able supply is running low. Now they are talking about old Mordca Brown, who should be able to handle the job if they don't trade all the players away before he takes hold. Others to receive honorable mention for the title, according to the coast papers, are Roger Bresnahan, "Bill" Dahlen, "Bill" Sweeney of Boston, Fielder Jones, and so on. Practically the only prominent name to be omitted is "Bill" Klem's, and he should do well there because he has a good voice and can talk loud. Therefore, he should win many an argument.

I have heard from other sources that Tinker is very anxious to get back into Chicago, and that Evers will make a deal by which Bresnahan and Corriden will go to the Reds for "Joe". If this is the case, Roger will lead the Cincinnati club. It looks to me like the probable solution of the situation for many reasons. First, Murphy is paying Bresnahan a big salary, and Roger did very little catching last year, most of the work going to "Jimmy" Archer whose holdout propensities were responsible for the big offer to Bresnahan when he joined the Cubs. Murphy would just as soon get this $10,000 salary off his pay roll, and he would not weaken his catching staff to any extent by so doing, because he still has "Jimmy" Archer, than whom there are few better.

Again, Murphy got in badly in Chicago when he let Chance and Tinker and Brown and some of the other old Cubs, who had won him so many pennants and world's championships, get away from him. The receipts from the club felt this lack of popularity last summer. By bringing Tinker back to the Cubs, Murphy would partially restore his good standing with the Chicago fans, and many would go out to see "Joe" in his old uniform again. Therefore, Mr. Murphy stands to win both ways by letting Bresnahan go and getting Tinker back. The loss of Corriden would not weaken the Chicago team to any great extent, as Tinker would more than fill any gap he might leave.

There is only one hitch in the smooth working of the transaction. Can Tinker and Evers patch up their old differences? Both declare that there are no differences between them now, but the old feud has burned itself out. But it had not last spring. After Chance had left the Cubs, there was some question as to who the next manager of the Cubs would be. It lay between Tinker and Evers, and each declared that he would not play on the team with the other as his leader. Tinker was most emphatic in his demands. These facts have not been published to my knowledge, but "Joe" certainly asserted he would not work with the Cubs if Evers was the leader.

Then, after Tinker had been made the manager of the Reds, he declared himself in this wise:

"Well, there is one team we will beat out anyway, and that is the Cubs."

If Tinker returns to Chicago, as the indications now are he will, Evers and he will probably have their differences again, but I think they will play the same brand of wonderful ball they did when they worked together like parts of one machine and yet did not speak.

Perhaps there will not be so much jealousy between them as before, although both men are hot headed and inclined to hawl anybody in the heat of battle. Tinker has lost some of his managerial ambitions. I saw him late this season.

"Managing is no cinch, Matty," he said. "If they ever try to kid you into taking a job, throw them down. Stick to the easy stuff. But I suppose you'll have to get your whist at it, like all the rest of us, and maybe you'll make good. I hope you do. As for me, I would not mind being a common player again and attending to my outside business."

If the owners of the Cincinnati club believe Bresnahan is going to be a trackable manager, they will find him almost as hot-headed as Tinker and as insistent on having his own way. It was because Bresnahan was refused permission to make a trade by the owners of the St. Louis club that he had his row there. It seems as if the Cincinnati owners were jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

And, in the meantime, as a hint, the Giants' management is wondering whether something could not be done to bring Tinker to New York.

Before a large audience in the Queen Square Methodist church last evening, Rev. J. J. McCaskill gave an interesting lecture on the life and works of Robert Louis Stevenson, one of the greatest authors of the nineteenth century. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church and Mrs. F. E. Williams, president of the society, expressed the appreciation of the audience after listening and Rev. Wilfrid Gault, pastor of the church who presided, rendered a vote of thanks to the lecturer.

Mrs. R. T. Worlton sang two solos nicely and these, with the very excellent lecture made up a most enjoyable evening.
