LEAF-N.B. Information Session and Informal Discussion: "Adoption: A Panel Discussion"

On Monday April 15 the National Exhibition Centre will host the sixth in a series of monthly information sessions organized by the Legal Education and Action Fund for Women of New Brunswick (LEAF-N.B.). How is adoption experienced by adopted children birth mothers and adoptive parents? What are the legal implications? Dominique Laundry adoptee and lawyer, Margaret Purves adoptee adoptive parent and social worker, Anne Doyle and Dorothy Frazier Health & Community Services, and a representative of the Local Birth Mothers Support Group will address these questions from personal experience. The information session and informal discussion will commence at 7:30 p.m.

The LEAF-N.B. series of educational and information sessions are of interest to anyone concerned with the effect of the law on women and with improving women's status. Take advantage of this opportunity to hear from New Brunswick women and participate in discussions on wide-ranging issues. Admission is free.

The National Exhibition Centre is located in downtown Fredericton at the corner of Queen and Carleton streets. For more information please call 453-3747.

Holocaust Lecture and Discussion Series "Nuremberg Trial: 50 Years After"

On Wednesday April 17, the National Exhibition Centre will host the last in a series of weekly lectures and discussions relating to the Holocaust. Commencing at 7:30 p.m., Prof. Thomas Kuttner, Faculty of Law, U.N.B. will discuss the significance of the Nuremberg Trials in relation to the prosecution of war criminals since the Holocaust.

Please note lecture date change: Previous date was Tuesday April 9. New date is Wednesday April 17.

The series is presented in conjunction with the exhibit, James Friedman: 12 Nazi Concentration Camps, Color Photographs. Motivated by his Jewish heritage to make a personal connection to the Holocaust, James Friedman traveled to camp sites in Austria, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Poland, and West Germany. He saw the horrors remembered from post-war black-and-white photographs, but everyday life in what have become well-tended and well-attended tourist attractions. The exhibit is presented by the Visual Studies Workshop, Rochester, New York.

Located in downtown Fredericton, at the corner of Queen and Carleton streets, the N.E.C. is open daily (except Mondays), 12 noon to 5 p.m. Admission is free. For more information, call 453-3747.

DR. STEVEN TURNER (HISTORY): THE RESEARCH IMPERATIVE: WHY DID UNIVERSITIES FORSAKE TEACHING?

Until the eighteenth century, European universities were essentially corporations devoted to teaching. It was the German universities that pioneered and institutionalized the idea of "research" as a university function; the "research imperative". The modern university was born from the widespread emulation of this German model.

Dr. Turner argues that this episode in educational reform reflected deep changes in European high culture, while the historians' debate over it offer a voyeuristic glimpse into shifting fashions of historical interpretation among that odd clan. This lecture reveals all! Light refreshments will be served.

GRADUATE STUDENTS SHARE RESEARCH WITH PUBLIC

Members of the public are invited to experience the diversity of research conducted by students in the course of their graduate studies at the University of New Brunswick in a special forum on April 16 and 17.

"Over 20 graduate students will present papers and posters on research," says Michael Lamoureux, who is co-chairing the Fourth Annual Graduate Student Association Conference on Student Research along with Mimi Cormier. Paper and poster topics range from how economic agendas affect elementary school curriculum development to exploration techniques for identifying mineral sources, factors affecting the number of children women will bear, and excerpts from a Jazz Bicycle Ghost Story.

The activities get under way in the Wu Conference Centre on UNB's Fredericton campus on Tuesday, April 16, with an opening ceremony at 7 p.m., followed by two guest speakers. At 7:20 p.m., Reavley Gair of the department of English at the Teaching Centre at UNB will give a talk on public speaking, which will include simulation games that help to point out the necessity of good communication skills. At 8:10 p.m., Anthony Smith of UNB's faculty of administration will speak on the importance of postgraduate education to the current economy and the skills that it provides for students. A reception, which begins at 9 p.m., will provide an opportunity to view poster presentations.

On Wednesday, April 17, presentations will run throughout the day, starting around 9 a.m. The public is invited to drop by any time to hear papers. A complete list of papers and posters is available from the GSA office, by telephone at 453-4700 or by e-mail at gsa@unb.ca.

"These presentations represent a great opportunity for both the audience and the students," Mr. Lamoureux adds. "The audience can sample current research in a wide variety of areas." The students giving presentations get a chance to demonstrate their ability to communicate concepts and ideas. Anyone interested in graduate work might find the presentations of especial interest.

The UNB Graduate Student Association and the university administration have provided financial assistance for the Fourth Annual GSA Conference.

Note to media: A schedule and abstracts of presentations are available on request. Please contact Joyce Cameron at 453-4793 for copies.

TALK WILL FOCUS ON THE EFFECTS OF ROADS AND FOREST MANAGEMENT PRACTICES ON BEARS

The impact of roads and forest management practices on bears in Fundy Park is the subject of a public talk at the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton on Friday, April 12.

SCIENCE FAIR AT AITKEN CENTRE, APRIL 13

Everyone is encouraged to visit the 24th New Brunswick Science Fair on Saturday, April 13, in the Aitken Centre on the University of New Brunswick's Fredericton campus.

There is no charge to view the 100 or so exhibits created by 250 inventive junior and senior high school students province wide. Between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., they will be on hand to demonstrate and explain their entries. Subjects can range from fermenting root beer to a space vessel to recovering gold from electronic scrap.

Nearly $20,000 in prizes will be awarded for the best exhibits in each category at the awards ceremony, which will begin at 3 p.m. The public is invited to attend. Four grand prize winners will each receive free transportation to the national science fair in North Bay, Ont. Among the other prizes are several entrance scholarships for UNB and l'Université de Moncton, as well as cash awards and medals.

Further information may be obtained from Israel Ungar, UNB's dean of science, at 453-4586.

WORKSHOP HELPS ADULTS MAKE TRANSITION TO UNIVERSITY STUDY

A one-day workshop on Saturday, May 4, will address the concerns of adults who are considering university study.

The Transition to Learning Workshop will run from 8:30 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. at the Wu Conference Centre on the Fredericton campus of the University of New Brunswick. The event is cosponsored by UNB and St. Thomas University. Admission to the workshop is free; however, pre-registration is required by April 26. Registration forms may be obtained from UNB's department of extension and summer session by telephone at 453-4646 or by fax at 453-3572.

Workshop participants will receive practical tips and advice from information sessions and small group discussions on a range of topics including study skills, financial aid, career counselling, and an introduction to the UNB library system. Lunch is provided along with the opportunity to meet and talk with other participants, workshop resource people and adults who have already made the transition to university study. For more information, contact UNB at 453-4646 or STU at 452-0532.
