

SPECIALIST SAID HE MUST OPERATE

She Took "FRUIT-A-LIVES" Instead, And Is Now in Perfect Health.

MRS. F. GAREAU

153 Papineau Ave., Montreal.
"For three years, I suffered great pain in the lower part of my body, with swelling or bloating. I saw a specialist, who carefully examined me and gave me several tonics to take, which did not help me. Then he told me I must undergo an operation. This, I refused to permit. I heard about 'Fruit-a-lives' and the wonderful results it was giving because this medicine is made from fruit juices, so decided to try it.

The first box gave great relief and I continued the treatment, taking six boxes more. Now, my health is excellent—I am free of pain and swelling—and I give 'Fruit-a-lives' my warmest thanks."

Be Faithful.

Is there a woman of some isolated local Union who sometimes feels discouraged and disheartened, and wonders if it is best to belong? So let me say to her that, to some extent, success of the world-wide temperance cause depends upon her courage, her patience, her perseverance for the World's W. C. T. U. is, after all, made up of the members of local Unions. Let us be faithful in small things, and so hasten the coming of large victories for the Temperance cause.—Lillian M. N. Stevens.

England is enfranchising 6,000,000 of its women citizens. The agitation for this piece of justice had its incipient stages nearly a century and a half ago. In a 'Short History of a Great Movement,' written some years ago by Millicent Garrett Fawcett, L. L. D., this well-known writer traces the movement back to the days of Mary Wollstonecraft (1759-1797), an English writer, clever, excitable and the victim of life-long untoward circumstances.

The W. C. T. U. sent congratulations to the King and Queen on the occasion of their silver wedding.

The W. C. T. U. of Scotland has sent a letter to all Scotch members of Parliament asking if they will oppose the State purchase of the liquor traffic, maintain the Temperance (Scotland) Act, and strengthen its weak clauses and oppose the export of liquor to Colonies and Dependencies and to Native Races.

The W. C. T. U. has decided to recommend its members to support no Parliamentary candidates except those who are in sympathy and who are prepared to give active help towards the attainment of these objects.

France.—The prohibition of the sale of absinthe both at home and in all her colonies was the first step taken in France. Now the sale of distilled liquors to soldiers is forbidden, and many of her statesmen are urging the same for civilians. The presence of the American army with its dry canteens and no rum ration is an excellent reason that cannot but have a lasting influence.

Interior of Canadian Pacific Railway Exhibit at Lyons Fair.

It is generally conceded that the outstanding feature of the Lyons Exhibition this year was the Canadian Section of 72 booths on Place Bellecour, whilst the most popular exhibit was that of the Canadian Pacific Railway, closely followed in point of interest by the magnificent display of the Canadian Manufacturers' Party. On arrival in England, were upset to find that under the conditions then prevailing—but now happily removed—they were in many cases prohibited from selling their goods in the motherland. Many of them had never been in England before and they found travelling conditions, the hotel accommodation, and the cost of living in general quite different to those existing in Canada. In addition, the influenza epidemic had again broken out, and several members of the party had to take to their beds in London, others in Paris and yet others in Lyons. Then the passport regulations are most strict and a source of annoying and irksome delay. Owing to transport

Wilhelmiana as to the amount of grain and fuel that could be saved if the distilleries and breweries were closed resulted in their being closed. The Queen's attention was also called to the lure as in drunkenness and crime during the war years and the bad effects drinking was having on the army. Having taken the direct road to the conservation of grain and fuel it may confidently be expected that conservation of man power will be the next step in the little kingdom especially if the Bill advocating Woman Suffrage passes the House. The advance of Prohibition is not confined to the great nations of the earth, the little spots are being reached also. The Island of Porto Rico became dry on March second of this year. The National W. C. T. U. sent Mrs. Howland, an organ on whom we all know to help the Island W. C. T. U., which is co-operating with the Police Department in the fight against vice. They are prepared to co-operate in every way to reclaim the City of San Juan from its reputation for vice among the natives of the world, and to make it a safe place in which to train thousands of young Porto Ricans. Bishop Hirasawa, of the Methodist Church in Japan, told the recent General Conference that his church was "the salt of your good work, Johnnie with the work of two Methodist bodies in the States." He told how shocked he was to find that many of the bishops of the Church in the United States smoked. "None of our Japanese preachers smoke or drink," he said.

Sir Geo. E. Foster, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce.

at never-ending gratification to many thousands of French men, women and children.

As regards actual business transacted at the Fair, a number of Canadian firms reported good business, others some business and good enquiries, others good enquiries only, and some, unfortunately, could do nothing owing to the drastic restrictions ruling in France against the import of certain classes of goods. However, as an enterprising American put it, "Those who are expecting immediate results from this visit are damned optimists; personally, a very successful banquet was given by the Minister of Trade and Commerce to the Mayor of Lyons and the Directors of the Fair on one of the last evenings, at which brilliant speeches were delivered by Sir George Foster, Senator Herriot, the Mayor of Lyons, Col. Marsh, the chairman of the Lyons Fair Canadian Committee, and Mr. J. Daoust, J.P. of Montreal. Over 100 French and Canadian guests were present, and on the following Sunday the visiting Canadian and Australian Bands vied with French Bands in a tournament of sport and music.

At the suggestion of Sir George Foster, the bulk of the Canadian exhibits have been transferred to Paris for inspection by the people of the Metropolis of France.

With regard to living and travelling expenses, these were extremely high, whilst the system of tipping in vogue both in Great Britain and on the Continent—particularly the latter—came as a source of surprise to these members of the party who have not previously been over, or who have not been across since the outbreak of war. For instance, as much as 50 and 60 francs per night per room was demanded in Paris, and almost as much in Lyons, whilst to secure a taxi in the former city it was sometimes necessary to arrange beforehand with the driver to tip him ten francs over and above his just due, even for the shortest journey. Socks ran up to 20 francs a pair and for a shirt which cost a dollar and a half in Montreal, six or seven dollars was asked, whilst boots run from 80 to 100 francs per pair. In one hotel an interesting notice was displayed stating that, "contrary to the habit in Canada, it is not the custom in France for the proprietors to pay their staff, so would the guests kindly before leaving arrange to pay the waiting women and the valets at the rate of one franc per day per head, an interpretation which was taken literally by the liftman, the porters and the other mysterious individuals who are always apparently in the know a few minutes before a guest leaves the hotel for pastures fresh. For a small cocktail the price was 50 cents to one dollar, whilst a basket of wood sufficient for a small fire for one lighting cost a dollar. Soap cost fifty cents a cake, and lumber $240 per 1,000 feet. Everything else, such as washing and meals, were in proportion, and future visitors to France would do well to acquire the price of everything, for, as one member of the party put it: "Keep asking questions, for every time you think you know and don't, it costs you more."

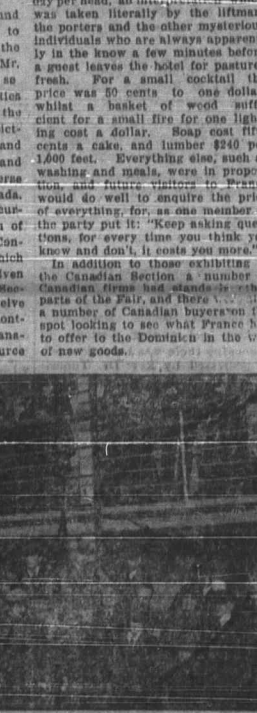

In addition to those exhibiting in the Canadian Section a number of Canadian firms had stands, or rather parts of the Fair, and there was a number of Canadian buyers on the spot, looking to see what France had to offer to the Dominion in the way of new goods.
