AT LAST, A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

"Fruit-a-tives Cured Me" Says Mrs. Baxter

"I was a helpless cripple from Rheumatism for nearly a year. All down the right side, the pain was dreadful and I could not move for the agony. I was treated by two physicians without help.

"I saw 'Fruit-a-tives' advertised in 'The Telegram' and decided to try them. After I had taken one box I was much better.

"When I had taken three boxes, I could use my arms and the pain was almost gone.

"After taking five boxes I was entirely well again. The cure of my case by 'Fruit-a-tives' was indeed splendid because all the doctors failed to even relieve me. 'Fruit-a-tives' cured me.

"MRS. LIZZIE BAXTER,
"4 Home Place, Toronto, Dec. 15, '09."

TELEPHONE INQUIRY OFF UNTIL MARCH 31

At the afternoon session of the hearing into the complaint against the New Brunswick Telephone Co., before the public utilities commission, yesterday, H. P. Robinson was questioned by Mr. Powell regarding the number of exchanges the New Brunswick Telephone Co. had previous to the merger, the value of the exchanges and the number of telephones in St. John.

Mr. Fraser gave a statement of the revenues from Nov. 1902, to April, 1906, and also described the St. John exchange building and its uses. Mr. Powell said he thought he could finish his case in a few more hours' work.

Mr. Teed thought Mr. Powell should formulate some definite charges but Mr. Powell said he preferred to get all his figures in tabulated form before he revealed his mode of attack. It was decided finally that the commission should meet on Friday, March 31, when Mr. Powell would conclude his case and that adjournment would then be made for a few days to allow the counsel of the telephone company time to reply.

YOU KNOW HOW IT IS.

I would I were a Mormon now—
My wife is cleaning house!
The whole world knows I love my frau,
My energetic spouse.
But if I had of wives a score
House cleaning days would soon be o'er.
Permit me to remark once more,
My wife is cleaning house!

The breakfasts taste of kerosene—
My wife is cleaning house!
I'm growing sad, forlorn and mean
And scary as a mouse.
I started down stairs on a lope
Today, but struck a bar of soap!
All this is expurgated dope—
My wife is cleaning house!

She wears a dust rag on her head—
My wife is cleaning house!
Her eyes are bright, her cheeks are red,
But yet I mutter, "Raus!"
How women love this sort of thing!
Cold eats! Each picture off its string!
And chaos! Happiness gone "bing!"
My wife is cleaning house!

CONVICT FOR 35 YEARS; GOES BACK TO PRISON TO DIE

Glens Falls, N. Y., March 25—Thirty-five years in prison on an unjust accusation cast such a shadow over the life of John H. Devine that liberty was of no benefit to him and he fled back to the penitentiary. His death there recently recalled the history of his life of sixty years, more than forty of which were spent within prison walls.

The conviction of Devine, it was learned after many years of his sentence for murder, had been served, was the result of carelessness in the prosecution of the case.

For a long time friends of Devine worked for his release from Dannemora prison. Edward Bennett, of Glens Falls, who formerly lived in Warrensburg and was a resident of East Woods, L. I., Devine's boyhood home, was unfailing in his defence of Devine and never ceased efforts to obtain his freedom.

Bennett, as soon as each new governor took oath, presented a petition in Devine's behalf, but four turned a deaf ear to his pleadings. Governor Hughes finally granted a pardon.

But Devine's spirit had been crushed early and his toil of thirty-five years made the outer world something more to be avoided than welcomed. Bennett met Devine at the prison portals and took him to his home, but six months' contact with men who were free of the prison stigma was all that Devine could stand. He felt that each glance turned toward him was one of scorn and in shame he quit freedom to resume his toil in the Clinton county prison.

AMUSEMENTS FOR OURSELVES AND OTHERS

NICKEL.

The programme of Nickel Theatre as printed in full in the regular column, is a most engrossing one for today and tonight. The matinee bill is especially attractive. The cowboy feature is Pals, or a Boy's Faithfulness to His Roughrider Friend, and the comedy number is Edison's laugh-feast, Bumptious as Romeo. The third picture is the excellent Lubin comedy-drama, The Test, with Miss Florence Lawrence of Biograph fame, in the leading role. Madame Furlong-Schmidt will sing I've Got Rings on My Fingers and Bells on My Toes, and Jack Morrissey is to finish with Cutey, Who Tied Your Tie?

Up to last evening the Nickel announced the great Dickens story, A Tale of Two Cities for Monday and Tuesday, but this has been deferred for a few days, and the wonderful spectacular film d'art by Pathe Freres, Il Trovatore, will be substituted. Thus will two magnificent features be assured Nickel patrons instead of the one. The Il Trovatore feature will be pictorial and musical. The story as reeled off by the Kinetoscope will be played to a musical nicety by the Nickel's fine orchestra, and from special orchestrations supplied by Pathe Freres. The film is hand-colored throughout and in the action of it such famed French players as Signorinas Francesca Bertini, Gemma Farina and Signors Achille Vitti and Alberto Vestri will be found in the cast. The investiture of the picture is sumptuous and the piece enacted among the historical palaces in which historic France is so rich.

THE LYRIC

The first act of its kind ever seen in St. John will be presented at the Lyric Theatre Monday by the captivating soubrette, Mlle. Lucille Savoy. Miss Savoy's entertainment is said to be one of the biggest and most spectacular attractions in vaudeville, and consists of novel art poses from famous paintings in the Paris Salons. The electric effects used are described as making magnificent scenes in the various poses. Miss Savoy carries her own electrician. She will be heard in some catchy song numbers. This evening Luken's Animal Circus will show for the last time.

THE WORD "SAUCE"

What are the first essentials of a Sauce? Many professors of cookery and eminent chefs have, from time to time, set forth their views on this subject. Many solid varieties of food, soluble only by digestion, are not rarely dry in substance, but are somewhat unattractive and insufficiently flavored. A sauce is intended, amongst other things, to lubricate dry food, and thus increase its palatability, by the addition of flavors or the production of contrast. A sauce is intended to stimulate the organs of taste, and to promote the salivary secretion. Thus by enhancing the appetite, and augmenting the juices capable of digestion, it increases the pleasure of eating, meanwhile assisting the mechanism of nutrition. The preparation of a sauce suited to one special dish is, in general, a simple affair, but the making of a botled sauce, capable of fulfilling scores of demands, and happily allying itself with hundreds of dishes, is a matter necessitating great experience and elaborate skill. Such a sauce is now obtainable. It is imported from England where it is produced in the largest Malt Vinegar factory in the world and is known as "H. P. Sauce," and takes its title from the initial letters of the "Houses of Parliament," where it is used on the dining tables, both in the home country and in Canada. The makers tell us that its delicious flavor is obtained by blending together the choicest oriental fruits and spices with pure Malt Vinegar by a secret process, and we are sure our readers will find that a personal trial will confirm all the good things that are said of H. P. Grocers over here are already selling it freely.

FEARFUL END OF THE DRUNKARD

Mission Father in Boston Draws a Terryfying Picture of Death Bed of Liquor Victim

(Boston Globe.

Rev. Fr. Hubert of the Passionist fathers, conducting the mission for men at the cathedral of the Holy Cross, spoke last night upon the sin of drunkenness. He pointed out that from this evil much suffering and hardship resulted, and urged the men to do what they could to prevent men from being guilty of drunkenness.

He drew a strong picture of the situation that would confront a priest were he called to the dying bedside of a drunkard, one who had been robbed of his senses. The priest would be absolutely unable to help one in such a state.

Fr. Hubert said: "There is in the sin of drunkenness an especial malice, because it ties the hand of God's mercy and refuses to allow him to exercise that most prized of his attributes.

"Do you believe this? Listen! Here is the priest of God called from his bed in the dead of night. Someone is seriously ill. The priest goes and finds a man on the brink of time about to make that terrifying leap into eternity. Dying from drink!

"That man has been repeatedly warned and has ever despised all good advice—gone back to the glass, well knowing the evil consequences. He has therefore knowingly and willingly put himself into that desperate position.

"O, verily, brethren, the priest is an angel of peace in human form, deputed to bring to the departing soul pardon, strength and consolation. But what can the priest do for the dying drunkard? Nothing. He is helpless. He sees a man under his very eyes about to go and stand before the judgment seat of God, his soul in mortal sin, and he cannot absolve him. His hands are tied.

"If the Pope of Rome were at that bedside in all the plentitude of his apostolic power he could not absolve him. Yes, though the arm of God's mercy is long, infinite, it is not long enough to touch the soul of that dying drunkard.

"God Almighty cannot absolve that man. Brethren, even more. It is a terrifying statement, but it is true: If on the first Good Friday that man in his wretched condition were placed beneath the cross, if the precious blood of Jesus Christ were to trickle down upon him, it would not take away his sins. Drunkenness has placed him beyond the reach of God's mercy.

"This desperate state of things may seem exaggerated, but it is not. Look at the reason. The first absolutely indispensable condition for pardon of sin is repentance or sorrow for the sin—a rational repentance or sorrow of the soul that grieves because it knows it has been guilty of a grave wrong. Does the drunkard lying there grieve because he has done a grave wrong? He does not. Nor even does he know that he has been guilty of any wrong.

"He knows nothing of right or wrong, any more than a brute beast. His intellect is dead for the time being, drowned in the flood of alcohol. He is incapable of rational repentance, and therefore incapable of pardon, entirely beyond the reach of God's mercy."

The reverend speaker closed with an appeal for righteous living, shunning the occasions of sin and safeguarding the soul.

THE SNOB AND THE SNUB.

At a dance recently a young gentleman somewhat inferior in social position to most of those present approached an alderman's daughter—"mightily superior" sort—and rather diffidently asked for the favor of a dance.

The girl looked him stonily in the face for a moment, then turned away with the remark:

"I'm sorry; but I'm —well, rather particular as to whom I dance with."

"Ah, indeed," was the quiet retort; "then we differ in that respect. I'm not a bit particular. That was why I asked you!"

Then he left her—Tit-Bits.

Cotton embroidered in pale blue, pink and delicate tones of yellow is seen on many of the new lingerie models.
