efforts to convince the members that the unrestricted U-boat campaign is Presba and Lake Ochrida were re- a great success.

Herr Scheidemann took issue with Dr. Helfferich, questioned his acthe environs of Demir-Hissar and ene- count of the workings of the unrestricted campaign and warned the govmy encampments north of Lake ernment that it must not deceive itself regarding the effect of the sinkings on England. Herr Scheidemann said that nothing had been brought forward to change his party's attitude on the submarine question.

Herr Erzberger said that Admiral VonC apelle's figures were based on an antiquated assumption and in no way were they convincing, and he was still skeptical in regard to these calculations. Herr Haussmann declared that the situation had, in certain quarters, been pictured exaggerated-ly as good, and that expectations had been raised all too powerfully. Vice-Chancellor Helfferich and Secretary Von Capelle spoke repeatedly in rebuttal to their critics' argument, but practically without success.

ness. The action north of Gorizia, from Aug. 19, onward, may be epitomized as follows:

"The troops of the second army, after having thrown fourteen bridges across the Isonzo under the fire of 18-19 and proceeded to attack the Bainsizza Plateau. Directing themselves toward the Jelnik-Vrh front, they went around the three enemy defensive lines of Sommer. Kobelik and Madoni, which crossed there. Contemporaneously they attacked the same lines from the front and broke thru, despite the enemy's stubborn defence. The consequence of this bold manoeuvre was the capture of Monte Santo.

only the lines of communication, but has resulted in the burning of all the main food supply stations of the Austrians, who, for the past week, have been starving at many points between Tolmino and the sea. This the enemy, passed over the river on the night of Aug. also accounts for the unusual number of prisoners and wounded.

Austrian Losses Nearly 100,000.

The total losses of the Austrians from all causes are reckoned at nearly 100,000, the most important of which, in the Carso region, have not yet been officially announced. It is said that among the losses of the Austrians are many men of the famous Twelfth Division, popularly known as the "Iron Division."

Monte Santo, the side of which has been scarred by many struggles in the past two years and which is toward the eastern border of Bainsizza Plateau, hotly known in both armies as the spot where many men have become heroes, was taken by the second army corps, under General Capello, who crossed the Isonzo at Anhovo and swerved around the base of Monte Santo.
