John Ring was a St. John boy from almost infancy, although he was born in New York, and grew up with a generation that has now pretty much passed away. He was a shoemaker by trade and worked in several St. John factories before he joined the police force in 1875. In 1882, under the late John R. Marshall, he was appointed detective, a post that he filled with terror to evil doers for a long period In the stirring times surrounding the great fire of 1877, John Ring did noble beries in the city almost an impossi bility. He kept the track of every sneak thief and receiver of stole goods, and was thus able to put the machinery of the law into instant operation whenever a complaint was put in his hands. About a year ago he was appointed chief detective of the L C: R. between St. John and Sydney, which position he held at the time of his death. John Ring had a host of friends in St. John, but like all police officers of worth, he made some enemies in the discharge of duty.
