

Correspondence

WE invite readers to make use of these columns, and an effort will be made to publish all interesting letters received. The large amount of correspondence which is sent us has, hitherto, made it impossible for every letter to appear in print, and, in future, letters received from subscribers will receive first consideration. Kindly note we cannot send any correspondents the names and addresses of the writers of the letters published. Persons wishing to correspond with others should send letters in stamped, plain envelopes under cover to the Correspondence Department and they will immediately be forwarded to the right parties.

A Blessing in Disguise.

Riceton, Sask., Oct. 12, 1914.

Dear Editor—I read the article, "A Blessing in Disguise," and if the girls only knew what nice homes they might be in this winter, they would gladly come West and learn housework that will be worth dollars to them in the future. I would like one, and would gladly teach her what I know if she is willing to learn and try to be contented. I had a girl working for me that had always lived in city, and had always said she would never go into country, and came out here visiting, and then worked for me and said she would never go to city again. I would prefer a Canadian or American girl, and they must be of good character. A good girl will find a good home, but if I found an untrue girl she couldn't stay under any consideration.

Select me a good girl and send her immediately, and I know if she has friends there will be more to follow, and I will help find them good homes. We are mostly Americans and some Ontario people, and all a good class of people, and always went in best of society in our former homes. I sincerely hope that one of these girls will be brave enough to come and see how pleasantly she would be surprised in a country home, and then her enmity would come I know. I would pay whatever wages they could earn. I don't really need help through the winter, but it would be company for me and help to the right girl.

Letters addressed C. B. will be forwarded to the right party.—Editor.

The W.H.M. Passed Along to Neighbors.

Campbellville, Ont., Oct. 16, 1914.

Dear Editor—Have been a silent but constant reader of your valuable paper for some years, but have never written to your Correspondence Column. In your October issue I noticed a letter from "Freda," which I think is rather hard on us boys and men. She does not seem to think much of "Sunset Bill." Well I cannot say much for nor yet against him, as I cannot find his letter, having given some of the back numbers to a neighbor. In the first place, "Freda" says she is no "old maid." Well may be not, but I'll bet a copper she will be. She then goes on to say that men form their judgments from the street walking type of girls, but I believe she is mistaken. Give me the girl that can cook a good meal every time, and it doesn't make any difference what color her hair is either. Again, she says men are fond of the stylish girls. Another mistake. I would far rather be walking down the street with a quiet sensibly dressed girl than one of these high-headed ones.

I enjoyed the letter of "High School Kid," and believe she must be a gem. Hello, "Sunset Bill," write "Freda" a letter, and see what she says. Gee, though, wouldn't she talk?

Will close now, wishing the W.H.M., with its many interesting and instructive pages, every success.

My address is with the editor. Good night all.

The War Pictures.

Ninette, Man., Oct. 12, 1914.

Dear Editor and Readers—Although not a subscriber to your very delightful magazine my sister has taken it for over a year, and we all look forward with eagerness to its arrival. The correspondence column is worthy of all notice, but not more so than the short stories and other items, such as "The Young Man and His Problem," "The Young Woman and Her Problem," the Philosopher and the War Pictures in the October issue were simply splendid. How many of the readers noticed the extraordinary resemblance of the Czar of Russia to our King? Isn't this war a dreadful thing? And how many brave men sacrifice their lives. Let us earnestly hope that it will soon be over, and the countries again enjoying peace and prosperity. In my home town the women folk have formed a branch of the Red Cross Society, and are making articles most needed for the soldiers. This being my first attempt at writing to the club I do not wish to make it too lengthy. Those who care to write will find my address with the editor.

"Florence Nightingale."

Sorry for All Concerned.

Arden, Man., Oct. 6, 1914.

Dear Editor—I have been a silent reader of your paper for a long while and could not until now pluck up courage to write. I enjoy your paper very much, especially the Correspondence Pages. I come now to ask if any of the Correspondence readers would write a few lines to a lonely girl. I will answer all letters received at once. I have not seen anybody's letter expressing his opinion on the war. I have heard several times people say that they were glad Germany was being beaten. What Canadian is not? But would it not be better to have this war settled by arbitration than by war? How many lonely sisters and wives this war has made. I am as sorry for the German soldiers as for the British because they are human, not as some people think inhuman. Will not some other reader express his opinion, for everybody has his own thoughts. Anybody writing will find my address with the editor. I will sign myself

Henpecked Husbands.

British Columbia, Oct. 19, 1914.

Dear Editor—I have read The Western Home Monthly for quite a while, especially the Correspondence Page, but never thought of writing, but that letter from "Wee Willie" ought to arouse most anyone. Yes, "Wee Willie," I read your letter on "Women's Votes" and "Henpecked Husbands," and I quite agree with "Manitoba Pearl." Women's votes are needed here just as much as they are in the Old Country. A woman works for her family, indoors, and as a drudge and gets very poor pay too. Why shouldn't she get a vote just as much as some drunken old sot of a man who has wasted his brains at the bar? Why shouldn't women get a vote? She has to live under the laws after they are made, so why shouldn't she get a chance to say how they are to be made? I am no suffragette, but I don't like to see my sex brow-beaten. If a woman had a vote saloons would be few and far between. Women have to stand a drunken husband coming home and abusing them, and yet he gives the vote that keeps that awful curse in power. I'm thankful none of our family touch liquor. Then you go on to talk about henpecked husbands. I don't think I've ever seen such a creature as that. It's generally the woman that gets roosterpecked. A man that can't stand up for his own rights doesn't deserve to be pitied. I think he deserves all the henpecking he can stand. It might teach him not to be so babyish as to let a woman actually boss him. Most men think they're boss already. If you're single, as you say you are, you had better stay that way or you're liable to be one of those henpecked husbands.

Well so much for my opinion, and anyone who cares to write, my address is with the editor. I sign myself as

One Girl in B.C.

The Terror of Asthma comes like a thief in the night with its dreadful throttling, robbing its victim of breath. It seems beyond the power of human aid to relieve until one trial is made of that remarkable preparation, Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Then relief comes with a rush. Life becomes worth living, and, if the remedy be used persistently, the disease is put permanently to rout. Take no substitute.
