There is something appealing in the oft-repeated warning that reciprocity means annexation. It catches some people for the peculiar reason that it is an appeal to the vainest and at the same time the basest instincts of the human mind. Knowing one's own loyalty to be beyond suspicion, it is flattering to some people to think that they are better than it? Even British Tory papers are breakers are now in the cells. more just to the people of Canada.

that in the campaign of 1908 he had no hope of the Conservative party being returned to power. This confession is hardly in line with the campaign utterances of the ex-member. Still the people will accept the confession and let that feature of the past be forgotten. But Mr. Barnard says the conditions are different in this election and that he really believes the Conservatives have a chance. We can, however, assure Mr. Barnard that as a prophet he is not likely to have honors showered upon him The Times is in possession of facts which prove that the Liberal victory of 1911 is going to be very much more decisive than he triumph of 1908. In the East onservative after Conservative, ome of them candidates for elecion, are declaring themselves in avor of reciprocity. In the province of Nova Scotia one local ection has been held already in which reiprocity was the only ssue, and it resulted in the elec on of the advocate of freer majority of 758. This is the surest dication of the trend of feeling Nova Scotia and bears out the contention of the Times that the political remains of the Conservative leader himself will be ound among the ruins on the
