COURTESY OF A YOUTH GETS HIM ARRESTED
An Incident in the Depot in Which a Mistake Was Made

A young lad from Anagnone who came in on the Boston train this morning thinks that it does not always pay to be polite. A lady sitting in front of him in the train found on picking up her belongings on arrival at the depot with her baby and packages, she had more than she could carry and she asked this boy to carry the grip for her. The lad, eager to oblige, readily consented.

While following her into the waiting room he was stopped by Policeman Smith and asked if he was traveling with the lady and the boy not knowing why he was asked, said he was not, and was immediately put under arrest charged with stealing the grip. In vain the boy pleaded that he was carrying the grip for the lady but after having told the policeman that he was not traveling with her Smith refused to believe him. The lady, on learning the cause of his arrest, at once explained the matter to I. R. Ross, the I. R. terminal agent who immediately had the boy released, not however, before the train had pulled out and the train going through from Montreal does not stop at Anagnone the gallant youth has to stay in the city until 6.35 this evening.

ALL EXCLUDED FROM THE HEARING OF THE GALLAGHER CASE

The reports of children being assaulted in the region of Erin street which were going around last week were revived when Patrick Gallagher, aged 47 years, was arrested last evening by Detective Lucas and Policeman McNamee at his boarding house in Erin street. The arrest was made on information lodged by the father of a little boy named James Lavigne who lives in Erin street. When the case came up in court this morning there were several other lads on hand besides the Lavigne boy. Magistrate Ritchie held the inquiry behind closed doors and when asked for information afterwards said the matter could not be treated in the press. The prisoner was remanded.

IN WITH EIGHT THOUSAND POUNDS OF HADDOCK

A cheerful smile bedecked the countenance of Captain Robert Graham as he stood on the Turnbull wharf this morning watching his steamer, the Centreville, unload her cargo of fish. He had just come in from Westport where he had been buying a cargo of haddock from the fishermen there. His trip was a very successful one as he arrived just after one of the best catches of the season was brought in. His cargo of eight thousand pounds represented the catch of but six boats. The fish were disposed of to Leonard Bros.

So far the haddock season, which has been in progress for about four weeks, has been a good one. They should continue in abundance for about six weeks more, when the returns will slacken off. The reason for the catches varying is that the haddock frequent different feeding grounds at different seasons of the year. In October they will again be back in the Bay of Fundy and will continue there until February.

So far the hake fishing has been excellent. There are still a few salmon running but the season is practically over. The fishermen occasionally pick up a stray halibut now, but except in its season in March and April this fish is generally rare.
