ALL WANT TO BE BORN AGAIN

But Few Rich Take the Trouble—Doctors

Say Regeneration of Health

Is Easy.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—"Doctor," said the rich and bustling New York millionaire to his physician, "I am all broken up. I can't sleep. I can't eat. Everything grates on my nerves. I think I'm booked for Kingdom Come. Can you save me?"

"Certainly," said the distinguished specialist, with a grim smile, handing out the following prescription: "Drop all business cares. 'Take regular exercise. 'Keep in the open air. 'Forget everything but play, and play as though your life depended on it."

"That prescription cured John D. Rockefeller," said the specialist, "and if you follow the directions I will cure you. It cost Rockefeller $5,000,000, so his physician, Dr. Biggar, says, but it was cheap, for he has been born again and is a boy, ready to live to be a hundred."

Here are some rich New Yorkers who need, like the oil king, to be "born again" into perfect health. Chauncey M. Depew, growing feeble, worth $20,000,000.

John W. Gates, dyspepsia, insomnia, worth $25,000,000.

H. H. Rogers, "all broken up," can't sleep, worth $10,000,000.

Thomas C. Platt, senile, can't do anything, worth $10,000,000.

James R. Keene, dyspepsia, insomnia, nervousness, worth $25,000,000.

Charles M. Schwab, nervousness, worth $10,000,000.

These strenuous citizens and money-getters have for years been in the hands of specialists, who have been receiving large sums for keeping their patients out of the grave. But not one has tried the Rockefeller plan. Sen. Platt, it is said by his friends, would be willing to give $7,000,000 to be made a boy again, if only for two or three years. Schwab, Gates and the rest at all are fanatically eager to be restored to health, but all are equally eager to keep "in the game." They are not willing to let go the chance to pile up more money.

Not all New Yorkers break up over the strain of the strenuous life. There is Henry Dexter of the American News Company for instance, who, though over 50, is still vigorous mentally and quite spry on his feet.

Inquiry Monday showed that a large number of well-to-do money makers in this city are getting ready to follow John D. Rockefeller's example and devote at least some of their time to healthful recreation.

Can a man of 54, who is "all broken up," be rejuvenated by dropping business and devoting himself to recreation? To pieces of his nervous system, several prominent physicians and life insurance experts, all of whom answered in the affirmative.

"How much is it worth?" "The average man would give up half his fortune," was the general response.

Dr. Henry H. Schroeder, assistant medical director of the Mutual Life, said it was easy to be "born again," but the trouble was to get a man to do it.

"In this business," he said, "we are all the time meeting with men who are burning the candle at both ends. In insurance parlance, they are spilling their risk, injuring their expectations of life."

"But, when one of these successful men breaks, or is about to break, in health, with his nerves and stomach out of kilter, and his sleep troubled, still he will not break away. Say to him: 'You must stop work, forget it all, and devote yourself to outdoor recreation.'"

"All right, doctor," will be his response. Maybe he will lay aside his cares for a little while, but it is only for a little while. First thing you know he is back again in the grind. He can't keep away."

Dr. John Warren, assistant medical director of the Equitable, said: "There is nothing mysterious about being 'born again,' as Dr. Biggar says happened to Mr. Rockefeller. It is a simple and reasonable proposition. A man who is engaged to the limit of his energy and capacity in making money or in achieving power of distinction, who works long hours, and does not get enough good sleep, will sooner or later feel the effects, and his nerves will go to pieces or his stomach will call a halt, or he will become a victim of insomnia. There is a limit to the strenuous life, bounded by the individual endurance of the victim.

"The only sensible, reasonable thing to do when that point is reached is to

SAILOR JUMPED

FROM SCHOONER

AND SWAM ASHORE

DIGBY, N. S., Aug. 15.—The tern schooner Charlevoix, of Barbados, Capt. Summerville, has been anchored in the stream about half a mile from the pier, Digby harbor, for some days.

He had a good start and was doing well when the yacht Kiki-y, sailing near there, saw him and picked him up and took him to shore. The tug Bear River was alongside and about starting with the ship when the man took to the water. It was not discovered at once that he had taken his own discharge. After a while someone sang out that one of the crew was missing; then all hands on the schooner and tug hustled to see where he was, and at length saw him swimming for all he was worth toward shore. He fought desperately and clearing them, reached the town hall, laying his case before Stipendiary Jameson, stating that he had been "shanghaied" in St. John, and knew nothing until he found himself aboard the vessel. As the master had taken the man to come ashore and make complaint against the sailor, and no one but those who attempted to take him, appearing to have no authority to arrest the man, the stipendiary did not hold him. The tug returned to the schooner without the man and took her out to sea. The sailor is an Englishman.

Today being such a glorious one, a great many parties have gone in different directions—some to Bear Island on a picnic given by George Bonnell, owner of the new yacht, named "Old Glory," just launched by Oliver Bros., having the firm name of "The Canadian Boat Building Co." The yacht, although not very large, cost $1,000, and is fitted up luxuriously. Mr. Bonnell has several other yachts engaged on the picnic, as he wanted to give his friends a return for the kindness shown him. He leaves Digby on Saturday for New York, where he lives in the yacht. Other parties have gone to Weymouth and other points of interest.

The tourists seem to enjoy driving this season more than usual, which seems to tax horse flesh, as a few days ago Mr. Riley lost a fine horse, and last night Mr. Eldridge lost one of his best ones.

Rev. H. A. Harley, rector of Holy Trinity Church, has sent in his resignation to the wardens, to take effect on first of October next.

The garden party held on the rectory grounds of Holy Trinity Church netted $271. The Baptists held theirs on the Baptist parsonage grounds, netting $150. The Methodists are yet to hold theirs, date not determined as yet.

A POLITICAL PREDICTION. (Toronto Globe.)

Hon. R. F. Sutherland, speaker of the House of Commons, when seen by a Windsor reporter at the King Edward last night, smiled at the prognosis published in The News respecting the reorganization of the cabinet. He declined to commit himself and praised Mr. Pardee and Mr. Campbell. But—

If you have any money to bet, put it on this: Brodeur—Public works. Templeman—Marine and fisheries. Sutherland—Indian revenue. Pugsley—Railways. Campbell—Senate. That's all.

Rev. Neil MacLaughlin of St. John, a former pastor, will preach in the Oromocto Methodist Church on Sunday next, Aug. 18th at 7 o'clock, in behalf of the repair fund, when an offering will be taken for that purpose. He will also preach the same day at Pine Grove, Burton, at 10.30, and Shirley at 2.30.

SKUNK EMPTIED THEATRE

Caused Panic at Performance at Meriden, Connecticut.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—A despatch to The Herald from Meriden, Conn., says: A skunk wandered into the auditorium of the Hanover Park Summer Theatre last night, a woman screamed and the eight hundred persons in the audience leaped from their seats. Women joined men in climbing over a high railing.

Policeman M. J. Kelly, unfamiliar with skunks, attempted to catch the animal, but retreated, and standing at a safe distance, opened fire with his revolver. He emptied it, but none of the shots took effect. Frank McNabb, one of the spectators, cornered the skunk and killed it with a club. Then he went home by a circuitous route. The management announced to vacant chairs that the performance was called off.

BALMORAL.

Balmoral is a greatly larger estate now than it was when it first became a royal residence. To the original 10,000 or 11,000 acres, were soon added the 6,000 acres of the adjoining Blithfield estate. Then in 1873 the forest of Ballochbuie was purchased—another 10,000 acres—and there have since been more acquisitions.
