COLLISION AT SEA.

Lunenburg Schooner Crushed By an Ocean Liner.

ABANDONED LATER.
The Crew Were Taken Off by the Steamer, Which Was the North German Lloyd Liner Kaiserin Maria Theresia -- The Schooner Was the Favia.

New York, Jan. 6.—The North German Lloyd liner Kaiserin Maria Theresia, which arrived today in collision with a small schooner in mid-ocean and damaged the schooner so badly that the crew was abandoned here. All hands, the captain and five men, were brought to this port.

The great liner left Bremen Dec. 27, Southampton 28th and Cherbourg 29th and had very stormy weather throughout the passage. Heavy westerly gales and high continued seas prevailed with heavy snow and hail squalls. On the morning of Jan. 4th the steamer suddenly sighted a small vessel dead ahead and, although the steamer was given a prompt order to stop, the vessel was struck on the stern of the liner and the little craft on the port side, carried away the main rigging, mainmast and foremast.

The steamer was stopped and stood by five hours until finally the crew of the schooner asked to be taken off. The vessel was not sinking, but her rigging was so damaged and coated with ice that repairs at sea were practically impossible. A boat was sent from the steamer and the captain and crew, six in all, were taken off the disabled craft.

It was then learned that the little vessel was the schooner Favia, of Lunenburg, N. S., bound to Boston with a cargo of frozen herring. The steamer was not damaged. Captain Richter says that the schooner showed no light and that the weather was stormy and rough at the time of the collision. The captain of the schooner admits that he showed no stern light and that the weather was not very clear.

The schooner was deeply laden and under very little sail. The mate of the schooner says that the vessel was struck on the stern about 20 minutes before she struck but supposed that they could see the schooner. He therefore made no effort to stop until the vessel was struck.

The schooner was bound for Boston, N. S., and was owned by J. Baird & Co. of Lunenburg, N. S.

GRAND FALLS NOTES.

A New Hotel—Work on the Railway Bridge.

Grand Falls, Jan. 7.—Carliss' new hotel is nearing completion and will be ready for the reception of guests the first of May next. There are 50 sleeping rooms besides offices, parlors, bar, etc. Grand Falls will experience a boom next summer and the new hotel will consequently receive a liberal patronage. It will be one of the largest and best managed hotels in the province, and no expense will be spared in providing for the cuisine.

Two engines have already been placed in position on the new railway bridge across the St. John here. All the Ontario C. P. R. bridge employees have returned home and only 120 men are now employed. Night crews are enabled to work with the aid of arc lights. All the men now employed will be retained until the bridge will be completed and ready for traffic, which will not be before next April. Meanwhile trains will continue to cross on the temporary trestle works.

J. F. McCluskey, the leading merchant here, intends to remodel the large building adjoining his store so as to adapt it for a large public hall. His enterprise is commendable and will be duly appreciated by the citizens.

J. J. Gallagher, hatter, formerly of Woodstock, has removed to Grand Falls, where he will continue his law practice. He now occupies the Leslie cottage with his family and for the present will have his office in his residence. There is an excellent opening here for a good lawyer, and Gallagher will establish a large practice in both Victoria and Madawaska counties.

It is stated on excellent authority that work on the pulp mill will be resumed next March. This new industry will prove a great boon to the town.

Midnight services were held in the Catholic church on New Year's eve. Watch night services were also held in the Presbyterian church.

F. B. Meagher, inspector of schools, and P. O. Langston, collector, are in town today. Miss Agnes Kirk, Bell Settlement, is visiting here, the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. J. Gallagher.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne

IS THE GREAT SPECIFIC FOR Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Cholera

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, Sept. 28, 1890, says:—"If I were asked which single medicine I should prefer to take abroad with me, as likely to be most generally useful, to the exclusion of all others, I should say CHLORODYNE. I never travel without it, and its general applicability to the relief of a large number of simple ailments forms its best recommendation."

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE. It is a liquid medicine which assuages PAIN of EVERY KIND, affords a calm, refreshing sleep, WITHOUT HEADACHE, and invigorates the nervous system when exhausted.
